BOMB REPLY TO RACKET WAR

MRS. M'CORMICK BIDS DEFIANCE TO DRY LEAGUE

Won't Submit to Its Tyranny, She Says.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee for senator, accused the Anti-Saloon league tonight of an attack on popular government, the bill of rights, and the principle of majority rule.

She declared the onslaught of the league upon the Illinois wet and dry referendum is a denial of the right to petition the government as established by Magna Charta 700 and more years ago and guaranteed in the constitution of the United States.

Mrs. McCormick said the liquor question itself is now overshadowed by the issue the league has projected into the campaign of whether America shall "bow to unofficial dictators' or shall seek to solve the prohibition problem on constitutional lines.

"We are going to get back to the constitution and stay there," the candidate said before audiences at Bloomington this afternoon and at Peoria tonight. "We are not to be diverted from our adherence to the law and the constitution by any despotism of denunciation."

League Backs Mrs. O'Neill.

Last week the Anti-Saloon league called on drys to ignore the Illinois referendum and indorsed Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, dry independent. The W. C. T. U. and six allied women's organization yesterday took the opposite course and decided to campaign to roll up the dry vote on the liquor referendum, making no choice of candidates.

Mrs. McCormick is pledged to abide by the results of the referendum. In her address she pointed out that Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, author of the 5 and 10 law and floor leader of the league in the senate, and Senator Thomas F. Walsh of Montana, a pillar of the 18th amendment, announced months ago they would abide by a referendum vote in their states.

"Will the Anti-Saloon league," she said, "say to these field marshals of prohibition that they are traitors and hucksters because they recognize the loyalty and the American justice in the referendum?"

Defies Anti-Saloon League.

"Although the liquor problem during the last ten years has become an issue more vexing than any other in our country," Mrs. McCormick said in opening her speech here, "it is less important than another issue which has been raised in Illinois within the last few days. That issue is whether we shall maintain the right of the people to petition the government. It involves the basic American principle of majority rule.

"It presents the question as to whether, in fact, we are to proceed toward a solution of the liquor question along legal and constitutional lines clearly laid down for us, or whether we shall bow to unofficial dictators.

"More than seven centuries ago at Runnymede, King John of England signed the Magna Charta, which gave to the English the right to petition their government for redress of grievances. That document was a pioneer charter of political liberty. The bill of rights in our own constitution reaffirmed the principle of right to petition, and for almost a century and a half the people of the United States have pointed proudly to that guarantee as one of the safeguards of this democracy.

Question Again Raised.

"It seems strange indeed that here in Illinois in the year 1930 we should be called upon to debate the question of the right of our citizens to petition their government. It has been falsely asserted that I assisted in initiating the November referendum in Illinois which will include the question as to whether the 18th amendment of the United States' constitution shall be repealed.

"While it is not important, I wish to say now that I did not participate in the movement to place this referendum before the people. I had no knowledge of this plan other than through newspaper reports which were available to all other citizens. Several hundred thousand citizens have signed this petition for a referendum and it is to be placed upon a ballot at the approaching election.

"It is not material whether the proposal for this referendum originated with wets or drys. The fact which we must face is that a large number of citizens have proceeded under their constitutional rights and under their rights specifically provided by the laws

RESTORE ORDER IN ARGENTINA WITH IRON HAND

Army Tightens Grip After Night of Riot.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 9.—Former President Yrigoyen, who was placed under arrest today and taken from the infantry barracks at La Plata, where he has been ill since he resigned last Saturday, is still being held in the naval base hospital. Later he will be placed on the warship Belgrano. The destination of the war vessel has not been made known.

GEN. JOSE URIBURU

Elpidio Gonzalez, former minister of the interior, was arrested tonight. Most of the other members of Yrigoyen's cabinet and many of his party followers are already detained, and tomorrow a record probably will be established with the simultaneous confinement of the former president, vice president and entire cabinet, as well as the most prominent members of the party. Former Foreign Minister Oyanharte has fled and is on his way to Uruguay. Hector del Valle, former Yrigoyenist senator, arrived in that country today. Most of the arrests were made on charges of graft.

Authorities in Full Control.

The capital was calm today following last night's rioting, the authorities having complete control of the situation.

The peso today improved by approximately 3.5 points to the dollar. It is also understood that representatives of foreign and local banks called on the minister of finance, offering him any amount of money he might require. These circumstances are interpreted here as meaning that the business men of Argentina are generally favorable to the new administration.

Early reports that two men, alleged to have been the leaders of last night's disturbances, were publicly executed today in the Plaza de Mayo, were denied late tonight by Gen. Augustine Justo, commander of the national military forces.

Strengthen Martial Law.
[By Wireless Telephone.]
[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 10.—[Special.]—Rapidly consolidating its position and prepared to meet any counter revolutionary movement that may be launched by the supporters of the deposed President Yrigoyen, the provisional government of Gen. Uriburu today took a number of steps designed to facilitate the country's quickest possible return to normal conditions. Although there were ominous rumors of counter revolutionary preparations in the capital and in the provinces, there were no indications of imminent disorders.

A new decree strengthening the state of martial law throughout the country was issued today simultaneously with the appointment of Gen. Augustine Justo as inspector general of the army and commander of the Buenos Aires garrison. Military authorities took absolute control in several of the nation's fourteen provinces. Gen. Justo proceeded immediately to fortify the government's position in the capital.

Order Populace to Disarm.

The government today repeated its order to the populace to turn in all arms on pain of severe punishment. With the outbreak of last night's rioting, in which 7 were killed and 56 wounded, thousands of civilians rushed to the arsenals to obtain weapons. The government is anxious to have these arms returned for fear their possession in the hands of the populace may lead to trouble. Spokesmen for the government declared it is quite able to meet all emergencies and does not have to rely upon any military support from civilians.

While outwardly Buenos Aires presented the picture of an armed camp, with troops marching in the streets, airplanes flying overhead, government buildings heavily guarded and barricaded, and all strategic points in the city occupied by armed forces, the people were quiet and orderly.

Lay Riot to "Mistake."

Despite other reports to the contrary, government officials insisted that last night's rioting was a result of a "misunderstanding" between two groups of government supporters, who by mistake opened fire upon each other.

In insisting that the rioting was the

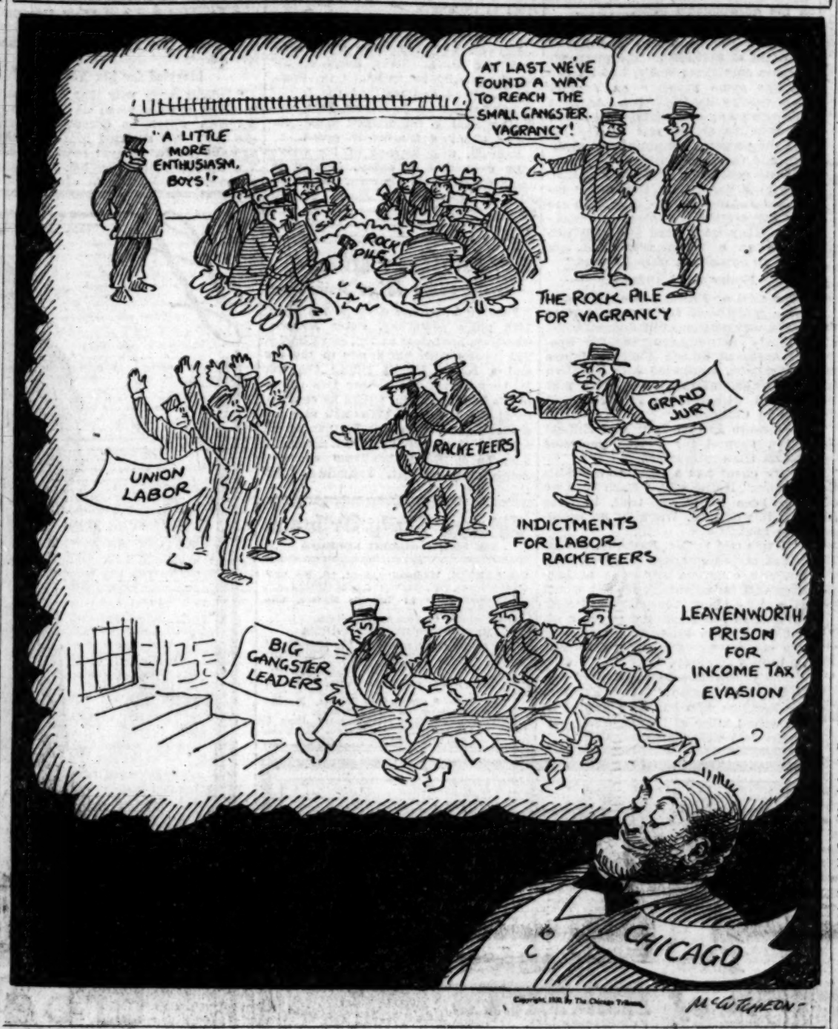
CHICAGO'S DREAM



POLICE TO PAY FOR HOBO'S LAST RIDE BACK HOME

The eight members of the Brookfield police force, from Chief Edward O'Connor to the last rookie patrolman, were downcast last night—on account of a hobo's death.

The hobo, Herman Eller, 26 years old, had ridden a freight into the town six weeks ago in search of work. He had left a destitute wife and four hungry children in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Eller had found only promises of jobs when last Saturday there came a letter which swayed him to return to Cheyenne with all speed. His wife wrote that the authorities had decided to place the family in the poorhouse within a week.

A Brookfield policeman found Eller that night on the Burlington railroad tracks, badly crushed by the train from which he had fallen. When Chief O'Connor read the letter in his pocket, he passed the hat.

Yesterday Mrs. Eller received $20 and last night came the news that her husband was dead in the Cook county hospital. The Brookfield police have pledged themselves to pay Eller's last fare home.

A Naturalist Meets Some Chicago Fauna

Reports that the Rev. J. S. Bullington, chaplain of the Manhattan State hospital, Ward's island, New York City, an amateur naturalist of note, yesterday afternoon captured an orange tip butterfly (euchloe cardamines) on the lake front island off Grant park, seem to be greatly exaggerated. South Park Policeman George Granat, an authority on the flora and fauna of the place, says it was not a butterfly, and that, anyway, Mr. Bullington didn't have his net.

Mr. Bullington had arrived here Sunday, stopping at the Roosevelt hotel, 1152 South Wabash avenue, en route to Milwaukee. A bit timid because of stories he had heard of bandits and gangster shootings, Mr. Bullington did not venture beyond the confines of his hostelry and the loop. He had bought bus passage and intended to leave for Milwaukee last night.

He Observes Nature's Beauties.

For a long time he had been desirous of visiting the Adler planetarium situated at the north end of the island. This he did yesterday afternoon, viewing the constellations in their swing across the heavens, beholding Venus, now the evening star, threading her way close to Spica, and Mars in Gemini.

Harkening, even vicariously, to the music of the spheres, inclines a man to keener appreciation of nature's beauties. Wherefore, departing from the planetarium for an excursion afoot through the dells and dingles of the mile and a half square island, Mr. Bullington observed with zest the various manifestations of nature's handiwork—here, flitting from twig to twig, the rice bunting or bobolink, distant relative of the grosbeak; there, mayhap, the curlew sand piper; whilst underfoot the demure asters nodded at the Michaelmas daisies and overhead the wild fowl flew.

H'ist! An Interruption.

'Twas diverting, indeed, and Mr. Bullington was scrutinizing with his glass the autumnal coloring of a leaf of an excellent specimen of the dogwood tree when an interruption occurred:

"Stick 'em up. This is a h'ist."

There were two of them. Each had a gun. One pinned Mr. Bullington's arms behind him. The other relieved him of $295—all his cash. Then they told him to beat it. He ran back to the planetarium and into Patrolman Granat, to whom he related his experiences.

Now the only approach to the island, which is separated from the mainland by a quarter of a mile of chilly lake water, is a pedestrian and motor vehicle bridge. Patrolman Granat hastily summoned other members of the South Park force, a guard was placed at the bridge, and a dozen policemen began beating the underbrush of the island.

They finally turned up, hiding under a heavy growth of shrubbery, a young fellow who said he was Paul Bown, 22 years old, and who lived at the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue. He has a record, the police say. He confessed to the holdup, they also say, carrying about $27 [perhaps part of the swag] in his shoe, and named his companion, who is still believed to be hiding on the island with the major part of the money.

So this morning, Mr. Bullington, having borrowed from Patrolman Granat the price of a couple of meals and a hotel room, will renew his research work amidst the flora and fauna of our lake front beauty spot.

2,060,444 Britons Jobless; Highest Total Since 1921

DRIVE SHAFT TEARS HOLE IN SIGHTSEEING BUS; 4 PASSENGERS DIE

SANGERSHAUSEN, Germany, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Death, in the form of a flailing drive shaft, came up through the floor of a sightseeing bus on a highway near here today and claimed four lives. The shaft broke while the machine was going at full speed and tore a hole in the floor. The four who died fell through this and were crushed under the wheels.

Dry Leaders Near Defeat in Michigan

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Two militant dry leaders in congress, Representatives Louis C. Cramton and Grant M. Hudson, are facing probable defeat in today's Republican primary on the face of incomplete returns. Hudson is almost certainly beaten; Cramton's fight is close.

Senator James Couzens won renomination over former Gov. Chase M. Osborn, a staunch dry who had full support of all the dry organizations. Couzens had a lead of 51,000 in incomplete returns.

Couzens Routs Osborn.

Returns from 1,645 precincts out of 3,317 in the state gave Couzens 179,557 votes and Osborn 127,861.

In the Seventh congressional district Jesse P. Wolcott, who made prohibition an issue, was leading Representative Cramton, a dry. Returns from 161 of the 194 precincts gave Wolcott 21,320 votes and Cramton 21,170.

In the Sixth congressional district Hudson, a dry, is having the battle of his political career with Seymour Person. Person had the solid backing of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform as well as the wet voters in virtually half of Detroit.

Detroit May Put Person Over.

The outstate gave Hudson an early lead, but those parts of Detroit and Wayne county lying in the district are expected to give Person the victory. Of a probable vote in the entire district of about 275,000, Detroit and Wayne county will cast more than 200,000.

Returns from 113 precincts out of 690, none from Detroit, give Hudson 13,513. Person 10,485.

In the gubernatorial primary Wilbur F. Brucker, attorney general, was leading former Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck. Returns from 1,685 precincts out of 3,313 in the state gave Brucker 204,171 and Groesbeck 134,865. Judge Edward J. Jeffries trailed with 23,283.

MURPHY ELECTED MAYOR

Frank Murphy, former judge of the Recorder's court, was elected mayor of Detroit today in one of the most keenly fought contests the city has ever experienced. With only 100 of the 852 precincts of the city to be heard from, Murphy had a lead of approximately 10,000 ballots over the recalled chief executive, Charles Bowles, and, while this plurality might be cut down slightly, Murphy appeared as a certain winner.

George Engel ran in third place, nearly 9,000 ballots behind Bowles, while former Mayor John W. Smith trailed with less than 20,000 ballots. The collapse of Smith, the most vigorous campaigner Detroit has known, and always a formidable vote getter, was the surprise of the election. He did not cut Murphy in the lower east side, as had been expected, and came through the Negro wards leading Bowles eight and nine to one.

OTHER PRIMARIES

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—John G. Winant wins in three cornered race for G. O. P. nomination for governor.

COLORADO.—George H. Shaw leading William V. Hodges for the Republican nomination for senator and Edward P. Costigan ahead in three way Democratic contest.

ARIZONA.—George W. Hunt, six times governor, led a field of four in a race for the Democratic nomination to that office.

WASHINGTON.—Casual interest in primaries for congress, state judiciary and minor offices.

Financial Leaders Recommend Bonds

Hack Wilson is a champion. He hits baseballs farther than any one else. He is ace high in his specialty. Who is the Hack Wilson of finance? Some would say that it's the Secretary of the Treasury. Others might insist that the president of the Bankers' Association is it. Others recognize partners in the nation's highest banking house as outstanding.

Chicago has bankers to meet any of those tests. One was urgently requested to become Secretary of the Treasury. Another is said to have been offered a partnership in the nation's biggest banking house. And five Chicagoans are ex-presidents of the American Bankers' Association.

Our reason for mentioning all this is that it is the consensus among the financial leaders of Chicago that bonds are more attractive for investment now than in any time in years. The bankers are backing their wisdom with their money. Within a year Chicago banks have bought a hundred million dollars worth of bonds. Now is the time to talk over your investments with a good investment house.

SWANSON ACTS ON M'GOORTY'S CALL TO BATTLE

All Agencies to Join to Protect Public.

Bomb 3d Beauty Shop

A bomb was exploded last last night at the rear of a beauty shop at 509 South Crawford avenue. Windows were broken, but otherwise the damage was negligible. It was the third bomb within a week against beauty shops which have advertised price cuts. Police believe the purpose of the bombers is to force independent shops to join a racketeer organization.

State's Attorney Swanson announced last evening that he would call on all available agencies to coöperate with his staff in a war against racketeers such as was ordered yesterday by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court in a special charge to the grand jury.

The prosecutor announced that he would probably assign one of his veteran prosecutors—either Henry Ayers or Charles J. Mueller—to coöperate with the grand juries and such organizations as may present racketeering evidence.

"Secret 6" to Give Evidence.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce as well as the so-called "secret six"—an organization formed to fight crime and racketeering—is expected by the prosecutor to supply considerable evidence. Col. Randolph and the members of his committee, who have shielded their identity from the public so as to make their actions more effective, will be given an opportunity to submit to the jury all evidence in their possession.

"This is the time for all organizations to come forward with facts and evidence," said Prosecutor Swanson. "The grand jury doors will be open to any one with evidence."

McGoorty Tells of Danger.

The charge of Chief Justice McGoorty was unexpected and was hailed by the various law enforcing agencies as a move to clean up the crime situation in Chicago.

"The great metropolitan area of Chicago is threatened with serious danger," said Judge McGoorty to the jurors. "Predatory interests, by use of coercive methods, including every form of violence, are seeking domination and control of trades unions and business.

"Manifestly, I refer to racketeers who boldly challenge the principles of free government. During the last week editorials upon this menace have appeared in two of Chicago's leading newspapers. These editorials admirably set forth the situation. [One editorial quoted by the judge in his charge appeared in THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 2.]

Appeals for Law and Order.

"Can it continue to be true that the forces of law and order in this community will not combine to render to workers and business effective aid and protection?

"A New York grand jury has recently described racketeers as 'a power which, for the time being, is greater than government itself.' The public press informs us that:

"'Gangster activities are no longer confined to the sale of rum, to the peddling of narcotics. Gunmen have muscled their way into industry—many lines of industry—and into sports.

"From scattered sources comes evidence that they have acquired control over huge segments of American business. Their strangle hold on certain lines of trade—a grip maintained by the terror of tradesmen who dare not resist—costs the American public three billion dollars a year, according to evidence submitted to the League of Industrial Democracy.

Consumer Also Pays.

"This tribute—the racketeers' levy for permitting people to remain in business—is passed along to the consumer in increased prices.

"Truly, if this community is ever going to rid itself of racketeering, now is the time to act. You, gentlemen of the jury, are the most powerful body in the state for the purposes of investigation and bringing these gangsters before the bar of justice.

"This court most urgently requests you to invite representatives of labor unions and business, who are thus threatened, to appear and disclose, under the protection of the law and the secrecy of the grand jury room, such facts as will lead to ultimate conviction and punishment of those who rule by violence and injustice.

"Through you, let the call go forth to our citizens to organize for determined and relentless warfare, by every lawful method, against those who seek to erect a supergovernment in the metropolitan area of Chicago.

"I hereby charge you to initiate an investigation that succeeding grand juries will continue, supplemented by all the forces and orderly processes of law, supported by an aroused, and, let us hope, organized public opinion.

"Let Chicago, through you, take the leadership among the great cities of the United States, in fearlessly, and unceasingly fighting these racketeers, so long as the rights of labor and industry are threatened."

Labor Racketeering Inquiry.

The racketeering field at which the investigation is expected to first hit is that within the labor unions. It has been reported from time to time and brought out in some court proceedings that such men as George ["Red"] Barker, William J. ["Three Fingered Jack"] White, ex-convicts, have forced their way into many of the unions. Barker and White have admitted in court proceedings against them for carrying concealed weapons that they are business agents for branches of the teamsters' unions.

It has been charged that Chicago and Cook county have been paying heavy tribute to five or six such men, who are listed by the Chicago Crime commission as public enemies and who have perfected an organization to racketeer, bootleg, and gamble. Al Capone has been described as the big boss of the racketeering organization, and he has such assistants as his brother, Ralph; Barker, White, Danny Stanton, Klondike O'Donnell, and others from the old army of bootleggers.

Randolph Approves Move.

"The action of Judge McGoorty is very gratifying and shows that the law enforcing officials are waging war on all fronts," said Col. Randolph in a statement. "We expect good results from an investigation."

Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the Builders' association of Chicago, said that such an investigation would be a boon to the building industry and would "uproot persons of ill repute who have forced their way into the trade union movement."

"Judge John P. McGoorty has performed a courageous and timely judicial function in instructing the grand jury to take cognizance of the racketeer situation in the metropolitan rear of Chicago," said Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission. "For years, not only the Chicago crime commission, but industrial groups directly threatened by the operations of vicious criminals who have been endeavoring to seize control of legitimate labor unions, have pointed out the need for determined action."

State's Attorney Swanson will confer with G. F. Slaughter, foreman of the grand jury, and the other members this morning to outline a plan of action.

Indorsement of Judge McGoorty's anti-racketeer campaign was voted last night by 125 delegates at a meeting of the Cook county council of Lions' clubs, representing forty clubs with a membership of 2,000, at the Stevens hotel.

CHURCH GROUP WRITES REPORT ON CRIME QUIZ

A report on the crime inquiry committee of the Chicago Church federation is being prepared and will be presented to the federation's commission on political action on Sept. 25. This was announced yesterday afternoon at the close of the committee's session at the La Salle hotel by Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the federation.

LYLE JAILS TWO HOODLUMS AGAIN; CITES BONDSMAN

Judge Takes Action on Fake Bail Charge.

Two gangsters, Izzy Alderman and Joe Condi, who have achieved distinction as the principals in a case which is intended to demonstrate whether notorious Chicago hoodlums may be imprisoned under the state vagrancy act, were back in jail last night.

Meanwhile new trouble for gangland appeared when Judge John H. Lyle adopted the suggestion of Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and cited the professional bondsman who late Monday night had brought about the temporary release of the two hoodlums.

Finds Bond Is Worthless.

Prosecutor Rathbun said the bond on its face showed it was worthless. Judge Lyle unhesitatingly pronounced the bond fraudulent. Both officials condemned the action of Municipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson in approving the faulty bond at a late night hour in his home without consulting the bond department maintained by the court to insure the validity of bonds in criminal cases.

"The professional bondsman, with his fake bonds, is one of the most useful tools of the professional gangster," declared Judge Lyle. "Perhaps we can serve justice further here by calling in this bondsman, exposing him, and setting a precedent which may deter other bondsmen from scurrying to the aid of killers, ex-convicts, bandits and other hoodlums."

Resume Hearing Today.

While he is pursuing the investigation of the bond, which was signed by Gaetano Anselmo on property at 1110 North Austin boulevard, Judge Lyle directed that Alderman and Condi, who had enjoyed a scant 18 hours of liberty, be returned to jail. They will be held, the judge ordered, until the hearing is resumed this afternoon.

The case involving Alderman and Condi arose from their arrest, on Sept. 1, by Lieut. Frank Johnson in connection with the investigation of the murder of Alfred Lingle, which is in charge of Prosecutor Rathbun and Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson.

The importance of the Alderman-Condi case was emphasized by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock yesterday when he announced that Lieut. Johnson has been cited for creditable mention and extra compensation of $300 a year for arresting the two hoodlums.

The gangsters were defiant under questioning. An examination of their records showed Alderman had evaded extradition to New York on a charge of murder and that Condi had been convicted for robbery and had served a sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary for narcotic violations.

Two Courts Involved.

Meanwhile Attorney Benjamin Feldman had sought a writ of habeas corpus for the two men before Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court. The chief justice notified Mr. Rathbun he would dismiss the writ if the men were booked and Attorney Rathbun then directed that they be charged with vagrancy. The papers were presented before Judge Lyle, who ordered an immediate trial on the vagrancy charge. He found both men guilty and sentenced them to six months in the Bridewell.

Chief Justice McGoorty then protested that the men had been under his jurisdiction and that Judge Lyle had no right to try them, and after several hearings the chief justice freed the two gangsters. No sooner had they reached the street, however, than Investigator Roche's detectives rearrested them on new charges of vagrancy. The two were then freed on the questionable bond.

Prosecutor Rathbun informed Judge Lyle that the bondsman had put a valuation of $140,000 on the property, whereas only three weeks ago he had put the same property on another bond, valuing it at $105,000. Anselmo is also on many other criminals' bonds, Mr. Rathbun stated, and he declared that the property scheduled for Alderman and Condi is mortgaged.

"With conditions in Chicago as they have been exposed in this case," remarked Judge Lyle, "it is easy to see why our streets are filled with hoodlums. They were freed yesterday afternoon on a technicality and last night on bonds that were no good."

Foster Trial Delayed.

The trial of Frank Foster, gunman under indictment for the murder of Lingle, was postponed by Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday until Oct. 20. Special Assistant State's Attorney James E. McShane, associated with Rathbun and Roche, informed the court that material witnesses to Foster's guilt were in California.

Attorneys Harold Levy and Emmet Byrne, counsel for Foster, protested against the continuance.

"My client has a right to meet his accusers," Byrne said. "Each time we have been ready for trial, but the state has delayed. We want an immediate trial.

"I was told by Mr. Rathbun, the assistant state's attorney, who is also a TRIBUNE attorney, and who is handling this investigation, that it would be a long, long time before Foster got a trial. I'm beginning to think so. But I'd like to know who's running this community—the officials or THE TRIBUNE'S attorney?"

The prosecutors received word yesterday that James "Red" Forsyth, the hoodlum who has been hunted as the actual killer of Lingle, would surrender at 9 o'clock this morning.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Beset with a variety of charges, including kidnaping, bigamy, and contempt of court, Clifford Farwell, who on Monday began a simple court action to adopt the illegitimate child of his wife, yesterday fled from the courtroom of Superior Judge Gentzel, taking with him his wife and the baby, Dolores Irene March, 18 months old. The cause of his sudden departure was the appearance of another wife, to whom he is still married, and their two children.

Farwell and his bride, Mrs. Helen March Farwell, 19 years old, an artist's model, had not been located last night by deputy sheriffs. Reports that they were en route to Havana, Cuba, by airplane were not confirmed. Such was the unusual ending of a case which Judge Gentzel declared was the most complicated mixup he had ever tried to untangle.

Grandmother Wants Baby.

Farwell and his wife were married last June. They lived at 330 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park. Mrs. Farwell had testified the father of her baby, born in March, 1929, was Walter Real, a commercial artist, for whom she had frequently posed.

Farwell, who learned of his wife's baby only last Saturday, decided to adopt the child as his own. But Mrs. Ella M. Novak, 519 South Throop street, Mrs. Farwell's mother, who had cared for the baby for the last five months, refused to give it up.

Through Attorney Jay J. McCarthy they obtained a writ of habeas corpus charging Mrs. Novak with being unfit to care for the baby. The child was taken from Mrs. Novak and given to the mother. All appeared in court yesterday morning with the expectation that the dispute would be settled so that the adoption proceedings might be started. Real was present to testify in behalf of the young married couple.

Suddenly the hearing broke up in disorder. Farwell had caught a glimpse of a woman entering the courtroom. She was leading two small children by her hands. Farwell drew his wife aside, and with the baby, Dolores, they hurriedly left.

The cause of Farwell's consternation came forward. She identified herself as Mrs. Catherine Farwell, 21 years old, of 348 West 37th place. Farwell had deserted her and their two children last April, she said. The children are Rudolph, 4 years old, and Charlotte, 3.

Married for Six Years.

"I don't know why that man wants to adopt a baby when he has two of his own which he doesn't support," she said. "I married him six years ago and we have never been divorced. We were working together at a summer resort in Wisconsin when he met this Helen March. He borrowed money from me so he could take her around, and on April 1 he left me and went away with her."

The judge looked puzzled. Attorney McCarthy was more puzzled. The hearing was continued for a few hours while a search was started for Farwell, his wife, and the baby.

Telegram Is Received.

When the hearing was resumed in the afternoon Attorney McCarthy produced a telegram sent by Farwell. It had been dispatched from Glen View and read as follows:

"Leaving from Curtiss-Reynolds airport with wife and child en route to Havana. Checks will follow. Don't let newspapers have story."

Attorney McCarthy explained that the reference to check meant his fee which was to have been paid that afternoon. Officials at the airport last night denied that any one had chartered a plane during the day. The Farwells are believed to be in hiding somewhere in Chicago.

At the request of Attorney Barnie Frenkel, who had been retained by Mrs. Novak, an order was entered awarding the custody of the child to Mrs. Novak. The judge cited Farwell and his wife for contempt of court and deputies were sent out to search for them. The judge promised six months in jail for both.

Trails Robber 2 Miles and Gets Him Arrested

Passing a butcher shop at 714 West 14th place yesterday, Peter Madens, who lives next door at 712, saw Charles Yakoubans with his hands in the air and a Negro bandit rifling the till. Madens trailed the robber two miles, to the Union station, where he encountered Sergt. Harold O'Connell and his flivver squad from Des Plaines street station. They arrested the Negro, who said he is Percy Williams of 1302 South Morgan street. Yakoubans identified him.

COUNTY G. O. P. LAUNCHES FIGHT FOR DRY REPEAL

Calls for U. S. Convention to Revise Constitution.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Going one step further than either of the major parties in Illinois has gone heretofore, the Cook county Republican organization yesterday pledged itself to initiate in the next general assembly an effort to meet the prohibition problem by means of a national constitutional convention. This was the outstanding plank in the platform adopted by the Republicans in their county convention for the nomination of candidates for six vacancies in the Superior and Circuit courts. Other emphasized planks included condemnation of the proposed amendment to the revenue article of the state constitution and a demand for the electrification of railway terminals in Chicago. The previously announced judicial slate was approved after a brief tilt against it.

In view of the actions of the Republican and Democratic state conventions in reference to the liquor problem, the plank of the Cook county Republicans on this subject was awaited with interest. It was a surprise in that it went far beyond the state meeting in the definiteness of its proposal.

Plank Adopted by G. O. P.

The new plank on this subject reads as follows:

"In order that the question of prohibition repeal may be brought squarely before the congress of the United States, the Republican party of Cook county pledges the introduction into the next general assembly of Illinois, under Article V. of the constitution of the United States, of an act petitioning the congress of the United States to call a national constitutional convention to repeal Article XVIII. and it further pledges the support of such an act by the members of the general assembly from Cook county according to the referendum vote of their districts."

The national constitution provides two methods for its amendment. The one usually discussed has been by the adoption of an amendment by a two-thirds vote in congress followed by ratification by three-fourths of the states through their legislatures or through state conventions.

Second Method Advocated.

The second method, now advocated by the Cook county Republicans, is described in the constitution itself as follows:

"The congress . . . on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states shall call a convention for proposing amendments which . . . shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of this constitution when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states or by conventions in three-fourths thereof as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress."

Recently, it has been reported, there has been a steady growth in favor for this second method of approach to the amending task. Many authorities have contended that it would be more speedy than seeking to obtain repeal action from two-thirds of both houses of congress. It was because of this argument of time that Chairman B. W. Snow and the resolutions committee headed by Charles E. Peace favored the alternative plan.

General Prohibition Plank.

The general plank on prohibition adopted by the convention said:

"The Republican party was founded on the basis of individual liberty.

"As Republicans we are unalterably opposed to all forms of sumptuary legislation which give power to either minority or majority to regulate the personal habits of any class of citizens so long as such habits do not deprive other citizens of their constitutional rights.

"Standing on this fundamental of Republicanism, the Republican party of Cook county has arranged for a statewide referendum vote on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, modification of the Volstead act and repeal of the Illinois prohibition act. This vote puts the whole question of prohibition and the statutes for its enforcement up to the voters of Illinois; and Republican candidates for the senate and house of representatives of the United States are pledged to vote in accordance with the referendum result in their respective districts."

Oppose Income Tax Amendment.

The Republican plank in reference to the revenue amendment to the state constitution—generally referred to as the income tax amendment—which goes to the voters for ratification in the November election, read as follows:

"Mounting taxes in Cook county carry a menace to every family. Instead of seeking, under any pretext, new forms of taxation, we demand that all expenses of public administration be limited to essential activities carried on with the most scrupulous economy consistent with the services actually required.

"We are opposed to the proposed amendment to the constitution of Illinois purporting to pave the way for a state income tax.

"So long as the constitutional requirement of reapportionment and equal representation is denied Cook county in the general assembly, we are opposed to any enlargement of the taxing power of a legislature in which we do not have full proportionate representation."

Demand for Electrification.

The plank for the electrification of railway terminals read:

"As an exhibit of the spirit of Chicago in connection with the coming Century of Progress exposition, we urge the completion at once of detailed plans and a start in the construction of a system of electrification of all railway terminals in Chicago."

The platform also declared in favor of the continued construction, from the proceeds of the gasoline tax, of radial highways in Chicago and the metropolitan area, and the application of the principle of grade separation. It also advocated approval of the women juror bills by the voters, the early completion of the lakes-gulf and St. Lawrence seaways, and the development of the forest preserve system.

Judicial Slate Is Named.

The judicial slate adopted, showing the vacancy for which each man was nominated and the expiration of each vacancy term was as follows:

Municipal Judge Howard W. Hayes for Comerford Superior court vacancy, 1934.

Municipal Judge John F. Haas for Ryner Circuit court vacancy, 1933.

There was a protracted protest against this slate from a group of country town precinct committeemen, who sought to substitute Allan J. Carter for Carnahan, the one country town man on the list. But the proposal was overwhelmed by the Chicago ward committeemen.

Hoffman Foes Are Defeated.

The protest was started by Edward A. Zimmerman of Wilmette, one of the leaders in the fight last April to oust Peter M. Hoffman, former sheriff, as boss of the New Trier district including the suburbs north of Evanston. The minority was said to be a combination of anti-Hoffman feeling with most of the Deneen minority in the convention.

HOOVER ACTS TO BAR IMMIGRANTS COMING FOR JOBS

Action Temporary; May Relieve Unemployment.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover took steps today to restrict immigration with a view to aiding the unemployment situation.

The President announced that the state department, through its consular agents abroad, would refuse visas to alien laborers seeking work in this country. The action will be taken under the authority of a section of the law which permits exclusion of immigrants who are liable to become a public charge.

Just how the scheme will operate was explained in a report submitted by Acting Secretary of State Joseph P. Cotton to the President and made public at the White House.

Denial May Be Temporary.

"In normal times an applicant for admission, if he appears to be an able-bodied person who means to work and has sufficient funds to support himself and those dependent on him until he gets to his destination in the United States, would be admitted without particular stress being placed on whether he has other means of support," said Mr. Cotton.

"In abnormal times, such as the present, where there is not any reasonable prospect of prompt employment for an alien laborer or artisan, the consular officer in the field to whom application for a visa is made will before issuing a visa have to pass judgment with particular care on whether the applicant may become a public charge, and if the applicant cannot convince the officer that it is not probable the visa will be refused.

"If the consular officer believes that the applicant may probably be a public charge at any time even during a considerable period subsequent to his arrival he must refuse the visa—although the applicant need not by such refusal lose the advantage of his priority of application and may get his visa when employment conditions again become normal."

Cites Case of Mexico.

It was pointed out that by enforcing the public charge and other sections of the law strictly against Mexican immigration the flow of labor from Mexico had been greatly reduced. This was done last year at the instance of the administration when agitation for legislation to restrict immigration from Mexico, it was feared, might interfere with friendly relations with that country. Similar steps have recently been taken in connection with Canadian immigration. Canada has imposed restrictions against American labor to meet its own unemployment situation.

President Hoover favored legislation for temporary restriction of immigration during the last session of congress, it was disclosed in Mr. Cotton's report, but this was not publicly known, and efforts of Representative Albert Johnson [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the house immigration committee, to rush emergency legislation through congress failed because of lack of support from house leaders.

Merger Manager Forecasts Increase in Car Earnings

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The future of the consolidated surface and elevated lines is forecast by Halsey, Stuart & Co., consolidation manager, in a brighter picture than has been the result for the transit system of any American city in the last 10 years.

At the fares fixed by the ordinance, which is the present schedule plus a 3 cent charge for a transfer from the surface lines to the elevated and a free transfer from the elevated lines, Halsey, Stuart & Co. predicts that the average return, for the next 10 years, will be 6.39 per cent. Heretofore, the surface lines have been among the leading earners of the nation's street car systems, but the elevated, operated separately, has not been on a profitable basis.

Future Earnings Forecast.

Operated separately last year, the combined gross earnings of the two systems were $84,506,280. Combined, Halsey, Stuart & Co. forecasts their earnings in 1931 at $85,817,000, which indicates a little more than normal growth. But with improved service by 1932, Halsey, Stuart indicates that the gross income will be increased to $90,781,000 and in 1933 to $95,816,000.

The figures for 1933 omit 76,000,000 riders who are expected by reason of the world's fair alone. If that number ride at an average of 7 cents each, it will boost the gross income of 1933 by $5,320,000 above the Halsey-Stuart estimate of $95,816,000. The forecast of gross earnings for 1934 is $98,813,000. For 1935 it is $102,229,000, with corresponding increases for each year until 1940 is reached, when the estimate is $121,648,000.

This is $35,831,000 more than is estimated for next year. The estimate is based partly on an increase in population, but the largest part of the increase can be attributed to improvement in service.

Bright Outlook for Dividends.

The forecast of net earnings applicable to bond interest and stock dividends is much more striking. Last year the net of the two companies operating separately, after operating charges and renewals had been paid, an allowance of $1,079,015 had been made for federal taxes and the city had been given $2,516,516 as compensation, was $13,491,903.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. forecasts that the corresponding net for 1931 will be $15,250,000, an increase of more than 12½ per cent. In 1932 the forecast is for $16,481,000 net, and in the World's Fair year, without considering the expected added traffic, the forecast is for $18,664,000.

According to the forecast, the net earnings will increase yearly to 1940, when the net will be $30,126,000, as compared with $13,491,903 last year. That is a boost of 123 per cent in net income. Halsey, Stuart & Co. has not included interest during construction and does not indicate in its proposed consolidation plan how much that interest would affect its figures.

Prediction Called Conservative.

Commenting upon the forecast, the report of the consolidation plan says:

"Following the infusion of new capital amounting to approximately $100,000,000 by the Chicago Surface Lines from 1907 to 1913, the total traffic on these lines increased from 520,000,000 to 800,000,000. The riding per capita for the same period increased from 248 to 329, or an average of 13.5 rides per capita per year. This increase in per capita riding attributed to new capital was 50 per cent above normal.

"It is believed, therefore, that the forecast of earnings given is ultra-conservative, for no increased riding per capita has been taken into account in spite of the fact that it is proposed to put in new capital amounting to approximately $300,000,000. On the basis of this forecast the expenditure of this sum is shown to be entirely justified."

Reply to Critics' Charges.

This information, compiled primarily for the benefit of investors, has unusual interest for the car riders, because during the referendum campaign for and against the transportation franchise the charge was frequently made that the new company was not obligated to spend $200,000,000 in extensions and improvements. It was added that if such a sum was expended car fares would be boosted to the limit.

No one denied that there will be a boost in fares. Halsey Stuart & Co. advocates an increase. It believes that the transit system should average more than 6.39 per cent on the investment in the first 10 years. In its report the company refers to this percentage and adds: "In no year will the company earn a return which, in view of the recent court decisions, can be considered just and reasonable."

ROTHMOOR COATS
and 3-piece suits

The new dress coats are soft-flowing, charming . . . . each expressing its own individuality, each almost lost and buried in lavish furs. The travel styles, as always, are hardy and brisk . . . glowing in Scotch woolens and deep northern furs. The suits . . . well, you'll have to see them . . . and do. It's worth while

BULLETIN.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 9.—(Special.)—With only 35 precincts missing from a total count of 632, the vote in the Maine election stood tonight:

For governor: Gardiner (R.), 82,216; Moran (D.), 65,479.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Republican leaders today were elated over the victory in yesterday's election in Maine, but the Democrats refused to be downhearted.

The Republicans apparently made good their prediction of a 30,000 majority for Representative Wallace H. White, their senatorial nominee. The Democrats found satisfaction in the fact that the majority for Gov. William T. Gardiner, Republican nominee for reelection, was only about 16,000 on the basis of incomplete returns. Gov. Gardiner won two years ago by 59,000, while the majority for President Hoover was 98,000. The majority for the Republican gubernatorial candidate in the last off year election in 1926 was about 20,000.

Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], chairman of the Republican national committee, expressed the gratification of the Republicans, while Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, was spokesman for the minority party.

Says Democrats Failed.

"Three lessons for the Democrats are furnished by the overwhelming Republican victory in Maine," said Senator Fess. "First, that efforts to capitalize, for political purposes, the distress of the people in the midst of a worldwide economic depression are doomed to failure.

"Second, that concern for foreign interests as against American interests in the matter of the tariff is bound to be a losing issue.

"Third, that the American people indorse the constructive record which the Hoover administration and the congress have made in the face of tremendous difficulties.

The Democratic View.

Mr. Shouse pointed out that only once since the civil war has a Democratic presidential candidate carried Maine and only twice in that time has a Democratic governor been elected.

"Of course the result of the Maine election surprises no one except Republican spokesmen, who had claimed in advance a minimum majority of 30,000 for their gubernatorial candidate," said Mr. Shouse. "According to the figures from the Associated Press at noon today he gets 16,145 majority with 42 precincts missing.

"The Democratic national committee did not contribute a penny either directly or indirectly to the Maine campaign, nor did it send a single speaker into the state. The Republicans, on the other hand, had their headliners from national headquarters in every important section, and no doubt the Republican campaign was amply financed. In these circumstances it is highly gratifying that the Democratic ticket made so good a showing."

COMMENT HERE

In Chicago opposing views of the Maine outcome were taken by Congressman Will R. Wood of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, and Clayton F. Smith, chairman of the Democratic county managing committee.

"The latest figures," said Congressman Wood, "indicate that Representative White has upset Democratic predictions that the outcome would be close.

"Since 1920, the first year in which women voted, Republican candidates have polled 63 per cent of the vote cast in Maine and the Democratic party 37 per cent. Returns now indicate that White polled 61 per cent of the vote. Such a showing of Republican strength is so similar to what we have been used to in Maine that the Democratic expectations have been blown to shreds."

"The Republican vote in the state of Maine was almost cut in half," said Chairman Smith, "falling from 147,000 to something like 80,000, while the Democratic vote was practically the same as it was two years ago—57,000, as compared with 66,000 in 1928. The Republican leaders can get what comfort they can out of a victory which was conceded. Another such victory and they are ruined."

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Celebrities and friends in the music and movie worlds today were showering congratulations on Mr. and Mrs. Jascha Heifetz on the birth of a daughter Monday. Mrs. Heifetz, before her marriage to the world famed concert violinist, was Florence Vidor, one of the most beautiful and popular of screen stars. She secretly was married to Heifetz in August, 1928, following her divorce from King Vidor, film director.

BYRNES WINNING FROM BLEASE IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Winant New Hampshire Winner.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Senator Cole L. Blease, veteran political leader of South Carolina, seeking renomination for another term, was running 4,970 votes behind James F. Byrnes of Spartanburg, former congressman, on the face of unofficial returns from today's Democratic primary tabulated tonight.

With 1,379 precincts out of 1,422 accounted for, the vote stood: Byrnes, 119,310; Blease, 114,340.

In 1,379 precincts Blackwood had 116,925 to 116,585 for Johnston.

In the first primary, two weeks ago, a total of 245,000 votes were cast in the senatorial race. Leon W. Harris was eliminated at that time. Blease led the ticket with an 18,000 margin over Byrnes.

The second race between the senator and the former congressman was a case of history repeating itself. Six years ago they survived a first primary in which Senator Nat B. Dial was defeated and met in a runoff, with Blease winning by 2,300 votes out of 200,000.

Winant Wins in New Hampshire.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 10 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Former Gov. John G. Winant was conceded victory early today by his chief opponent, Arthur P. Morrill, in the three cornered contest for the New Hampshire Republican gubernatorial nomination in yesterday's primary. At that time Winant had a lead of more than 2,000, with 256 out of 294 towns and city wards tabulated.

The vote was: John G. Winant, Concord, 22,522; Arthur P. Morrill, Concord, 19,536; Dr. Hugh K. Moore, Berlin, 5,790.

The fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination was close. Frederick E. Small of Rochester had a total of 2,587 and Albert W. Noone of Peterboro 2,558 when 247 districts had been tabulated.

As a candidate for the Democratic United States senatorial nomination Noone was leading Amos N. Blandin of Bath 2,035 to 1,664 in 156 districts.

Wilson Ahead in Vermont.

Montpelier, Vt., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Stanley C. Wilson of Chelsea, lieutenant governor of Vermont, was leading two rivals for the Republican nomination for governor in today's primaries in returns from 38 of Vermont's 248 towns and cities.

Wilson's vote was 2,267 to 1,331 for W. Arthur Simpson, and 245 for John W. Gordon, Barre attorney.

In the fight in the First congressional district, Gov. John E. Week, Republican nominee, was leading on complete returns in 25 cities and towns out of 115. Weeks is a dry and polled 1,734. H. Max Drennan, St. Albans, was second with 1,029. Martin S. Vilas, who declared in favor of modification to obtain better enforcement, was third with 283 votes.

Shaw and Costigan in Colorado.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 9.—(AP)—George H. Shaw, former chairman of the Colorado Republican committee, took the lead over William V. Hodges, former treasurer of the Republican national committee, for the senatorial nomination of their party in early returns from the state primary today.

In a three way race for the Democratic nomination for senator, Edward P. Costigan, former member of the federal tariff commission, led by a considerable margin. His primary opponents were James A. Marsh, Denver lawyer, and Morrison Shafroth, son of a former United States senator from Colorado.

Hunt in Front in Arizona.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Former Gov. George W. P. Hunt took a lead of 833 votes over his nearest competitor in the four cornered race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination when 27 complete and 38 incomplete precincts out of the state's 502 reported tonight.

The count was Hunt, 2,934; Frank H. Lyman, 2,102; Andrew Bettwy, 853; Fred T. Colter, 338.

Gov. Phillips was without opposition for the Republican nomination.

Washington Returns.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 9.—(AP)—One hundred Seattle precincts and seven in Kitsap county gave Ralph A. Horr 7,590 votes to 6,944 polled by John F. Miller, incumbent, for the Republican nomination to congress from the First district.

Forty Tacoma precincts gave John T. McCutcheon, assistant United States district attorney, 5,174 votes for the Republican nomination for congress from the Third district; Albert Johnson, incumbent, 2,051; Mark Bartlett, 209; O. M. Nelson, 349, and Chester Biesen, 120.

HEAVY INCREASE IN JUDGMENTS OF MUNICIPAL COURT

Citing the record of money judgments granted in Municipal court, Chief Justice Harry Olson stated yesterday that he believed the present business depression began not with the market crash last November but six years ago.

The record shows a gradual increase in judgments from $1,500,000 in 1907 to $12,000,000 in 1924, which Judge Olson attributes to the population gain. From 1924 to 1929, however, the increase was from $12,000,000 to $28,000,000.

"As business activity moves in ten year cycles, these figures indicate we are at the end instead of in the midst of financial distress," Judge Olson said.

Clad in Pajama Trousers, He Leads Chase in Streets

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Clad only in pajama trousers, Detective William Kirwan, led a three blocks chase through Brooklyn streets today to capture a man who, police alleged, has swindled scores of New York housewives in a baseball pool confidence game. The man, who said he was James Clarke, of San Francisco, was locked up and charged with grand larceny. He is said to have admitted he was wanted in Malone, N. Y., by federal authorities for smuggling narcotics into the United States from Canada.

HUEY P. LONG BEATS RANSDELL IN SENATE RACE

Defeats Incumbent at Louisiana Primary.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 9.—(AP)—On the face of approximately complete returns in Louisiana, Gov. Huey P. Long tonight apparently had won the Democratic nomination for the United States senate over Senator Joseph E. Ransdell.

Gov. Long was leading Senator Ransdell by approximately 20,000 majority on returns from 1,024 precincts out of a total of 1,423 precincts.

On the returns from 1,024 precincts, Gov. Long had a vote of 107,870 against Senator Ransdell's 88,522, giving the governor a majority of 19,348.

Gov. Long was leading Senator Ransdell by 6,936 on 388 precincts out of 1,178 outside of New Orleans, the total being Long, 28,760; Ransdell, 21,824.

In New Orleans Long trailed Ransdell by 3,305 on returns from 122 precincts out of a total of 245, the vote standing Long, 15,861; Ransdell, 19,166.

Long Carries "Key" District.

The Third congressional district, considered one of the key districts in the election where each candidate fought hard for votes, gave Gov. Long 4,864 and Senator Ransdell 3,292 on returns from 93 precincts out of a total of 142.

The New Orleans Item, which fought Gov. Long, tonight conceded his nomination by a 15,000 to 25,000 majority.

Meanwhile Judge Wayne G. Borah declared from the bench of the Federal District court here today that if he found he had jurisdiction he would "get to the bottom" of the disappearance of Sam Irby and James Terrell.

Seized by State Officers.

He had heard witnesses testify that Irby and Terrell had been seized in Shreveport hotel early Thursday by armed state officers as they were planning to file a slander suit against Gov. P. Long and hustled out of town. No one has been found who admitted seeing Terrell since then.

Diver in Death Trap for 26 Hours Rescued by Friend

New Orleans, Sept. 9.—(AP)—For 26 hours Capt. N. A. Danese, 62 year old marine diver, struggled on the floor of the drainage canal in 22 feet of water helplessly entangled in piling and lived to tell of the experience.

Danese went down Monday morning at 11 o'clock to complete repairs to a leaking lock where the canal runs into Lake Pontchartrain. While working on the lock it collapsed and threw the diver and three heavy pilings against the pumping station. He had made the mistake of holding in his hand the rope that usually is tied around a diver's body. It snapped out of his hand and the diver was barely able to move.

Associates Afraid to Pull.

Only the air line from his diver's helmet connected Danese with the surface. His associates in a boat were afraid to pull on the air line for fear of breaking it and bringing slow death to the man below.

All through the day and night until past noon today men worked a hand pump in the boat and kept a steady flow of oxygen moving down to the trapped diver. A hundred men tried to extricate him, but it remained for another tough old diver, Fritz John, 65, to bring him up.

Sheet piling was driven down until a pen was formed around the diver's watery prison, relieving the pressure. John went down in his diver's suit and quickly learned Danese's predicament. He was pinned behind three pilings with one resting across his body.

Crowd on Bank Cheers.

With grappling hooks two of the pilings were hoisted and John sawed the third in half and they were raised. Then he shook hands with the captain in the bottom of the canal, rose to the surface and gave orders to pull. Soon the helmet of Capt. Danese bobbed up out of the water to the cheers of the group on the bank.

Danese was brought ashore, weak and exhausted. Hospital internes came forward. He waved them aside and staggered into a shack.

"Thank God for all the people who helped save me," he mumbled. "I never gave up hope," he added as he continued to chew the gum that he had carried below with him.

"If they'll let him, he'll be back to work tomorrow," said Joseph, his son.

Grace Lusk Shot Wife of Wisconsin Doctor.

Milwaukee, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Grace Lusk found in death today the solitude life had denied her.

A faded and tired woman, faded like the newspaper clippings which labeled her a murderess, she died at St. Mary's hospital just before sunrise. She was 52 years old.

Thirteen years ago she walked from her schoolroom in Waukesha, Wis., and shot and killed the wife of Dr. David Roberts, a veterinarian, whom she loved. "Stay away," Mrs. Roberts had ordered.

Learned Grammar from Her.

In Waukesha young business men who had learned the rudiments of grammar from her went to the courthouse each day to hear the details of her clandestine affair recited.

She blamed Roberts. But he said her entreaties had led him into a life for which he had no taste. Resourceful lawyers introduced the works of Ellen Key to support their plea Miss Lusk had committed no ethical wrong.

The judge called her a menace, imposed a sentence of 19 years. An ill woman, 40 years old, she went to prison. Dr. Roberts served a short term in the workhouse. He since has married.

Grants Temporary Parole.

Five years later, in 1923, Gov. Blaine found a mass of letters on his desk one morning, all pleading for the release of Grace Lusk. He called a hearing, heard former students speak in her behalf, and finally granted a temporary parole. She went to a sanitarium, still seeking seclusion. The newspaper followed her.

In 1925 she was given a full pardon. Once more she slipped away, but two years later the papers found her. She had married a "Mr. Brown." No one ever learned his real name.

The couple left Wisconsin. A magazine article on prison reform, signed by "Alice Thornton," brought Grace Lusk into print again. A short story revived the case.

Brother Tells of Death.

Three years passed without a mention of her name. Today, a brother revealed she was dead, after an operation for goiter.

No one was at her bedside. "Mr. Brown" was not even notified. Her former students had forgotten. She will be buried secretly at her old home, Stoughton.

SUBURBS FIGHT NEW TELEPHONE BILLING SYSTEM

Evanston Plans Complaint to Commerce Board.

North shore communities, from Evanston to Waukegan, yesterday laid plans for a legal fight against a recent innovation of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, that of omitting a complete itemization of service bills sent to its subscribers. Under the new system, which telephone officials assert will save the company $20,000 annually in clerk hire, only the name of the town called and the date are shown for toll calls. The numbers called are omitted.

Evanston took the first legal step to compel the telephone company to return to its former custom. The new system, according to householders, merchant and factory owners in both Chicago and the suburbs, makes a proper examination of the telephone bills impossible without a trip to the telephone exchange.

Evanston Official Acts.

Albert Hobbs, chairman of the public utility committee of the Evanston city council, made the initial move against the telephone company, which, inquiry yesterday revealed, will be duplicated by officials of the other north suburbs served by the Illinois Bell company.

Mr. Hobbs directed Corporation Counsel William Lister to file a complaint before the Illinois commerce commission asking the commission to cite the phone company to show cause why it should "depart from its custom of rendering adequate and intelligible service bills as required under its charter."

Ald. Herbert Simpson two weeks ago introduced a resolution in the Evanston council providing for the filing of the complaint.

Matter Under Discussion.

James Williams, assistant manager of Glencoe, announced that the phone company's new policy would be discussed by the council of that village tomorrow night. Mayor L. J. Yager of Waukegan also expressed disapproval of the nonitemized phone bills, which, it was learned, soon will be distributed in that territory. The matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the Lake Forest city council, said James King, city clerk.

Officials of the telephone company contend their saving in clerk hire justifies the change. Chicago is the only large community in the country not using the system, they say, and they have expressed doubt that the commerce commission has jurisdiction over a "minor office detail" of the company's management.

SLUGS COMPANION; FLEES WITH $20.

Vandalia, Ill., Sept. 9.—(AP)—John Lewis, 21, of St. Elmo, Ill., was slugged and robbed by his companion at a hotel here while he slept last night. Lewis told authorities Roy Arnold, whose address he did not know, struck him on the head with a brick and escaped with $20. He said he met Arnold at Centralia last Wednesday and they had been together since then.

City in Track Ouster Fight Tells of 5 Broken Contracts

The Chicago and Western Indiana railroad has broken five agreements it made with the city council when the company was granted permission to lay tracks in Plymouth court, Taylor street and four alleys in the vicinity of the Dearborn street station, according to charges made yesterday by attorneys for the city at a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission.

The hearing was called by the commission on the petition of the railroad for an order directing it to maintain its present traffic over the tracks that serve the Dearborn station annex. The petition was filed in August as a move to nullify the order of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe that the railroad remove its tracks because the ordinances giving the railroad the privilege to occupy city property had expired.

Broken Contracts Listed.

The alleged breaches of contract were told to Robert M. Farrell, assistant state commerce commissioner, by Assistant Corporation Counsels John G. Drennan, Warner Wall and Roy N. Lesch. They are as follows:

1. The railroad has used the tracks for freight and mail service, whereas it had agreed to use them only for immigrant and suburban trains.
2. The railroad has failed to construct an eight foot fence along the east side of the tracks, between Taylor and Polk streets, as specified in the ordinance.
3. The railroad has not removed its tracks and restored the streets and alleys to a condition safe for public travel, as it agreed to do on the expiration of the ordinance in 1920.
4. In filing the petition the railroad has violated the agreement that it would not resort to any court or commission to delay the removal of the tracks in question.
5. The railroad has failed to open 103d street across its tracks as provided for in the ordinance.

"The railroad agreed to remove its tracks and restore the streets to good condition," said Mr. Drennan. "It has not made any attempt nor shown any desire so to do, but, on the contrary, by the very filing of this petition asserts in substance that it does not intend to perform its covenants and seeks the aid of this commission in support of its willful refusal so to do.

"The petition in this case is without merit, should never have been filed, and involves a private right of property, the adjudication of which is not within the purview of the powers and jurisdiction of this commission. It is asked that the petition be dismissed."

Threat to Stop Service.

Commissioner Farrell agreed to hear evidence as to the extent of the railroad's need for the tracks after J. R. Barse, general counsel for the Chicago and Western Indiana, and attorneys for the Grand Trunk Western and the Wabash railroads had argued that the suburban passenger service might have to be discontinued if the tracks are torn out.

"The annex is a necessary adjunct to the Dearborn street station," said Mr. Barse. "In addition to the suburban passenger service of three of the tenant railroads, it is used in the handling of mail and express which cannot be accommodated by the main station. The tracks are being constantly used by the seven railroads entering the Dearborn street terminal."

Testimony was given by F. P. Morrow, chief engineer of the Western Indiana, that there is no other site available for a mail and express terminal. After cross-examination by attorneys for the city the hearing was continued until Oct. 14.

INQUEST REVEALS SLAIN BRIDE WAS EXPECTING BABY

Mrs. Erma Krasnansky, 22 year old bride, who was shot to death by two young robbers last Monday as she worked behind a counter at the National Tea company store, 5300 West Division stret, was an expectant mother. This was revealed yesterday by Coroner Herman N. Bundesen who conducted the inquest at the county morgue. Erma obtained her job to earn money so that her baby might be well cared for, it was learned from her husband, Alex. Capt. Willard Malone of the Austin police station asked that the inquest be continued a week to give him time to investigate important clues.

Bandits Fire on Andrews Expedition in Gobi Desert

PEIPING, China, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Roy Chapman Andrews today received word from J. McKenzie Young, chief of motor transport for Andrews' expedition into the Gobi desert, saying Mr. Young and his Chinese assistants had been fired on by bandits near Tangkiang, 175 miles northwest of Kalgau. They were returning to China from Mongolia. There were no casualties.

WHETHER OR NOT YOU INHALE YOU BREATHE IN SMOKE

Make sure it is fresh, clean smoke from WINGS

SOME people just naturally are deep smokers. Others are light puffers. The deep smoker wants to really "taste" his smoke. The puffer prefers to "sip" the flavor of his cigarette. Either way you're bound to breathe in some smoke.

Every bit of tobacco in WINGS is "air-washed." All irritating impurities—all dust, grit, dirt—are "air-washed" out. No more "hot-spots," no more "flares," no more "scratch."

In WINGS you get nothing but honest, fragrant, crystal-clean tobacco—the tastiest blend you ever lit! Light one today—and you'll get the thrill of a keen, cool smoke. It's the kind you'll want to come back to again and again and again!

COUNTY TO SPEED CRIME TRIALS BY PUBLIC DEFENDER

Hope for Large Savings in Time and Money.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Chicago is soon to inaugurate the public defender system in the criminal courts.

In conjunction with the recent ruling of the State Supreme court on jury waiver rights, the new system is expected to cut the time for criminal cases at least one third, thus releasing judges to the crowded civil dockets.

In point of economy, the sponsors of the new system, the Cook county judiciary advisory council, see a saving of more than a million dollars a year.

Appointment Is Discussed.

The council at a meeting in Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan's chambers yesterday discussed various lawyers whose names have been considered for this appointment, which will be made by the judges of the Criminal court on the advice of the council.

"It will not be a political job," said Judge Sullivan. "We must have a man of experience in whom the public has confidence."

The county board at its meeting today may act on this matter, for the change is to be made under the law which makes the county responsible for the defense of indigent persons accused of crime.

Under the present system young lawyers are appointed by the courts. In future all such cases, and these comprise 40 per cent of the criminal calendar, will be referred to the public defender and his staff.

Studies California System.

"The first thing the young lawyer does," said Judge Sullivan, "is to ask for a continuance. Then he hunts up the relatives of the accused and tries to get a fee. In murder cases he is allowed a maximum of $250 from the county, and this will cost the county this year about $75,000. The young lawyer, after he gets his fee, thinks he must make a jury showing in the case, and the result is that a case that should take one day takes five. I think we can have the public defender system for $25,000 a year."

Judge Sullivan has just returned from California, where he made a study of the system which has been in use there for 18 years with success.

"The defender has a staff of 18 in Los Angeles," he reported. "It is his duty to give his services to the accused, but he must tell the court the truth. He gives the accused the benefit of his skill, but when the accused tells a lie he does not stand behind that lie and urge it as a defense, but merely lets the jury decide. The courts have confidence in him.

Found Benefit to Public.

"It has proved a great saving in time and a benefit to the public. In California they had to go to the legislature to get the right to waive a jury trial, which we now have here. This may solve the jury problem by the gradual process of elimination. We are striking at the weak spot in our system, sharpening our tools."

"We would not interfere with the right to a jury trial at all.

"As to the results to the defendants, the Los Angeles experience shows that he is better off. That is, there are fewer convictions by percentage under the court trial than under the jury. The waiving of a jury does not mean a greater liability to a conviction."

Reports on Progress Here.

Judge Harry M. Fisher, a member of the council, reported that since the Supreme court decision in Illinois he has not had a request for a jury, and has disposed of more cases than would have been tried in 30 days with juries.

Judge Sullivan figures that the $3,500 a day now being spent for juries can be cut to $1,200 a day, meaning a saving of $700,000 a year on this alone. Then comes the saving in judges' salaries, and in the cost of defense.

The meeting was attended by Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Supreme court, Attorney Amos C. Miller, Prof. Robert W. Millar of Northwestern university, Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court, and Judges Sullivan and Fisher.

AL SMITH LAYS STONE OF WORLD'S HIGHEST BUILDING FOR OFFICES

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Alfred E. Smith today laid the corner stone of the Empire State building, largest office building in the world, on the Fifth avenue side of the structure between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large crowd, which sought from every possible point of vantage to gain a view. Included were hundreds of workmen and several thousand passers-by.

"So that there may be no mistake," said the ex-governor, "let me say that I have a right to hold this trowel as a union man. I've got the card on my desk and the dues are all paid."

The new building will be 1,248 feet high, or the equivalent of 102 stories.

Move Is Part of Plan to Speed Up Courts.

Action toward reforming the Criminal court procedure was taken yesterday by Judge Harry M. Fisher and State's Attorney Swanson. The judge and prosecutor, by previous arrangement, agreed to test before the Supreme court the question of whether the juries in Illinois are judges of the law as well as the facts in trials.

What ordinarily would have been just another criminal case, that involving Ben Bruner, charged with robbery, assumed an important place in judicial circles because of the action of the judge and prosecutor, who are trying to obtain certain reforms in the criminal procedure through Supreme court decisions. Bruner was found guilty by a jury and the case will be carried to the higher court even if it is necessary for the state to finance the appeal.

Fail to Win Legislation.

The Cook county judicial advisory council, an organization of prominent judges and lawyers, tried to get certain legislation passed at recent sessions of the assembly which would modernize the criminal code in this state. Several bills aimed at reform failed of adoption by the legislature and it was then decided, it is reported, to try to accomplish the same thing by means of test cases.

During the last session of the Criminal court Judge Fisher, by arrangement with the prosecutor, allowed a defendant in a felony case to waive a jury and submit to trial before the judge. The defendant was found not guilty and Prosecutor Swanson filed a mandamus action to compel Judge Fisher to expunge his findings. The Supreme court upheld the judge's decision, and now juries may be dispensed with in felony cases if the defendant consents. Chief Justice John P. McGoorty estimates that by this means judges will be able to dispose of twice as many cases as previously.

Swanson Appears in Court.

State's Attorney Swanson went into court yesterday to take the place of one of his assistants in order to start the second test case—that of Ben Bruner—in which it is sought to determine whether the jury shall be the judge of the law. When Attorney Arnold Harris for the defendant started to instruct the jurors that they are judges of the law as well as the fact the prosecutor objected and was sustained.

If the present test case is successful, it is said, the judge and prosecutor plan to create other reforms by the same method.

GAS LAMPS WILL STAGE COMEBACK IN DEARBORN ST.

A return to gas mantle street lights was decreed yesterday for Dearborn street between Chicago avenue and Burton place by Michael J. Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity. Seventy-five of the old fashioned lamps will be installed and will remain in service until the completion of a permanent electric street lighting system for that territory.

"A large number of complaints have been received in connection with the lack of proper lighting on Dearborn street," said Commissioner Kennedy. "Due to the number of holdups and other outrages committed along the darkened streets it is considered necessary to install the gas lamps for use while the modern system is being installed."

The gas lamps will be placed every 100 feet on both sides of Dearborn street. The modern electric system is expected to be in operation by Dec. 15.

ASSESSORS AGAIN REFUSE TO RAISE ASSESSMENTS

Ignoring the warning that failure to place proper valuations on real estate in the 1929 assessment may undermine the whole system of local finances, the board of assessors yesterday again declined to approve increased valuations as recommended by its technical staff. The warning was made on Monday by Harry S. Cutmore, director of appraisals.

Yesterday the assessors were told that property on West Grand avenue for a distance of nine blocks had been assessed, through error, on a square foot basis instead of a front foot basis. They refused to correct the figures, which were said to be 20 per cent too low.

Several thousand more objections to the threatened sale of 300,000 pieces of real estate in default of payment of 1928 taxes were filed in the county court yesterday. Property owners who have not paid all of their 1928 tax have until Saturday noon to file objections.

MRS. McCORMICK BIDS DEFIANCE TO DRY LEAGUE

Won't Submit to Its Tyranny, She Says.

of this state to petition their government.

"The object of such a referendum is simply to ascertain whether a majority of Illinois citizens favors the repeal of the 18th amendment or whether a majority opposes such a repeal.

"No citizen, of any shade of political belief, and regardless of which one of the numerous opinions he may hold relating to the liquor problem, has any right to oppose this poll.

"Certain leaders of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois have taken the field in this campaign and their first attack is upon this legal and constitutional proposal to have a vote of the people upon the question of repealing the 18th amendment.

"We face this situation, therefore: Are we to submit to the edict of the Anti-Saloon league, or any other group of citizens, that we may have a referendum in Illinois on tax questions, on banking laws, on jury systems, but that we shall not have a referendum on the question of repealing the 18th amendment? If we so submit, we shall be unworthy Americans.

"I have been warned that the expedient political course for me to take would be to accept my instructions from the Anti-Saloon league. The league would have me oppose this legal petition now and ignore it later.

Her Dictum to League.

"I will respectfully hear and consider any advice, or appeal to any reason, which the leaders of the Anti-Saloon league, or any other group of citizens, may desire to make, but I will listen to no counsel which outrages every conviction I have ever held on the subjects of majority rule, of popular government, and of the sanctity of the constitution.

"Humbly I have taken counsel from the words of Abraham Lincoln. It is significant to recall that our martyred President, who won immortal fame chiefly upon a successful but tragic battle against human slavery, was accused by fanatics among the abolitionists of having sold out to the slave cause. Why did Wendell Phillips, the extremist among abolitionists, savagely denounce him as 'the Slave Hound of Illinois'?

"The reason for this abuse of Lincoln is simply told. Mr. Lincoln believed slavery to be wrong. He believed it to be an evil which should not only not be permitted to extend itself into free states but that eventually it should be eradicated from the slave states, as well. Yet, deep as his convictions were, he courageously took the stand that the solution of the slave problem must be found without violation of the constitution of the United States.

Get Back to Constitution.

"Mr. Lincoln's independence and courage were based on the definite principle that when you start to trample on the rights of others you are preparing yourself for bondage. 'Accustomed to trample on the rights of others,' he said, 'you have lost the genius of your own independence and become the fit subjects of the first cunning tyrant who rises among you.' At the beginning of this campaign in Illinois it is well to establish the principle that, whatever the situation, we are going to get back to the constitution and stay there. We are not to be diverted from our adherence to the law and the constitution by any despotism or denunciation.

"Let us so conduct ourselves that if it were possible to call together in one vast assemblage the 400,000 citizens who signed the petition for a referendum on the question of the repeal of the 18th amendment, we might face them unflinchingly and say to them: 'As citizens we may not agree with your views and, as a matter of fact, many of us are emphatically opposed to you, but, right or wrong, we stand with you on the fundamental doctrine that you have a right to petition your government, whatever your cause may be.'

Liberty Versus Tyranny.

"If the people are to be mistrusted, let us be courageous about the thing. Tear up our state laws and our state and national constitutions, and turn the people's government over to the control of a self-selected group of individuals! There is no middle ground. We cannot at the same time have liberty and tyranny.

"I have said repeatedly to Illinois audiences in the last two years that I am a dry. I mean by that that I personally do not violate the spirit or the letter of the constitution, nor the federal or state prohibition enforcement laws either by making, using, or selling or possessing intoxicating liquor. No intoxicating liquor is kept or served in my home.

"As an individual citizen I respect and observe the laws. As a member of congress I respect my oath to uphold the constitution and the laws of my country.

No Truckler, She Says.

"I stand squarely for enforcement of the liquor laws. I believe our people should obey the laws. If I disagree with one of the extremists upon even the most trifling point as to the best method of solving the liquor problem, I know that I shall be cast out into utter darkness for having dared to differ. 'She is truckler,' I have heard them say. 'She has deserted our cause! She has sold out to the wets!'

"In my speech before the state Republican convention on Aug. 22 I asserted that if a majority in Illinois expressed a desire on Nov. 4 for a repeal of the 18th amendment I would accept that result as the legal expression of the people of the state and that I would stand ready, when elected senator, to vote for a resolution proposing to all the states that they participate in a nation-wide referendum on the question of repeal. In such a resolution the senate does not declare itself either in favor or in opposition to repeal. No individual senator, no matter how he votes on that resolution, may be said to have voted either for or against repeal.

People's Will Paramount.

"I would follow the same course if my constituents demanded another nation-wide referendum on woman's suffrage. I would do the same thing if a majority of my constituents were legally registered as desiring another nation-wide vote on the question of direct election of United States senators. The fact that I have strong convictions on any one of those questions would not justify me in trying to substitute my own judgment for the legally expressed judgment of the men and women who sent me to Washington.

"No matter how other senators vote upon the resolution to propose a new referendum on prohibition, I shall not call them names. I shall assume that they are voting the will of the people of their states, just as I shall be doing. If they ignore the will of the majority in their own states, that will be another matter, and I shall expect their constituencies to know what to do about it.

"I am not going to be that kind of a senator. Let us start this campaign with that understanding. I shall not be betrayed by the Anti-Saloon league into any such betrayal of the principles of majority rule and of representative government."

At Galesburg Today.

The Republican caravan was out full force for its second week of trouping the congressional districts. Gov. Emmerson, Senator Glenn, Lieut. Gov. Sterling, Speaker Shanahan, Congressman at Large Yates were among the pilgrims.

At Bloomington, the venerable ex-Gov. Joseph Fifer (Private Joe) made a speech in which he boomed C. J. (Tip) Doyle, state chairman, for governor some day. Mr. Yates, also a former governor, seconded the nomination. Tomorrow the cavalcade advances on Galesburg and Monmouth.

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

Hershel Beckman, 34 years old, 1706 West Harrison street, died yesterday in the county hospital of a skull fracture incurred Monday when he fell down a flight of stairs.

MRS. M'CULLOCH OFFERS HER AID TO MRS. O'NEILL

Mrs. Catharine Waugh McCulloch, an Evanston Democratic leader, made public yesterday a letter she had written to Mrs. Lottie O'Neill denying that a conference of representatives of several women's organizations which she attended had refused to indorse Mrs. O'Neill's candidacy for the United States senate.

"The meeting was called for another purpose—to consider methods of securing a large 'No' vote on the wet referendum in November," Mrs. McCulloch wrote, "and it was limited to that. We took no action about your candidacy and were not authorized by any organization to which we belong to take any action on that subject.

"Among the women present at that meeting, I know of no one who will no enthusiastically support you. I will be proud if you will allow me, a Democratic dry, to serve on your campaign committee."

This new, exclusively Cadillac plan removes the last barrier to complete understanding—that natural question which arises in the mind of every-one who buys a motor car: "Is this car all that it is claimed to be and, if not, is the dealer able and willing to make good to me?" . . . Cadillac's Standard Service Contract and Cadillac's Owners' Service Policy, more eloquently than any words, say to the prospective buyer of a Cadillac or La Salle: . . . "These cars are right and a great organization stands behind them."

CAMPBELL TALE REVIVES DEMAND FOR DRY INQUIRY

Former Dry Director's Series Continues.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—New charges by Maj. Maurice Campbell, ex-prohibition administrator in New York City, against Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman in the second of his series of articles on dry law enforcement kept tongues wagging in the offices of the highest government officials today.

Campbell asserted that Lowman during the 1928 presidential campaign ordered him to take his men out of the breweries so the voters could have their beer.

Lowman Out of City.

Mr. Lowman, who yesterday described Campbell's "exposé" as "the greatest romance of the century," was reported to have left the city today and could not be reached for a reply to the specific charges involving him in today's article. Meanwhile there was a renewal of agitation for a senatorial investigation of enforcement conditions, with two Democratic senators taking the lead.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mon.], whose resolution proposing such an inquiry was blocked at the last session of congress, declared that he will press for action on the resolution immediately after congress reconvenes in December.

Senator A. W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] asserted that if Campbell proves what he says "it presents a situation that neither the government nor the country can ignore."

Charges Order to Allow Beer.

In an interview Aug. 10, 1928, Maj. Campbell said Lowman told him "you have got it too dry in New York."

"We must not do anything to antagonize the voters," Campbell quoted Lowman as saying, "and they are complaining in New York that they can't get beer."

When he protested against removing his men from the breweries Campbell continued, Lowman told him "the politicians up there are complaining that New York is much too dry, especially in beer, and I want the men taken out right away."

Campbell admitted that he finally agreed under pressure to withdraw his men from the breweries on Sept. 1.

Woman's Charge Against Dr. Wynekoop Is Stricken

A charge of attempted rape against Dr. Gilbert Wynekoop, 5059 Sheridan road, was stricken from the docket with leave to reinstate yesterday by Judge Joseph P. David of the criminal court. The action was taken because Cecelia Gribanski, 28, 6448 West 28th street, Berwyn, failed for the fourth time to appear in court to prosecute.

MISSING JUDGE'S TRAIL FOLLOWED TO A NIGHT CLUB

Search Is Diverted to Broadway.

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The quest for Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, officially listed by the police department as missing since Aug. 6, turned from the Maine woods into Broadway today when it was reported that Judge Crater was in the Club Abbey, one of the gay district's best known night rendezvous, on the morning of Aug. 7—a day after he was last seen by his friends.

Judge Crater's presence there was announced by Arkie Schwartz, who with his brother, Lou, operates the Club Abbey.

It was reported, too, that Justice Crater was talking that night with Miss Elaine Dawn, a small, blond singer and dancer in the Club Abbey's revue, formerly a showgirl in "Artists and Models" and "Show Boat."

Mayor James J. Walker let it be known today that he was "perfectly willing" to go before the special grand jury which is to investigate the charge that former Magistrate George F. Ewald paid $10,000 for his seat on the bench.

The mayor added that he was also willing to turn over any and all records that the state's investigators might wish to have from his office.

LAWYERS ARGUE ON SUNDAY FILMS FOR EVANSTON

Evanston's recent referendum vote favoring Sunday movies by a majority of 56 is not binding upon the city council, it was argued yesterday by Corporation Counsel William Lister at an injunction hearing before Master in Chancery George E. Gorman. Gorman was selected by Circuit Judge William V. Brothers to hear evidence after an injunction to restrain the city council from interfering with Sunday movies had been asked.

"Only two of seven wards voted for Sunday movies, which shows the town, as a whole, doesn't want them," argued Lister. "And, after all, a referendum vote is only advisory. Evanston has a constitutional right to enforce an anti-Sunday amusement law."

"But," interposed Attorney Ross C. Hall, counsel for the theater interests, "we contend it is the majority's will in Evanston to have Sunday movies. The city council's refusal to abide by the referendum vote is costing us thousands of dollars."

A delegation of Evanston church members, led by Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, applauded Lister frequently. The hearing was continued to Sept. 20.

LEGION REFUSES TO TAKE STAND ON DRY REPEAL

Arthur Poorman Named Commander.

The election of Capt. Arthur G. Poorman of Chicago Heights as the new state commander and the defeat of a concerted movement seeking to have the American Legion declare for or against repeal of the 18th amendment ended the 12th annual convention of the Illinois Legionnaries in Aurora yesterday.

Capt. Poorman's election was made unanimous by the withdrawal of two opposing candidates, Pence B. Orr of Joliet and James White of Chicago, who withdrew after the first ballot indicated the delegates were overwhelmingly in favor of the former senior vice commander.

Capt. Poorman, an assistant state's attorney of Cook county, has been an active leader in Legion affairs for many years. He formerly was an assistant attorney general and state's attorney of Clark county.

Table Repeal Resolution.

After much vehement debate the delegates forestalled the dry law repeal issue on the floor of the convention by voting to table a minority report which proposed the adoption of a resolution favoring repeal.

The committee on resolutions had disapproved of four other resolutions pertaining to the repeal, refusing to intaining to the repeal, refusing to include them in its report. However, the sponsors of the movement designed to have the Legion take a definite stand, obtained the floor after the majority report was presented and introduced its resolution amid a bedlam of cheers and catcalls.

Not Legion Business, Claim.

Opponents of the resolution, led by Ferre C. Watkins, former state commander, argued that the prohibition issues had no place in the affairs of the Legion. Mr. Watkins said the question would be put before the entire state, including the Legionnaires, at the referendum in November, and maintained that that was the proper place for the former soldiers to make known their attitude.

Several of the leaders opposing action on the repeal resolution declared that they personally favored rescinding the 18th amendment and its enforcement measures, but believed the Legion would make an irreparable mistake if it should adopt a policy concerning the issue.

Maj. George Lee of Lake View post, Chicago, submitted the minority report.

Virtually all the other resolutions were adopted, including a plea to the national organization to extend every effort toward making public the report of the national defense committee concerning the London naval treaty and all information about the London conference.

The Legionnaires indorsed the $14,000,000 state bond issue to be voted on in November for statewide conservation and expansion of parks and preserves; in two other resolutions favored the appropriation of $2,000,000 for additional facilities at the Edward Hines hospital, and urged the addition of 500 more beds at the Veterans' hospital at North Chicago.

Reject Immigration Plan.

The Legionnaires rejected a resolution proposing that, as an aid in relieving unemployment, all immigration into the United States be restricted for the next five years. One of the few resolutions rejected proposed that the federal government take over the operation of the canteens in the various veterans' hospitals. Opponents declared that private concerns can operate these supply stores at a lower cost to the disabled veterans than could the government.

Arthur Holst of Galesburg was elected senior vice commander, and Lawrence J. Fenlon of the Logan Square post, vice commander of the first division, which includes Cook county. Delegates named to the national convention are Edward A. Hayes, Dr. Charles Shott, H. R. Shradski, Harry G. Wright and Floyd McCracken. Among the alternates named are Frank Kee and Charles Falkenberg of Chicago.

Peoria was selected as the city for the 1931 convention next September.

To be a HEALTHY WOMAN watch your Bowels!

WHAT should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. It doesn't sicken or weaken you. But its action is thorough. It carries off the sour bile and poisonous waste. It does everything you want it to do. It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Give some to keep little bowels open during colds.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all druggists keep it ready in big bottles) and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

U.S. FLYER DENIES PLOT TO BOMB REBELS IN PERU

Grow Insists He Intended Scattering Pamphlets.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Arequipa newspaper Noticias today published an interview with Lieutenant Commander Harold B. Grow, United States naval reserve officer, who was head of the Peruvian air service under deposed President Leguia, denying that he intended to bomb the city of Arequipa.

Grow, detained at Arequipa by the military junta headed by Lieut. Col. Sanchez Cerro, said that he was flying to Arequipa to scatter a government proclamation over the rebel troops when he was captured. He said he had one bomb, which he intended to use to attract the attention of the rebels. He explained that the bomb weighed only 25 pounds and would have been useless in a bombardment.

Declines U. S. Intervention.

"I prefer that Peru decide my fate without any foreign pressure," Grow was quoted as saying. "I have asked the diplomatic representative of my country not to intervene, because I believe I am not to blame, but am the victim of circumstances, I hope justice will prevail. My sincerest wish is to continue developing aviation in Peru as I have done during the last seven years."

The government announced tonight that Charles W. Sutton, American, who had been arrested on charges of mishandling irrigation funds during the Leguia régime, had been released from custory this afternoon. J. H. Gildred, held pending an audit of his account, was released this morning, together with Walter C. Hebard, contractor. Both are Americans.

Martial Law in La Paz.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 9.—Bolivia, momentarily forgotten by the local press since the Peruvian and Argentine revolutions puts this nation in the background, now is brought suddenly to the fore with the announcement late this evening that martial law had been declared today in La Paz, the capital.

Panama's "Dictator" Wins.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Sept. 9.—Former President Rodolfo Chiari, leader of the predominant National Liberal party and virtual dictator of Panama, scored this morning, when President Arosemena appointed a new cabinet, every member being a Chiari supporter. Chiari now controls the president, legislature and cabinet.

Chiari aspires to the presidency in 1932. His dictatorship is different from that in other Latin-American countries, for in Panama's treaty with the United States, the latter guarantees the country's internal peace. The appointments avert a crisis and signify Chiari's increased hold on the affairs of the republic.

Deny Martial Law in Cuba.

HAVANA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The government today denied that martial law had been declared in portions of Oriente province as precautions against anticipated political disturbances.

result of a misunderstanding government spokesmen went counter to the original conception of the battle, which was interpreted as a conflict between forces of the provisional government and those of the deposed President Yrigoyen. Many today rejected the government's explanation. There were some who were inclined to the belief that the street fighting, while originally provoked by a misunderstanding, was rapidly taken advantage of by Yrigoyenistas, whose intervention gave the occasion the character of a genuine attempt to reassert their power. That there are many armed followers of Yrigoyen in the city waiting for an opportunity to strike at the provisional government is not denied, and today's preparations of Gen. Justo for possible emergencies is regarded as proof of this fact.

Among the steps taken today by the government to strengthen its power was the proclamation of a severe news censorship combined with orders by Gen. Uriburu for rigid control over all lines of communications and transportation.

WHO URIBURU IS.

Gen. José Francisco Uriburu, the new president of the Argentine republic, is a member of one of the oldest and wealthiest and most distinguished families in South America, many of whose members have achieved prominence in government. According to his acquaintances in the United States, he is about 55 years old and is at the height of his intellectual vigor.

The new president is an accomplished military leader. He began his military education in the Military academy at Buenos Aires and extended this by two years' service in the German army just before the war. He was inspector general of the Argentine army from 1916 to 1922. Since the latter date he has taken little part in public affairs outwardly, but so eminent has been his reputation in the country and so strong his hold on the people that his leadership is not surprising.

Second Uriburu to Be President.

He is the second Uriburu to hold the office of president. His uncle, José Everisto Uriburu, was the first. A cousin of the president, also named José Evaristo Uriburu, has served as ambassador to London. His father was Gen. Napoleon Uriburu.

President Uriburu inherited great wealth and is married to a member of the Madero family, also of considerable wealth. Both he and his wife are descended from families which signed the Argentine declaration of independence in 1810.

President Uriburu is said to be well informed on the United States and has traveled i nthis country.

Cabinet of Aristocrats.

The civilians in the provisional government junta are conspicuous for their wealth, aristocratic birth, and conservatism. Vice President Enrique Santa Marina comes from an old aristocratic land owning family. aMtias Sanchez Sorondo, minister of the interior, is a prominent attorney whose clients are wealthy cattle raisers. As a former member of congress he led the wealthy cattle men in a campaign against foreign owned packing houses.

Enrique Perez, minister of finance; Ernesto Padilla, minister of public instruction; Ernesto Bosch, minister of foreign affairs, and Horacio Becca Varello, minister of agriculture, are all men of wealth, moving in exclusive society and representing the conservative landed interests.

U. S. IN NO HURRY TO RECOGNIZE THE NEW REGIMES

Await Stable Conditions in Argentina, Peru.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Indications today are that the United States will not act hastily in extending recognition to the new revolutionary governments established in Argentina, Peru and Bolivia as the result of the current epidemic of domestic disturbances in the South American republics.

Question of Recognition.

While the state department thus far has consistently declined to discuss officially the question of its diplomatic relations with the new governments the general impression has gone forth that this country will await the establishment of stable conditions in each of the three countries before discussing the question of recognition.

It has been made plain, however, that the fact that the new administrations rose to power through violent means will not in itself act as a barrier to the extension of recognition by the government. Such a policy is followed toward the Central American republics, but no such hard and fast rule has prevailed in this country's treatment of the countries farther to the south.

Judge Each Case on Merits.

Each case, according to the impression given out here will be judged on its own merits. In general the United States has preferred to await until a new Latin-American government has been elected by the people or at least until the new government has announced the intention of holding such popular elections.

Before granting recognition it now is probable the United States will insist that the three revolutionary administrations show their ability to maintain order and demonstrate willingness not only to observe their foreign obligations but ability to carry them out.

September Grand Jury Sworn In by U. S. Judge

Federal Judge Woodward yesterday swore in the September federal grand jury and appointed Chester E. Collins of Elgin as foreman. An alleged South Chicago bootlegging syndicate believed to have enjoyed police protection was reported to be one of the cases which the jurors will investigate.

PHYSICIAN TELLS OF 'TREATMENTS' BY IOWA QUACKS

State Battle to Bar Institute "Doctors."

Muscatine, Ia., Sept. 9.—Diagnosis and treatment charts of patients at the Baker institute were ordered signed "in wholesale lots," Dr. William Blair of Des Moines testified today in the state's suit to restrain operation of the institute.

Dr. Bair occupied the stand during most of the afternoon and underwent a searching cross-examination by C. P. Hanley, one of the attorneys defending Norman Baker, Hary Hoxsey and three others named with them in the injunction petition.

Admits Signing Records.

Many of the charts were made out weeks before Dr. Bair became connected with the institution last May, he testified.

Dr. Bair admitted that the signature on them was his, but he denied that other writing on them had been done by him.

"You signed these records like a lot of postcards?" Hanley asked.

Dr. Bair agreed, and stated he did it under order. He said Baker came to him frequently to give him orders.

Women Examined "In Open."

He told the court that Baker brought crowds to see the patients examined and that women patients were given examination "in the open," before these crowds.

O. J. Johnson of Montezuma, another witness, testified that Hoxsey and Charles Gearing, two of the other defendants, had treated him for cancer of the lip. He tried the "needle treatment" under Gearing for two days and then Hoxsey told him to change to the "powder treatment," under him. He claimed to be "cured so far as I know."

PEORIA'S 59 VOTES NOMINATE INGRAM FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Peoria county Republicans again held the whip hand in the judicial convention called to nominate a candidate to fill the unexpired term of the late Circuit Judge T. N. Green when they cast their vote solidly for Probate Judge Henry J. Ingram.

Marshall, Putnam, Stark, and Tazewell counties each had a candidate of its own. Peoria county's 59 votes was enough to swing the nomination to Ingram.

Floyd Brian of Stark county wanted to know if the outside delegates had not been "kidded into coming to Peoria." For Peoria to insist on the candidate is a short stighted policy," he said.

RETURN MURDER VERDICT IN DEATH OF "42" GANGSTER

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Thomas, false pretenses, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell and fined $100; Marcellus Galloway, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

Lawrence Winkler, forgery, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Frank Lejs, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph B. David.

A coroner's jury at the county morgue investigating the killing of Peter (The Ape) Nicastro, 25 years old, 1241 West Taylor street, reputed member of the "42" gang, yesterday returned a verdict that Nicastro had been "murdered by a person or persons unknown."

Early yesterday Nicastro was found, fatally wounded, in front of the Commonwealth Edison plant at 2346 South Canal street. He was taken to the People's hospital but died before he could make a statement. P. J. Costler, night manager at the Edison plant, said he had heard several shots and shortly afterward had looked out and seen Nicastro lying on the sidewalk.

The immediate motive for the murder of Nicastro remained a mystery to the police, but they were investigating a report that he ad been engating a report that he had been engthe near south side.

ADVANCE CUSTOM MODES FOR 1931

FASHION has caught up with engineering and design in fine motor cars. The quality automobiles of tomorrow will accent luxury and beauty and modishness. Meanwhile, this studied elegance has found rare distinction at the practiced hands of Pierce-Arrow.

Famed masters of the decorating art were consulted... fabrics and fitments, especially designed and created... new and luxurious appointments, meticulously chosen... and all this exquisitely conceived, hand-wrought material, put into the hands of Pierce-Arrow's own master craftsmen.

The result is a new and distinguished line of Pierce-Arrow creations... the Salon Models... which for sheer, breath-taking loveliness, within and without, are utterly incomparable and beyond words.

Present, of course, under each patrician hood, is a wealth of smooth, flexible power... reflecting the truth that "Pierce-Arrow mechanical detail embraces every device of proved character known to the engineering of fine motor cars."

Doctors and Supplies Pour Into Stricken City.

SANTO DOMINGO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—For the first time since the hurricane struck this charming old city last Wednesday the morale of the people today showed marked improvement as great supplies of foodstuffs and medicines came from Cuba, Haiti, Porto Rico and the United States, along with great numbers of doctors, nurses and relief workers.

Definite knowledge that the outside world had responded quickly and sympathetically to the needs of the storm sufferers had decided effect in turning the spirit of the Dominican capital from despair to hope.

Water Supply Renewed.

President Trujillo expanded his efforts toward sanitation with a view to prevent a possible epidemic of tropical diseases. His work toward this end was greatly facilitated by an ample supply of fresh water—the first available since the storm destroyed the city's water plant.

Cleaning of bodies and debris from the narrow streets also showed definite results and was a great influence in strengthening the people's morale. The tropical sun also lent its cheering and cleansing influence.

Tonight, for the first time since the storm struck, electric lights went on about Columbus park, where the city's social, official and religious life centers.

Red Cross Rations Food.

The American Red Cross was assigned the city itself as its particular field of activity. It opened several rationing stations and Director Ernest J. Swift estimated that 10,000 persons now are receiving rations daily. At one time today the crowd at a Red Cross food station became so large and so unmanageable for the civilians that Dominican soldiers were compelled to drive the crowd back to restore order.

Mr. Swift to survey the entire situation in Santo Domingo and report to him personally, making suggestions for improving speeding up the work of relief and rehabilitation.

Bluejackets Guard Food.

Bluejackets from the United States ship Grebe were sent ashore today to form an armed guard over food wagons passing from the wharves to the general warehouses from which relief is distributed. This emergency action was taken following yesterday's attempt by hungry citizens to wrest food from the handlers on the wharves.

U. S. Planes on Way.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Two planes carrying medical supplies to Santo Domingo, piloted by Lieut. A. P. Storrs, U. S. N., and Lieut. C. F. Harper, U. S. N., took off a second time for Fort Bragg, N. C., at 2 p. m. today. They were forced back by a rainstorm over North Carolina following their first start this morning. Maj Roy S. Geiger, U. S. M. C., piloting a third plane, did not turn back and arrived at Fort Bragg, where he is awaiting the two other craft.

Destroyer Ordered to Domingo.

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The destroyer Gilmer will leave the Brooklyn navy yard at 3:30 p. m. today for Hampton Roads, Va., to take on medical supplies for shipment to Santo Domingo, navy yard officials said. The Gilmer is scheduled to reach Hampton Roads early tomorrow.

SENATOR ALLEN TO UNDERGO OPERATION TODAY OR TOMORROW

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who yesterday entered Johns Hopkins hospital for treatment, will be operated upon tomorrow or next day, it was said at the hospital today. Senator Allen was reported to be in "fine condition," and that the operation was not regarded as serious.

MOTORCYCLE VICTIM DIES.

Heinis Demperwolf, 21 years old, 6151 South Green street, injured yesterday when thrown from a motorcycle under a freight train in Blue Island, died last night at St. Francis hospital there. He was riding with Richard Parma, 19 years old, 2500 Blue Island avenue, and lost his balance when Parma applied the breaks as he saw the train.

WOMEN NOW CHOOSING THEIR FACE POWDER THIS SURE WAY

No longer are women content to use ordinary face powder, for Dame Fashion has said that face powder must be chosen to agree with one's type of skin.

That's why Plough has created three different powders (one for oily skin, one for dry skin and one for normal skin). When you choose your Plough Powder you will be thrilled at its smoothness....its lingering fragrance. You will rejoice at the way it clings for hours ....the way it brings freshness and charm to your complexion.

IF YOUR SKIN IS OILY—Choose heavy texture Plough's "Incense of Flowers" Face Powder, in the oval box—75c.

IF YOUR SKIN IS DRY—Choose light texture Plough's "Favorite Bouquet" Face Powder, in the square box—50c.

IF YOUR SKIN IS NORMAL—Choose medium texture Plough's "Exquisite" Face Powder, in the round box—50c.

Each Plough Powder comes in white, flesh, pink, brunette and sun-tan tints, and is sensibly priced wherever beauty creations are sold.

If you are not certain as to which Plough Face Powder you should buy, write Peggy Martin, Beauty Consultant, Plough, Inc., Memphis, Tenn., specifying tint you want, and she will send you free test packages of the three powders.

Vol. 1, No. 11 — FACTS AND COMMENTS ABOUT THE CLASSIFIED DEPT. — Chicago Tribune, THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER — COPYRIGHT 1930 BY THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE — Issued Every Week

HOOVERPRESSES BUTTON; LIGHTS NEW AIR BEACON

You Can as Easily Start Great Organization to Work for You

When the President at the White House pressed a button, one night last week, the giant air beacon atop the Palmolive Building sent its first brilliant rays skyward. Publicity agents term such events as "big time stuff." But here is "big time stuff" you never hear about, yet more people are involved in this every-day event, and more people vitally affected than by any Presidential button pushing.

Using Phone Starts It

This commonplace occurrence is nothing more than phoning your want ad to the Tribune Adtakers. Let's see what happens: You'll be the President this time, picking up your receiver to start things moving. The first service—the public operator—then the Tribune switchboard—here's the Adtaker: Your want ad's phoned, now sit back and watch the fascinating progress of this little want ad until it appears before the readers' eyes. Here it goes:

From the Adtaker to the copy checkers—no mistakes are permitted—on to the verifying department, to be certain you yourself have ordered the ad—then to the order department for four operations—now to the composing room:

Copy box is first stop—hungry linotypes devour the copy—the "bankmen" rush away the galley to the proof press—first proofs are pulled—they are rushed away to a sorting table—then to the proofreader and his copyholder—back again to the linotype man for correction of mechanical errors—away to a compositor who sets the corrected slugs—across the floor to the hand compositors who set the larger type—finally to the make-up table.

Nearly Ready for the Presses

The speed increases—the "mat" maker grabs the form—in three minutes a mat is pressed out—down a chute to the mat finishers for "baking"—now seven husky stereotypers take charge—once again your want ad is set in metal—now to the press room. Forms clank into place—paper is rolled in—they're off. The roar is deafening. At the far end of the room hundreds of thousands of papers containing your want ad are being carried to the mailing room. Here they are counted, tied, stamped, tagged and routed—now to the loading platform—handlers, checkers, truck drivers rush about—away with the load! News stands, carriers and the railroads soon put the Tribune and your want ad into the hands of 827,357 families daily, and on Sunday of 1,028,337 families.

56 Operations Involved

We have sketched briefly the general routine each want ad follows on its way through the Tribune plant, but other important operations, checking the copy run, to see that your want ad appeared, bookkeeping operations and billing service, help to swell the total of individual operations to 56, involving almost the entire Tribune organization. However, this service is comparable only to the results you can obtain through Tribune Want Ads.

FIVE REASONS WHY YOU CAN DEPEND ON TRIBUNE SERVICE

Caroline Butterworth — Miss Knight — Elizabeth Blakeslee — Lois Adams — Ruth Canary

Tribune readers, meet the five supervisors of the Tribune Telephone Adtakers' department! They are directly responsible for the high efficiency and courtesy so well known and appreciated by Tribune Want Ad advertisers. And are they efficient! Last year, 314,782 want ads, totaling 2,800,388 lines, were placed in the Tribune entirely by telephone.

This record of efficiency is not surprising. Each supervisor has from five to ten years' experience for a background, receiving promotion to her present position because of merit alone. Naturally they impart their experience to the Adtakers in their charge. Forty-five Adtakers are employed daily, and on the busy days of the week as many as eighty young women, 75% of whom are college graduates, are employed.

If your advertising job needs special attention you are free to call on any of these supervisors for help. Mrs. Blakeslee is senior supervisor, in charge of sales; Miss Adams, her assistant is in charge of administration; and the other supervisors are as follows: Miss Knight, real estate; Mrs. Butterworth, help wanted; Miss Canary, all other advertising. For efficient and courteous service in the placing of your want ads, just call Superior 0100, Adtaker.

WEDDING RINGS STRAY WHEN WIVES PLAY—SO IT SEEMS!

Oh these modern wives! Wives who lose wedding rings! Tsk, tsk, tsk! In grandmother's time the "plain gold band" was never removed even for Monday's washings or Saturday night baths. But today! Just look over the Lost and Found Column in the Tribune Want Ads! They lose 'em everywhere!

Wedding rings are not the only ones that stray away. Solitaires, class rings, dinner rings share equal honors in the Lost and Found Column.

Modern Activities Responsible

In grandmother's day few women played golf, tennis, flew airplanes, swam frequently, or got their hands dirty changing tires. Today, women do all these things and more. Naturally, to protect their rings, precious with memories of love and romance, they remove them.

Want Ads Save Tears

Losing a ring of sentimental or intrinsic value is always an occasion for tears. But tears seldom bring back the lost ring, so Tribune Want Ads are called upon to help. How many heartaches these little want ads in the Lost and Found Column of the Tribune have saved no one knows, but we can safely say they are many. Should you lose something of value get your want ad into the Tribune as soon as possible. If it is to be found at all, you'll have it returned more quickly this way.

You Can't Get Away With It, Say Credit Men.

Some time ago, a Chicagoan who was buying a car on the installment plan, decided he didn't want to pay any more on it, so he hiked off to Alabama. For a while no trace of him could be found. One day, unable to resist the lure of Chicago, this man came back, stopping at an Evanston hotel. Suddenly he left, owing the hotel for his room. A hotel employé, making an investigation, examined the room occupied by their late guest. On the bed was a Tribune opened at the want ad section, from which an ad had been clipped. His curiosity aroused, the employé procured a similar copy of the Tribune and found that the ad clipped was one placed by a local finance company, inquiring for information concerning the man who had skipped out. After getting in touch with the finance company, telephone calls placed through the hotel switchboard were traced and the culprit and the car were soon found.

Leaves Home and Children

Another finance company reports this interesting incident. In Louisville, Kentucky, a salesman, earning a good salary, married, father of two fine children, suddenly fell in love with a girl in his employ. They ran away, taking a brand new Marmon with them. Their trail was picked up in San Francisco, followed to Sacramento, back to San Francisco, then to Los Angeles, and finally to Fresno. In the meantime, the defaulting salesman ran out of money and began passing bogus checks. He was caught, sent to jail, and the stolen automobile returned.

Tribune Want Ads Used

Credit agencies and finance companies use the most efficient methods to trace and find stolen automobiles. One of their most valuable aids is the want ad section of the Tribune. The two incidents reported here came from executives of two finance companies located in Chicago, both of whom use the Tribune Want Ad Section to trail stolen cars. They prove conclusively that the car thief's lot is indeed a hard one. Sooner or later they are caught in the drag-net prepared for them.

3 Flights Up

CHAPPEL, 0000—6 RMS., SLEEPING and breakfast rooms; distinctive, homelike, in pretty 3 apt. garage.

Miss Margaret C. Sprow, 645 Cass Street, has never heard of 3-apartment garages. Neither have we. She says: "What do they have in the '3-apartment garage', ramps or elevators? When and where do the tenants sleep?" Here's your $1.

We want bigger and better Wise Cracks! Every column in the want ad section of any edition of the Tribune is your hunting ground for cash prizes. Dig 'em up! Then, send your wise crack to Interesting Want Ads, Chicago Tribune, 1015 Tribune Tower. Look for 'em every day!

MISSOURI RISES; ITS WATER PUTS MISSISSIPPI UP

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chester, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Into a lonely but beautiful country, flanked with the wrecks of two hundred river steamers, Secretary of War Hurley and his party of engineers ventured today.

The first day's cruise on the Mississippi below St. Louis furnished the experts with a typical example of the great river's eccentricities. The early morning start was auspicious. Due to the arrival of head waters from the upper Missouri a foot rise in the depth of the Mississippi was noted and the stern wheeler churned along at a 13 mile an hour rate.

The passengers forgot problems concerning dams, dikes, and revetments and busied themselves in the conning of the rich history of this section. Here in 1837 a young lieutenant, Robert E. Lee by name, tackled engineering problems connected with this same twisting channel. The civil war, in which this same young lieutenant played a somewhat prominent part, had its echoes in engagements along these peaceful shores.

Overruns Rising Water.

The feats of the early French and Spanish explorers were under discussion when the warning cry of the leadsman from the bow of the boat brought attention back to the perplexities of the river. The boat had overrun the rise in the river and was now again picking its way carefully through sandbars and shoals. The rise in the river level traveled only at the rate of the current down stream, about two and one-half miles an hour, it was explained, and the boat, traveling almost ten miles an hour faster, had outspeeded the rise.

"We've dredged a great deal along here," said Col. R. C. Moore, deputy division engineer, "and we have improved conditions somewhat. Nevertheless, on July 12 the river was lower than it has ever been since readings were first taken in 1861. The record low depth was maintained until today, when the increase in flow from the Missouri sent the readings up.

Channel Narrowed for Depth.

"We are building many dikes along here also, as this stretch between St. Louis and Cairo is one of the worst, so far as navigation is concerned, in the entire lower Mississippi. Dikes narrow the river, automatically swiftening the current, and scouring the channel bed."

The melodious chant of the Negro leadsmen continued. The old phraseology of fifty and sixty years ago has been maintained here. "Quarterless twain" sang the leadsman, "and a quarter twain mark twain." These three readings meant that depths of 10½ feet, 13 feet and 12 feet had been recorded. The constantly varying depths revealed the river bed as a series of dips and swells. Enormous sand bars, ten feet high and acres in extent, were passed.

"These sand bars in the river are a mighty problem," said Col. Moore. "A sudden rise sweeps sands into the current when the river falls again, the silt and sand settles in irregular deposits. Then we have an entirely new channel to cope with."

Government Line Busy.

Despite all this Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn announced that a checkup showed barges of the Inland Waterways corporation, the government line of which he is executive chairman, were now moving down the river to New Orleans laden with a total of 1,600,000 bushels of grain.

"A river which can support such transportation and a district which can supply such loads is deserving of a real water highway despite all the difficulties that can be marshaled," he said. "Profitable commerce on the Mississippi is here to stay."

The secretary's steamer will be anchored at Thebes, Ill., tonight. Tomorrow morning, when the expedition reaches Cairo, Ill., where the Ohio joins the Mississippi, Mr. Hurley will make a flying trip over the Birds Point New Madrid floodway, the first great flood control project, which is designed to protect Cairo from river floods.

A. F. OF L. LEADERS BACK PLAN TO FIGHT FOR 2.75 PCT. BEER

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor assented today to a proposal by Martin F. Ryan of Kansas City, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Car Men, that the time had come for the federation to make an aggressive fight to "clean up the mess created by prohibition."

Ryan's declaration came during a hearing on a request of the United Brewery Workers that the council recommend that the Boston convention ask amendment of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer. They argued that such an amendment would give employment to 2,000,000 persons and provide a market for 65,000,000 bushels of grain annually.

CONFESSES SHOOTING COUSIN.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Melvin Liphardt, 31, farmer, today confessed that he shot and seriously wounded his cousin, Wesley F. Liphardt of Milan, on the latter's farm. Melvin Liphardt had told authorities that he had been robbed of his automobile and money, but his machine was found abandoned near the scene of the reported holdup.

2 BANK CHECKS CONFRONT COP IN CAR THEFT PLOT

Chief of Detectives John Norton traced two bank checks yesterday which he said supported his suspicions that Policeman Fred Dornback of the Lincoln park force has been directing the theft of automobiles.

Dornback, arrested as he directed traffic at Michigan avenue and Ontario street Monday night, denied the charge of Nathan Poncher that the policeman had supplied him with keys for designated cars and paid him a commission on each machine stolen. Poncher had named Herman Small, 23 years old, 4432 Van Buren street, and Robert Nash, address unknown, as other tools of Dornback.

In Dornback's bank account at the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank Chief Norton found checks for $243 and $125, payable to Small, who was recently caught sitting in a stolen car conversing with Dornback. The owner of the car, recognizing his property, said he called upon Dornback to arrest Small, and the latter complied reluctantly.

Accompanied by the owner, Dornback took his prisoner to the Chicago avenue station and was there defending Small's good character and claiming to know the car was in fact Small's when the prisoner escaped. He was subsequently recaptured and is now free under bond.

Employés of the Sheridan garage, 920 Sheridan road, said that Dornback had quartered as many as five cars there under his own name.

Dornback is 35 years old, unmarried and has a room at 156 West Ontario street. He has been a Lincoln park policeman more than four years.

SEIZE FIVE IN DRY RAIDS.

Prohibition agents late yesterday raided a 1,000 gallon still and two saloons in Calumet City. Joe Licata and Edward Biel were arrested at the still, situated at 1022 Forest Hill avenue. Ernest Urbanski was arrested in a saloon at 243 155th street, and Frank Patarak in a saloon at 143 155th street. Andrew Malonie was arrested at a still at 4345 Ottawa avenue, Chicago.

How Old Are You?

Today Is My Birthday—I'm 41

BUT NOT FAT

What a difference a year will make—Just a year ago I was fat and 40—I was indolent and far from ambitious.

Look at me today—You won't find a pound of excess fat on me—I am vivacious—ambitious—Active—feel as good as I did at 30.

It's so easy to take off unwanted fat if you only know how—just cut out pie—pastry—ice cream—and sweet desserts and do just as I did.

Eat moderately of lean meat—fish or chicken—eat cabbage—spinach—cauliflower—sprouts or carrots—a fruit or green salad—go easy on potatoes, rice, butter, cheese, cream and sugar.

Be sure to take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

If you do this you will lose the fat that makes you lazy and sluggish—You'll have energy—ambition—your eyes will sparkle—you'll gain in charm and vivaciousness.

THE FINEST COFFEE COSTS LESS* today than at any time in the last seven years

A PRODUCT OF GENERAL FOODS CORPORATION

When you pick up your coffee cup at dinner tonight you can afford to be critical.

It is seven years since you could buy the finest coffee for as little as you pay for it today.

That means you can pour a richer flavored coffee into every cup on the table—

That means you can taste and savor all the full-flavored goodness of coffee at its best—

That means you can drink Maxwell House, the king of coffees—

And yet you pay little more for this coffee treat than formerly you paid even for unblended coffee!

Don't you think that is reason enough for putting Maxwell House Coffee on your grocery list today without fail?

★ Maxwell House Coffee has been reduced 11¢ a pound to the wholesale trade since July 1, 1929. This reduction parallels the reduction of high grade green coffee prices.

THE CRITICAL PERIOD IN THE TRACTION REORGANIZATION.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., the consolidation managers appointed at the suggestion of Mr Insull to draft a financial plan for the union of the elevated and surface lines of Chicago, have made their report. Their proposals will now be reviewed by a bankers' committee consisting of Messrs. Traylor, Harris and Arthur Reynolds. After this committee has worked over the plan it will be submitted to the committees representing the security holders.

The reorganization has reached its critical stage. The bankers' committee carries a heavy responsibility not only to the security holders who are directly interested but also to the public of Chicago whose welfare is tied up in the settlement. Some critics have said that the bankers' committee, representing in reality only the first mortgage bond holders in the surface lines, will approve the plan if satisfied that these groups have been fairly treated. We do not believe this to be true. The bankers are not so shortsighted. Apart from any consideration of public welfare, they know that if the settlement does not deal fairly all around, court proceedings and appeals are to be expected. Time will be lost during which little or no money can be spent on extensions and improvements. This would be an unfortunate result under any circumstances, but at a time of widespread unemployment any avoidable delay would be unforgivable. A fair settlement all around will avoid delay.

The bankers, we think, will be disposed to represent the public interest in another direction. The settlement cannot be a good one if it does not assure a steady flow of new capital into Chicago's transportation. There can be no extensions and no improvements unless there is money to pay for them and that money can come only from investors. Fair treatment of those whose money has built the existing surface and elevated lines will help make the new company's securities attractive to future investors. More than that, the financial setup should be of a sort to attract capital. The stocks and bonds should be readily marketable. Whether the settlement as announced meets this requirement is a matter to which the bankers' committee, we have no doubt, will give most careful attention.

Fortunately, the bankers' committee will not be torn between its duty to the security holders and its duty to the community. The welfare of the security holders is at no point in conflict with the welfare of the car riders. It is to the interest of both that the new company be organized with the least delay possible and in a manner which will assure a steady flow of new money into the enterprise.

AUSTRALIA AND THE EMPIRE.

The term of the governor general of Australia has expired. The Labor government says it has the right to nominate Lord Stonehaven's successor and it proposes to nominate an Australian; the opposition does not want the Australian government to interfere with the king in his choice of his representative, and prefers the appointment of an Englishman in the belief that his presence will serve to bind the dominion to the mother country.

The issue at first glance may seem to be a manufactured one. The constitutional powers of the governor general are narrowly limited and it is improbable that the conduct of the office by an Australian would differ much, if at all, from the conduct of it by an Englishman, or if it did that it would matter much. The governor general is by no means a negligible figure, however. He is the symbol of empire unity in that he represents the king and emperor; and he is the social leader of the dominion.

The position of the Australian government is therefore of considerable significance. The Labor party says that it does not want social leadership from the British aristocracy. It says further that it is willing to recognize the existence of the British empire and in return expects the head of the empire to recognize the existence of an Australia which is the equal of any other member of the empire. The sending of an English aristocrat to Australia as the titular head of the government is regarded as a declaration of the superiority of that breed to any other within the empire.

Americans, of course, will find it easy to sympathize with the Australian government. Americans, too, will have little doubt that if the empire is to persist it must be on the terms which the Australian Labor party lays down. There is a profound difference in social outlook between the average Englishman and the average inhabitant of the dominions. The great mass of Englishmen do accept the stratification of society as natural and right. The ordinary man in America and the dominions does not and never will, and each year's passing makes the fact more evident.

Englishmen have had no difficulty understanding the political meaning of the American revolution. Many even of the contemporaries of George Washington in England not only sympathized with the revolutionists but meant pretty much what Americans meant when they spoke of liberty and tyranny. For, politically, the American revolution was more or less in line with British political evolution. But the British public has never sympathized at heart with the social ideals of the American revolution. The disdain for the American experiment felt by Mrs. Trollope and other travelers who visited us in the '30s may have passed in large part, in the face of American accomplishment, but it has not been replaced by greater acceptance of our ideal of a democratic society.

It is not so in the dominions. A recent contributor to the London Spectator called attention to the fact that education in the dominions is deeply indebted to American examples, and he might have added that this is so because the social outlook of the dominions resembles strikingly that of the United States. British public schools and universities train the ruling class to rule. The dominions, like the United States, have no belief in a superior ruling class and accordingly our educational systems have taken a different direction.

The movement of events within the British empire in the next generation will continue the story of the attempt to compromise the two ideals into a working relationship. It remains to be seen if the advantages of empire union will be sufficient to hold even in nominal association peoples whose fundamental attitudes are in such sharp opposition.

GANGSTERS AND THE VAGRANCY LAW.

According to section 578 of chapter 38 of the Illinois criminal code, "persons who are habitually neglectful of their employment or their calling and do not lawfully provide for themselves or for the support of their families," and all persons "who are idle or dissolute and who neglect all lawful business, and who habitually misspend their time by frequenting houses of ill fame, gaming houses, or tippling shops," are vagabonds "whom it is the duty of the sheriff, bailiff of the Municipal court of Chicago, constable, city marshal, and police officers of any county, town, village, city, or other municipality in this state to arrest upon warrant and bring before the nearest justice," etc., for examination. On being found guilty, the vagabond may be sentenced to hard labor for a term of not less than 10 days nor more than six months.

We have not quoted the act in full nor studied the cases in which the act has been interpreted, but the phraseology employed would seem to be broad enough to cover the class of gangsters and hoodlums which are making most of the trouble for the police. The state's attorney is to be commended for turning up this unused resource, and we hope the courts will interpret the law liberally in the public interest.

The legislative intent was certainly not limited to any special type of vagrant, the common or garden variety of hobo or village ne'er-do-well, a comparatively harmless individual. If the legislators of 1871 did not foresee the modern more dangerous wastrel, their intent was to cover all individuals who are not supporting themselves by lawful means. The modern gangster has money where the old vagrant had none. He has adopted the modern idea of organization. He has seized instruments of modern invention, the machine gun and bomb and the automobile, to make his lawless power formidable. He has learned to take advantage of legal technicality to surround himself with a protective barrier or to open ways of escape from justice. But, like the old fashioned vagabond, he is a parasite, contributing nothing to orderly society, but exploiting it. He is far more sinister and vicious than his predecessor, but that is no reason why the discipline established for the lesser offender should not reach him. He is the rank and file of the forces of crime, and the police and courts should be able to keep him under surveillance and control.

We hope the full possibilities of the vagrancy law will be exploited. It seems to us a very promising line of attack.

RESOLUTING.

Lord Eustace Percy, minister of education in Mr. Baldwin's government, speaking recently at Williamstown, expressed the opinion that Great Britain would not bind itself to any rules seriously restricting her liberty to pursue the course adopted in the late war to shut off foodstuffs from an enemy. At a conference of international lawyers in New York Prof. Edward Avery Harriman wanted to know what was the use of adopting rules which the greatest sea power did not intend or is not likely to accept.

This was, of course, a rather tactless intrusion of reality into the transcendental deliberations of a conference of professors of international law, and a Mr. Wyndham Bewes hastened to point out that Lord Eustace's views were not necessarily authoritative, while Dr. Francis Temple Grey sturdily declared it was the job of the conference to "lay a foundation upon which all conferences of responsible officials may proceed." Responsible officials will proceed upon the foundation if it supports their national interests or as far as it does. The resolutions of professors of what is called international law contain, it seems to us, an unusual proportion of solemn futility.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Post.]

Col. Frederick S. Greene, state superintendent of public works, found a way to solve the billboard problem at the new mid-Hudson bridge at Poughkeepsie. He ordered a latticework screen built to hide the unsightly advertisement at one of the bridge approaches. And now he is faced with an injunction, issued at the request of the billboard owners.

By all rules of common sense and propriety the colonel is right. If the billboard were any other sort of unsightly nuisance his latticework screen erected on state property would be universally cheered. Instead, he now must fight his case through the courts. It is encouraging to hear that he will do just that.

If any one built a high board fence along a highway or at a bridge approach in such a way as to cause snow to drift on the road, or if the course of a stream were diverted in such a way as to threaten either a highway or a bridge, there would be a general demand that protective measures be taken. But when a billboard is so located that it impairs either the beauty or the utility, or both, of a bridge or a highway, it all too often is suffered in silence.

The problem attacked by Col. Greene exists in every state. His fight for the right to protect state property from intangible injury by billboards is a fight in the public interest.

TREATING LEPROSY BY FEVER.

In a discussion of treatment of leprosy, Dr. Victor Heiser suggested that the physicians in charge of leprosy colonies try the effect of an artificially induced fever. Several have reported that lepers have got better rapidly after attacks of febrile diseases.

The method of treating disease by throwing the patient into a fever is not a new one. A generation ago Dr. W. B. Coley proposed to treat sarcoma, a variety of cancer, that way. He had some successes. It was noted that the cases that had the most reaction after the injection of the streptococcus culture were those which got the most benefit from the treatment. About the same time Dr. O. A. King treated melancholia by injections of killed cultures of streptococci. He, too, found that the cases most benefited were those which had the most reaction. A little later a Viennese physician proposed to treat paresis and some other forms of insanity by inoculating them with malaria. He reported good results. Next it was proposed to infect the subjects with rat-bite fever. Various other fever producing injections were used. There were objections to all of the various methods.

Carpenter and Page have proved that a man can be thrown into a fever by means of short wave lengths. They conducted their experiments with apparatus made for them by the General Electric. The experiments were made with lengths as short as 5 meters [about 5 yards], and from that up. The best results were with wave lengths of 30 meters oscillating ten million times a second. When currents of this type were passed through the bodies of living animals it was found that their temperature rose rapidly and a high fever ensued. The method, having been proved on animals as being safe and efficacious, was next tried on human beings. Its use caused a fever to rise to about 105 in about one hour. There was some headache, some general aching, rapid pulse and rapid breathing, and sometimes nausea. The next step was to try it out in the treatment of suitable diseases in man. This is being done by a group of physicians in a hospital.

The only point worth while now is that the proper use of proper light waves such as can be used in radios is capable of producing a high fever in a man. When this does good and when it is harmful remain to be seen.

DIET AND ACIDOSIS.

Miss C. R. writes:

1. Will diet cure acidosis?
2. If so, what is the diet?

REPLY.

1. There are two kinds of acidosis. Acidosis due to fatty acids is caused by diets which are too rich in fats and foods from which fat and fatty acids can be made. That due to mineral acids is caused by diets too rich in acid ash foods.

2. To prevent the first kind the diet should contain only regulated amounts of cream, butter, fats, and oils. It should contain only a limited amount of proteins, since 46 per cent of protein foods are available for making of fats. It should consist largely of skim milk, buttermilk, vegetables, fruits, breads, and cereals; and butter, eggs, and meats in limited amounts.

To prevent the second kind the diet should consist principally of milk, vegetables, and fruits. Breads, cereals, meats, and eggs are to be eaten in small quantities only.

KEROSENE FOR HAY FEVER.

W. R. writes: I had hay fever for thirty years during every season spent near where ragweed grew. I spent three seasons in regions where there was none of the weed and I escaped. After experimenting with many remedies I tried kerosene. I poured a little in the hollow of my left hand and used my right little finger to get it up my nose and into my eyes. It caused much smarting. I used some soothing antiseptic as a palliative. In recent years I have found that one application of my remedy, made as soon as the hay fever starts, will bring it to an end.

LOOKS FRAUDULENT.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought two $500 bonds of a bank. In the spring of 1929 they matured. I brought them to the bank and they exchanged the bonds for one $1,000 bond which had been in default since 1926. 1. Don't you think this constituted fraud? 2. Don't you think I could in some way make them refund my money, inasmuch as I had to bring the bond to a trust company to be foreclosed? S. S.

1. It seems probable that fraud was involved, but the facts that you state are not conclusive.

2. We advise you to go over all of your facts in a personal interview with a lawyer.

RECITAL.

Among my choice of lovely things,
The satin gleam of swallows' wings,
A lemon-breasted finch on high,
Dipping and singing in the sky.
Tepees of corn in an autumn field,
The handsome gold of the harvest yield.
A pool where Iris like fleur de lis,
The painting of angel so delicately.
Granite pebbles like placer gold,
Where a silver stream above them rolled.
With beryl shade and emerald sheen.
A still lagoon where waters creep,
And bending willows droop and weep.
The crimson dawn on a wide-flung plain,
Departing suns on a rimless main.
A schooner yacht to windward sailing,
With the cream of foam on the under railing.
A lake that leans against the skies,
Open spaces where the gray wing flies.
The curve of a crescent beach and shore
And the muffling notes of the breakers' roar.
A night of stars when the skies are clear
And God himself seems hovering near.
The voice of a child at playtime hour,

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

WE AMERICANS have been complaining pretty consistently about our business depression, which at the worst cannot be more than temporary, and which already, according to leading economists, is at or near the turning point. Yes, we have been grumbling, following the contrast with unparalleled prosperity. Sure enough, things have been different. But don't we go overfar and couldn't we become downright Pollyannaic, if there be such a word, if we contrasted our national condition with that of many other peoples? Suppose we had the chaos and starvation of China, the unrest of India, the brutal oppression and hardships of Russia, the hurricane and devastation of Santo Domingo, the real unemployment of England, the business depression of Germany, ad infinitum. These United States are a mighty good place to live. Optimism, not pessimism, is what is needed right at this time, and time will show that optimism is justified. The Wake-Line hereby leads a hurrah for the better sentiment already prevailing and the prosperous times in the offing.

WHEN THE CAT'S AWAY.

Harvey: Anent your request for incidents concerning R. H. L. which he would not publish were he here, the following was told me by a friend of the vacationist and he vouched for its truth. I often have wondered if it is and would like to know.

R. H. L. tried to join the army—too thin; the navy—too tall; the marines—too old; so he joined the Y. M. C. A. unit and sailed to France. Sent to the front line trenches in a flivver truck loaded with cigarets, chocolate bars, etc., with instructions to sell to the doughboys. This not R. H. L.'s idea of big-heartedness, so he gives away all the supplies to the boys and has an empty truck, but no money. What to do? Borrows hand grenade, pulls plug and tosses into truck, good-by truck. Returns and receives congratulations on his narrow escape. Another truck, another trip to front, same procedure. Returns and recommended for a citation. Another truck and same result—except another "Y" man witnessed. Recommendation for citation withdrawn. R. H. L. comes home. J. A. M.

THAT DAY OFF in the schedule gave our Cubs a breathing spell. It also gave their followers a breathing spell which was just about as much needed. The situation is still tense with the Cards and Robins only 2½ games behind the northsiders and each day's contest now a "croocial" one.

WOMEN AS SPORT EXPERTS.

Wake-Line: Took the Girl Friend to the ball game and the umpire was hit on the shin by a batted ball. "Oh, that was a foul," said the G. F. I was surprised, as she knows her baseball, but remonstrated, "No, it wasn't." And she came right back, pertlike, with, "Well, it hit him below the belt, didn't it?" A CUB FAN.

FRANCES WHITE, former popular stage star, was arrested because she didn't have money to pay $3.50 taxi fare. When the news became public, she was showered with voluntary loans from friends. Now if we'd attempt anything like that, we fear our friends would say "Let the big boob stay in jail; why didn't he take a bus?"

WHEN THE president of the American Federation of Labor condemns the "dole" system, held in large part responsible for the pauperization of industrial England, it gives confidence for continued unity of purpose in employer-employé relations. Mr. Green's statement that the best remedy for unemployment is employment carries his thought that employment is an obligation upon capital and industry.

DEPRESSION?

Every one's scenting a panic,
Every one's singing the blues,
Still whenever you go to a picture show,
You stand—till they're through with the news.

The country is going to perdition,
We'll have bread lines before we have snow—
But try to buy seats for the Cub-Athletic games
And see what you get for your "dough."

We're all going to starve—that's decided,
A job simply cannot be bought,

The guv-er-ment's got to do something,
Or we'll fall in our tracks and we'll lay—
Yet the lady, by gosh, who does up our wash
Brings it back in a nice new coupé.

So I think all this talk of a panic,
Of the country about to go "blooey,"
Between you and me, and the old apple tree,
Is a lot of plain old-fashioned "hoo-ey."

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER, 10, 1914.

LONDON.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company, dated Vienna and reaching London via Amsterdam, says: "It is officially announced that a new battle began around Lemberg today."

BORDEAUX.—The following official announcement was issued tonight: "On the left wing all the German attempts to break the French lines on the right bank of the Ourcq river have failed. We have taken two standards. The British army has crossed the Marne and the enemy has fallen back about 20 miles. On the center and right wing there is no notable change." Earlier it was announced: "On the whole the Germans appear to be beginning a movement of retreat. The strategic position of the French troops is improving, but one cannot judge of a battle extending over 63 miles."

PETROGRAD.—Rawaruska, 32 miles northwest of Lemberg, the key to the Russian strategical move in Galicia, has fallen. This means, according to military authorities here, an Austrian disaster which will overshadow any reported heretofore. They say it means that the Russians have practically surrounded in a huge swamp the Austrians who have been strengthened by a force of Germans and that their annihilation or capture is certain.

CHICAGO.—In yesterday's primaries Roger C. Sullivan won the Democratic nomination for United States senator by a plurality over Congressman at Large Lawrence B. Stringer estimated at 70,000. The Republicans renominated Lawrence Y. Sherman for senator by a plurality over William E. Mason estimated at 40,000. For county judge the Republicans nominated John E. Northup, and County Judge John E. Owens and Municipal Court Judge Thomas F. Scully are running a remarkable neck and neck race for the Democratic nomination.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 10, 1900.

HOUSTON, Tex.—Between 1,000 and 3,000 persons are reported killed by a hurricane which swept Galveston, and 4,000 buildings were destroyed. Many other towns along the gulf coast were laid low and numerous vessels were wrecked. Estimates of the loss of life in Galveston vary. Gov. Sayers says that reports reaching him indicate that 3,000 persons perished. A message reaching here by way of New Orleans, sent by cable through Vera Cruz and Mexico City, puts the dead at 2,600. James C. Timmons, general superintendent of the National Compress company, has reached Houston after a perilous trip from Galveston. He says that at least 1,000 were drowned there. Ninety dead have been found in other towns. One big steamer is two miles inland as though hurled there by a tidal wave. Mr. Timmons said that Galveston is a total wreck and entirely submerged so far as he could see from the water front.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Orders directing Gen. Chaffee, with the American forces under him, to leave Peking immediately have been prepared, and probably will be signed by President McKinley at once. It is the intention of the United States to get its troops out of Peking as speedily as possible.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 10, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Lieut. Col. Chandler, formerly in the rebel service, who made an inspection of the Andersonville prison for Union soldiers, testified in the Wirz trial as to the indifference of Gen. Winder, Wirz's superior, to the comfort and health of the prisoners. Winder told Chandler that it would be better to let one-half of the prisoners die so that they could take care of the remainder. Winder was afterward promoted.

NEW YORK.—The Commercial's Washington special says that Jeff Davis has been removed from the casemates of Fortress Monroe and placed in more commodious quarters in the fortress. The change was effected on the suggestion of Davis' physician, who said his health was suffering.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Only two miles of the Missouri Pacific railroad needs to be finished to make a completed track to Kansas City. There is to be a grand demonstration in Kansas City on Sept. 15, if all goes well.

FOR ELECTRIFICATION.

Westmont, Ill., Sept. 5.—The village of Westmont, at a regular meeting of its trustees, held Sept. 2, 1930, indorsed fully your petition to the Illinois commerce commission for the electrification of railroad terminals. Our village is served by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. We are of the opinion electrification will be a boon to the suburban area it serves and profitable to the railroad furnishing it. And, by resolution of our council, Sept. 2, you are authorized to speak for us as favoring it.

W. A. ROBINSON.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF REVOLUTION.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Hipolito Yrigoyen has resigned the presidency of the Argentine Republic because the people demanded it, the people who reelected him. His resignation was asked for the good of the people of that nation. When the people saw that their president was failing in delivering the goods they asked for his resignation. It was absolutely right. The people who elevated him brought him down, and this should be an example to all the peoples of all the countries. Simply because a man has been elected to the presidency or any other high office does not mean that he should occupy that presidency or that office for the full term regardless of his interpretation in dealing with the important affairs that affect the nation.

Presidents of corporations are often asked to resign because they fail to accomplish the things that those who placed them there thought they could do. Poor administrative ability will cause the decline of anything, regardless of the strength of its foundation.

J. ALONZO.

WHAT MR. HUGHES THINKS.

Washington, Ind., Aug. 28.—It appears that you assume that Chief Justice Hughes in his address before the American Bar association at Chicago a few days ago had the eighteenth amendment to the constitution in mind when he spoke about the "balance between state and nation." Running through the editorial is the veiled implication that our chief justice feels that our country has gone too far in the adoption of this amendment when it is almost a sure thing that he did not intend to be so understood at all. P. R. WADSWORTH.

REPENTANCE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—I read with pleasure in your paper that after over ten years the government prohibition agents have at last decided that it was wrong to shoot a person while trying to enforce the law unless it was done in self-defense. It looks as if somebody is expecting to die and is getting ready to go before their God asking forgiveness for the murder of many good and innocent lives. MARK WHITE, M. D.

CAUSE OF BUSINESS DEPRESSION.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—When the present business depression began last fall our financial experts and most newspapers prophesied that it wouldn't last long. Stocks would soon go up higher than ever and everybody should grasp the opportunity to buy them. During the winter we were told that prosperity was just around the corner. When spring came and business failed to improve, delay in passing the tariff bill was blamed, but good times were almost at hand and stocks were a bargain. In the summer passed many causes (not the new tariff) were given for increased unemployment and trade recession, but the true cause—namely: several years of greatly increased production without any corresponding increase in the purchasing power of seven-eighths of our population—was never mentioned.

Since 1928 the wages of our 40,000,000 workers and the incomes of our 5,000,000 have been practically stationary, while the output per worker has increased from 25 to 100 per cent. If, instead of "cutting melons," declaring 100 per cent stock dividends, and piling up undivided profits, our corporations, which had increased wages and lowered prices, there would now be no overproduction or unemployment. Experts can prophesy good times, but while three-fourths of our population get only enough wages to buy the bare necessities of life no great or permanent revival of business is out of the question. Only by raising the purchasing power of the people as consumption be raised. Raising the wages of our underpaid millions to a decent living standard would do it, but it would be suicidal for a few employers to raise wages unless all other did likewise. So a general raise in wages can only be effected by a living wage law. Without such a law the wages of our 30,000,000 unskilled and unorganized workers are sure to be forced down by our millions of unemployed. These same unemployed will soon have to be helped. Many of those with families are now penniless. Why less than 2 per cent of its population enjoying incomes totaling $25,000,000,000 a year (as shown by income tax returns) this country is not going to let them starve. Instead of income taxes being reduced to enable more money to be used creating overproduction they should be raised to feed the starving.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

DEPRESSING SONGS.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Some time ago I heard a lot about the "wailing wall" in Jerusalem, but after listening to the broadcasting of some of the latest song hits by some of the so-called singers I am inclined to think there's a wailing wall around every microphone.

GET 100-PER CENT IN GAS FROM OIL BY NEW PROCESS

Assures Lasting Supply, Chemists Told.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Standard Oil company has found a way to get 100½ gallons of gasoline out of 100 gallons of petroleum.

Tht process converts 100 per cent of oil into more than 100 per cent of gasoline.

This development in the recently announced high pressure hydrogenation process of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was reported to the American Chemical society meeting here today.

Discovery by two Western Reserve university scientists of an electrical method of unlocking the world's vast stores of beryllium, a metal so rare it has qualified in the jewel class, also was reported.

How it Works.

R. T. Haslam and R. P. Russell of New York explained five recent developments of hydrogenation, the process invented by Friedeerich Gergius of Germany, whereby crude oil is squeezed in a highly heated atmosphere of hydrogen at about 3,000 pounds a square inch. Some of the hydrogen combines with carbon in the oil to produce more hydrocarbons—and so make gasoline.

When more than 100 per cent gasoline is obtained the addition of the hydrogen accounts for the extra.

It is not proposed to use the 100 per cent process at present, and the report said the time may never come when it is economical to convert oil wholly into gasoline. But the thing has been done and stands in the background ready to use if necessary to make the world petroleum supply last longer.

Four other accomplishments of the pressure method also were reported.

Announce New Deception.

The beryllium discovery was made by Professor Harold S. Booth and Miss Gilberta Torrey.

The obstacle to beryllium has been expense of extraction, its price being about $300 a pound. Professor Booth's report said that part of this expense has been solved recently, "in a cheap way so that coupled with our new process beryllium should be producable at a price low enough to make it applicable in aviation."

"Beryllium," he said "is the lightest known metal that is not corroded in air. It has the strength of steel and the lightness of aluminum. "Such alloys should be of tremenduous value in reducing the weight of heavier than air craft and in other places where light weight and strength are more important than low cost," he said.

MILITARY PLANE CRASHES AND SIX BURN TO DEATH

One Other Is Hurt in Mexican Tragedy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MERIDA, Yucatan, Mexico, Sept. 9.—Six persons were killed and one was seriously injured when the Sikorsky amphibion Mayab, owned by the local government, crashed and burned on the outskirts of this city shortly before 10 o'clock this morning.

Those killed were the pilot, Capt. Jorge Llerenas of the Mexican army, Lieut. Alonso Reyas Flores, co-pilot; Salvador Floras Cosio, radio operator, and Cosio's wife, sister-in-law and small daughter. Another passenger, Ermilio Cebada, secretary to the chief of police, received severe burns after the plane burst into flames.

The Mayab was the plane which brought back the bodies of Col. Pablo Sidar and Capt. Rovirosa to be buried in Mexico City after they had crashed off Cost Rica during an attempted nonstop flight to Buenos Aires.

Pilot Killed; Woman Hurt.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Sept. 9.—(AP)—James A. Dickie, secretary of the Flying Clubs Association of Canada, was killed today when his plane crashed about ten miles north of Fort William. A woman passenger was seriously injured and was taken to a hospital here.

Plane Hits Mast; Ensign Dies.

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Ensign S. G. Walsh, a reserve flyer, was killed today when his amphibian plane struck the foremast of the United States destroyer Elliot.

Two Northwestern Co-eds Held Up by Armed Negro

Miss Dorothy Barrs, 19 years old, 2320 East 70th street, and Miss Grace Philippi, 19, of 7423 Clyde avenue, both students at Northwestern university, were held up by an armed Negro last night as they sat in an automobile in front of Miss Barrs' home. The robber escaped with Miss Barrs' ring, valued at $500, and a $100 ring taken from Miss Philippi. Miss Barrs is the daughter of Thomas Barrs, a retired realty dealer. Miss Philippi's father is James F. Philippi, an official of the Bowman Dairy company.

5TH SILO VICTIM DIES IN FUTILE SELF-SACRIFICE

Four Perish, One by One, Trying to Rescue.

Hebron, N. D., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A tragic tale of heroism in which four children of Tony Neidhardt, a farmer, went to their deaths, one by one, in a futile effort to rescue their father from a gas filled silo was told here tonight as the five bodies lay in the farm home pending funeral arrangements.

Four of the victims were drowned in the brine of the silo pit after having been overcome by methane gas, poisonous fumes generated in refuse at the bottom of the silo. The fifth victim, George, 24, was taken unconscious from the death trap, but died early today after physicians, brought from Bismarck by airplane, had worked frantically over him for eight hours.

Tony Neidhardt, 50, the father; his son, Fred, 20, and two daughters, Margaret, 20, and Freda, 18, all were dead when discovered in the pit of the silo yesterday.

The bodies were recovered by John Neidhardt, a cousin, who risked his life to bring the dead to the surface after Ollie Dohle, and Tony Marshal had collapse inside the silo in a rescue attempt. Bohle's 16 year old son, Aaldo, made two trips into the gas-filled building before succeeding in fastening a rope about his father's unconscious form so that a group outside could haul him to the surface.

BRITAIN BLAMES GANDHI AS PEACE PARLEYS CRASH

Calls India "Holy Man's" Demands Unreasonable.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Mahatma Gandhi and his followers are blamed for the failure of the negotiation to demobilize the campaign of passive resistance in a statement issued by the India office tonight. The Indian government intrenches itself behind what it terms "issues of first rate constitutional importance" against the "unreasonable and impracticable nature of the Nationalist congress leaders' demands."

This blunt summary of the peace talks with the jailed Nationalist leaders finds that they were not only prejudiced against the issues of the government, which the Indian office was unwilling to abandon, but also imposed the view of one group on the whole of India. The British found the demands so extravagant that the government believes that they were advanced, not out of a desire to reach an understanding, but for the purpose of propaganda.

Fears Renewed Violence.

The report admits that the government is awaiting renewed activity in the disobedience movement as a result of the "abortive" negotiations.

"The efforts of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar to persuade the congress leaders to call off the civil disobedience movement have ended in failure, owing to the unreasonable and impracticable nature of the latters' demands," the report states. "These include the right to secede from the empire, complete national responsibility for government, including the control of defence forces, the acceptance of Mr. Gandhi's eleven points and the admission of the principle of India's repudiation of liabilities in regard to British claims by reference to an independent tribunal."

The statement further reviews the Indian demands, including the retention of the right of peaceful picketing of foreign cloth and liquor shops, the right of private manufacture of salt and the remission of all fines and penalties not due to crimes of violence.

Demands "Mere Propaganda."

"Apart from prejudicing certain issues of first rate consitutional importance, these demands most closely affect the financial interests of the local government and represent an attempt to impose these views on the party without reference to the opinions of others," the statement says. "These proposals as a whole are so far removed from practical politics as to suggest that they have been put forward deliberately for propaganda purposes."

Seize 30 Women in Riot.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Thirty women were arrested today for taking part in a procession in honor of "Mirabai," a British girl who forsook christianity for "swaraj" and became a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi. Before her conversion she was Madeline Slade. She is the daughter of a British admiral. "Mirabai" arrived in Calcutta this afternoon and immediately members of the congress party arranged the procession in her honor.

Police ordered the marchers to disperse, and placed them under arrest when they refused. The crowd then stoned the police, one inspector and two European sergeants being injured. After the disturbance police raided one of the buildings attached to Calcutta university. Ten students and ten others were injured during the raid.

COLLAPSES IN CAB, DIES.

William McGregor, 66 year old, an engineer on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, collapsed and died of heart disease yesterday in a taxicab en route to his home, 147 North Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, from the Grand Central station.

Fascist Party Called New "Aristocracy of Italy"

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 9.—Recognition of the Fascist party as the aristocracy of Italy, is advocated by the Fascist periodical, Crition Fascista. Stefano Marie Cutelli, author of the article, suggests that the conception of Fascism as a political party should be disavowed, and a new conception of it as a class of aristocracy should be substituted.

"It is clear that with the march on Rome there came into existence side by side with the aristocracy of blood, and above that formed by bureaucrats and parliament, an aristocratic body directed by a secretary nominated by the king on the proposal of the head of the government," says the article.

Fascism in Minority.

"Il duce, in a recent speech in Florence, instead of affirming that the framework of the state was the constitution and the various bureaucracies, declared the axis of the régime to be the Fascist party, without which one cannot conceive of the régime, even as one cannot conceive of man without vertebrae."

The periodical says the Fascist party has the right to be considered as an aristocracy because it will always remain in the minority. Il duce, instead of supressing the barriers and enlisting all citizens, had limited inscription in the party, it says.

Aristocrats for Three Reasons.

The Fascists are, in fact, already an aristocracy, the writer says, for three reasons: First, because officers and Blackshirts are chosen from the Fascist party; second, because deputies to parliament must be Fascists and when losing Fascist membership must leave parliament; and third, because members of the party must be given preference in securing positions according to their seniority in the membership of the party.

"There is no doubt that the Fascist party is an individual aristocracy, that it is a political class juridically recognized, and not a political party," Sig. Cutelli concludes. "Since such is the case, the utmost care must always be exercised to keep undesirable persons from party membership."

SEVEN BOYS HELD BY U. S. AS MAIL BOX THEFT GANG

Seven boys, ranging in age from 17 to 20 years, were held to the federal grand jury in bonds of $1,500 each by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday on charges of robbing more than 100 apartment house mail boxes.

Under the alleged leadership of Eugene McGriff, 20 years old, of 6417 Maryland avenue, the boys were said to have covered the entire city, meeting each night to divide up their "territory." Postal Inspectors J. J. McWhorter and D. F. Lyons are searching for other members of the gang.

FRANCO-ITALIAN NAVAL DEADLOCK ALARMS LEAGUE

New Outbreak of Old Quarrel Feared.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 9.—With the threatened rows over French Foreign Minister Briand's Federation of Europe scheme fairly well cleared up, league of nations circles are now alarmed over the failure of Franco-Italian naval pourparlers and the marked coolness which has characterized the behavior of the delegates of the two countries toward each other since their arrival at Geneva.

It is feared here that unless real progress is made in the next few days the eleventh league assembly, which opens tomorrow, will be marked by a new outbreak of the old quarrel.

A semi-official expression was made of these sentiments tonight by Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, in a general press conference. He admitted tacitly that despite the six months' naval holiday, France and Italy are no nearer an entente than last May, and that a renewal of conversations so far has failed to produce any good result.

British Offer Their Aid.

Mr. Henderson said that although the British have offered their services to help arbitrate the difficulties, he is yet unaware of the result, if any, of the Franco-Italian negotiations. Furthermore, it is pointed out that there is a vital necessity of clearing up the trouble, at least getting started on a path of peaceful settlement, before the preparatory disarmament commission convenes early in November.

Mr. Henderson also hinted that there were prospects of a row in the league assembly over the Italian efforts to reorganize the secretariat in such a way as to diminish the Franco-British domination. Great Britain, Mr. Henderson, declared, will strongly support the majority report on the reorganization of the committee and fight the Italian inspired minority report.

Grandi to Return Home.

Since the arrival of M. Briand, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy has stood aloof in the matter of their relations. There is considerable gossip here over the fact that the Italian delegation is staying at the Carlton Park hotel instead of the Hostes des Bergues with the French, where it has always made its headquarters at previous sessions. During the council meeting the two foreign ministers sat side by side in stony silence.

According to information tonight, Sig. Grandi will leave for Rome tomorrow morning without waiting for the assembly meeting. His departure, it is stated, will kill all possibility of a get-together session with M. Briand.

AMMEL REACHES NEW YORK FOR HOP TO EUROPE

Flies from Chicago in 7½ Hours.

HOPES TO EXCEL LINDY.

Capt. Roy W. Ammel took off at 10 a. m. yesterday from Curtiss airport in his special Lockheed monoplane with which he proposes to retrace Lindbergh's route across the Atlantic to Paris and perhaps on to Berlin or Rome. His trip to New York was the first part of his projected European flight. He planned to remain in New York to make minor adjustments and to await favorable weather for his sea flight.

As he climbed aboard his low wing, streamline plane Capt. Ammel said he hoped to better Lindbergh's record to Le Bourget field, Paris.

"Mechanical improvements in airplane construction give me a faster ship than he flew," Capt. Ammel said, "and with favorable weather I think I can get across in less than 30 hours."

Plans Speed of 160 Miles.

With a capacity fuel load of 817 gallons of gasoline, Capt. Ammel predicts that his takeoff from Roosevelt field can be made at a speed of 120 miles an hour, which will increase as fuel is consumed and the load is lightened. After 1,000 or 1,500 miles of flying he believes he can increase the speed to an average of 160 miles an hour. Capt. Ammel's plane carried only 350 gallons of gasoline when he took off yesterday morning.

If his ship is functioning well when he reaches Paris, Capt. Ammel said, he will dip a wing in salute over Le Bourget and continue to Berlin or Rome, depending upon the amount of fuel left in his tanks.

The plane is equipped with a Wasp motor and has a greater wing spread than a similar ship being flown by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. Although it is not a cabin plane, the cockpit is inclosed.

KILLS HIMSELF IN STREET.

In view of several passing motorists, Frank Triske, 50 years old, an unemployed laborer of 7548 Belmont avenue, Elmwood Park, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head yesterday at Harlem and Wabansia avenues, Elmwood Park.

BROKER STILL IN GRAVE CONDITION FROM GUN WOUND

The condition of Morton J. Traub, La Salle street broker, who shot himself in the chest, apparently by accident, on Monday morning at his home at 507 North Linden avenue, Highland Park, remained extremely grave last night, attendants at the Highland Park hospital said.

A second blood transfusion, deferred yesterday on account of the patient's weakness, may be tried this morning. Should the new transfusion prove successful, Mr. Traub has an even chance for recovery unless there is an infection, according to Dr. Karl A. Meyer, chief of the county hospital staff and personal friend of Mr. Traub's, who took charge of the case.

Meanwhile a double birthday party, planned for Mr. Traub and his close friend, Henry Glidden, Chicago insurance adjuster, at the Glidden home in Highland Park, was canceled. Mr. Traub was 53 years old yesterday.

ROB SOUTH SIDE BAKERY.

Two Negroes held up the Cushman bakery, 311 East 55th street, yesterday, threatened the clerk, Mrs. Laura Roberts, 5504 South Michigan avenue, with guns, and escaped with $30.

Two Sentenced by U. S. Judge for Stamp Holdup

George Ballin, 20 years old, 7235 Clybourn avenue, was sentenced to 10 years in the federal industrial school at Chillicothe, O., by Federal Judge Woodward yesterday on a charge of robbing a drug store postal station at 1358 Webster avenue, where $40 in stamps and money orders was obtained. Emil Bratu, 15 years old, 3042 North Ashland avenue, was sentenced to eight months at the Washington, D. C., reform school for participation in the same robbery.

Good handwriting is a business and social asset. Start your child right. Talk to his writing teacher. Learn how important it is that every school child should have a good pen with just the right type of pen point.

Waterman's make their own pen points themselves. Buy the gold from the United States Mint, melt it in their own plant, and carry out every step of casting, rolling, stamping, tempering, tipping with everlasting metal for long wear, and grinding to more than ball-bearing smoothness.

They've been doing so for 47 years. Perhaps this is one reason why many people say "Waterman's write better."

There's a Waterman's to suit every purse. The pens illustrated are $4 and $5—many others higher or lower in price. All are fine writing instruments—and all will write even better if you use Waterman's Ink. For school use Waterman's new Blue Ink is particularly good—a clear, bright blue, easy to read and easy on the eyes.

Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service Stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

YOUR CHEAPEST NECESSITY...

YOUR fire insurance dollar pays for indemnity—for immunity against financial loss when calamity overtakes you. But that dollar buys so much more than the indemnity it pays for that it ranks as one of the most effective dollars you spend.

Fire insurance, from the indemnity standpoint alone, is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its cost has consistently declined for many years—even during the period of war inflation.

And this in spite of the fact that insurance service—as rendered by the more than 250 Stock companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has multiplied its activities for the public welfare and greatly enlarged their scope.

Research and Engineering

Your fire insurance dollar may pay for indemnity only, but for good measure provides engineering and research services to make life and property safer—laboratories in which to test materials and devices—scientific measurement of fire hazards — building construction codes—arson detection and investigation—organized fire prevention—and other voluntary measures designed to lower the fire waste and thereby reduce the cost of fire insurance.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

A thorough understanding of what Stock Fire Insurance really means and does—and greater public use of its facilities—will result in a still further reduction of the fire waste and a consequently greater service to the insuring public.

Famous Doctors Say • The Trouble Starts Right Here • Eating Yeast Corrects It

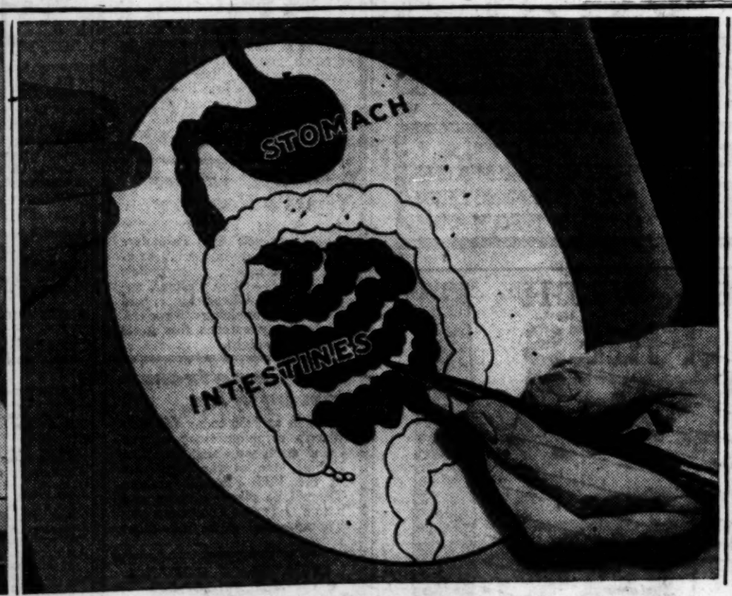
RUN-DOWN? SLUGGISH? Prominent physicians recommend eating yeast regularly for renewed health.



LOOK AT THIS INTESTINAL TRACT! Here is where most of your ailments start. Keep this tract clean by eating 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily, before or between meals.

HERE IS THE WAY to radiant health. Eat yeast 3 times a day for just 2 months. And note the difference.

Doctors call it "Intestinal Fatigue"

It causes 90% of our commonest ailments, and here is the simple, sensible way that famous specialists prescribe to care for it

TROUBLED with frequent colds, with headaches, with annoying skin blemishes? Subject to loss of appetite, to indigestion, to faulty elimination?

And do you want to trade these conditions for radiant health, for good color, for a clear skin and a trouble-free system?

Then read this . . . right to the end . . .

Nine times out of ten, all of those ailments and many more serious ills can be traced to one small portion of the human anatomy.

Doctors call this region the great danger spot, because it is the source of so much ill-health. Because its condition is so quickly reflected in your entire bodily well-being. Because it is so apt to be neglected consistently by most people.

It is in this region that the body draws sustenance from the food you eat. If it is not kept clean, waste materials collect. Poisons are generated. Bodily nourishment is hampered.

Now many people, realizing the almost universal need of attention, attempt to correct these difficulties with cathartics, laxatives, etc.

But these are temporary measures. Often they are dangerously violent. Frequently they cause more trouble than benefit. At best they bring only temporary relief.

So millions have turned to a simpler, more sensible way. A method employed by dozens of famous physicians. A method in which the foremost specialists of Europe concur. A method used successfully for 75 years.

Three times a day they eat yeast. Fleischmann's Yeast, taken in water, in milk, in milk shakes, with fruit juices, just plain . . . in any number of pleasant ways.

This food . . . for that's what yeast is . . . cleans and tones the entire digestive tract. It stimulates the intestines to normal action. It softens food residue and waste, and aids the body to sweep them away naturally.

And as waste disappears and normal intestinal action begins again, appetite returns. Poisons cease to flood the system. The skin clears. The cause of headaches has been removed. Health, radiant health, is yours.

All as the result of a simple food! A health practice that replaces habit-forming pills and drugs. Try eating yeast today.

three times a day

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

MRS. L. A. BUSBY TO RETURN WITH CHILDREN TODAY

Delay Plans for Funeral of Transit Chief.

Pending the arrival in Chicago at noon today of Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, no plans have been made for the funeral of Leonard A. Busby, president of the Chicago City Railway company, who died early yesterday morning at the Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Busby had gone to New York to place her children, Jane and Jack, in school. They will return with her.

Messages of condolence and expressions of regret at the passing of the street car chief were reaching the Busby residence at 420 Roscoe street yesterday from various parts of the country. Mr. Busby, who had been associated with transit affairs for many years and played a prominent part in negotiations preliminary to the franchise settlement some weeks ago, died just two weeks after Frank O. Wetmore, chairman of the board of the First National bank.

Blame Difficult Transit Task.

Both men, it was said yesterday among their intimates, might have been alive today had it not been for their months of persistent, tedious labor in behalf of the settlement. Mr. Busby appeared in robust health, but for more than a year had delayed receiving necessary medical attention due to his preoccupation with the matter, it is reported, and Mr. Wetmore, who was less physically fit, undoubtedly was affected by the long hours he devoted to the same problem.

Since the financial part of the transaction is now all that remains to be settled before actual work is started to improve Chicago's transportation facilities, the death of Mr. Busby could hardly affect the situation beyond a slight delay, if at all, experts decided yesterday.

Budd Issues Statement.

Among those who issued statements yesterday on the passing of these two prominent figures was Britton I. Budd, head of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, who said:

"Leonard A. Busby was one of Chicago's outstanding men. He possessed great courage and the word 'fear' was not in his lexicon if he thought he was right. I had been associated almost daily for the last year and a half with Mr. Busby and Frank O. Wetmore, who died two weeks ago today, in the long negotiations to bring about a settlement of Chicago's traction problem. These men gave their best efforts toward solving this problem without thought of self-interest The people of Chicago, the security holders, and all others who were interested in the settlement of this vital question owe them a debt of gratitude."

Others Express Similar Views.

Guy Richardson, general manager of the Surface lines, said: "His death struck us like a bolt from the blue. He had appeared well and was a leader in the traction negotiations for years."

Sidney S. Gorham, counsel for the citizens' traction settlement committee; Weymouth Kirkland, attorney for the receivers of the Chicago Railways company, and others expressed the same views.

Girl, 17, Charges Her Escort with Attack

On the testimony of a 17 year old girl William Daugherty, 35 years old, of Dixmoor was held to the grand jury in $10,000 bond on charges of rape and assault with a deadly weapon yesterday by Police Magistrate Frank J. Synakiewicz of Blue Island. The girl said that after drinking an apparently drugged beverage while on a roadhouse tour with Daugherty two weeks ago she awoke in his car to find that he had attacked her. When he attempted to repeat the assault, according to her story, she fled and Daugherty fired three shots after her.

ELGIN MAN TELLS HOW HE WATCHED ANDREE DEPART

Recalls His Father's Part in Venture.

An account of the departure of Salomon Auguste Andree and his companions on the gunboat Svensksund from Gothenburg, Sweden, for Dane's island, whence they set out in their balloon in July, 1897, for a flight to the north pole, was related yesterday by Axel H. Setterberg of Elgin. Funeral services for Andree and a companion, Nils Strindberg, whose bodies were found on White island in the polar region recently, were held on Monday at Tromsoe, Norway.

Mr. Setterberg, a horticulturist, and superintendent of the estate of the late Charles Erbstein in Elgin, "The Villa Olivia," was 16 years old when he and his father, Carl H. Setterberg, witnessed the historic start of the Andree expedition on May 18, 1897.

Hopeful for Andree Flight.

The elder Setterberg, who died last year in Sweden at the age of 70, formerly was a member of the Swedish parliament. He was sympathetic toward Andree's plan, the son said and when others ridiculed Andree the elder Setterberg thought the venture could be accomplished.

Part of the $36,000 Andree estimated he would need for his project, Axel Setterberg said, was contributed by his father. The expedition's chief backers included Alfred Nobel, who died before Andree could make his start; Baron Oscar Dickson, who died soon afterward, and the king of Sweden.

"I remember what a thrilling spectacle it was to me to see the hundreds of persons, held back by police, gathered at the Gothenberg harbor to wish the brave Andree and his companions farewell," said Setterberg. "I was with my father in one of the many small craft which dotted the harbor, surrounding the gunboat Svensksund and the cargo steamer Virgo.

"People had been streaming into Gothenberg from all roads that day to witness the leavetaking. There was a holiday air, and yet a solemnity about it all. My father was very much moved. He had waited in suspense for the day.

Await Word from Explorers.

"I remember vividly in what constant excitement our family lived, awaiting word from Andree's expedition. To all of Sweden it was the most important thing in the world.

"How great was my father's relief when a carrier pigeon was found with a note to the Evening Post of Stockholm, written at 12:16 p. m. on July 13, two days after the takeoff. It read: 'Latitude 82 degrees 2 minutes; longitude, 15 degrees 5 minutes. Good speed toward east. All well aboard. This is the fourth pigeon post message.' It was signed 'Andree.'

"That was the last ever heard from him, except for the buoy that was picked up off the Norway coast in June, 1899."

EXAMINE PUPILS AFTER DISCOVERY OF TRENCH MOUTH

Seventeen cases of trench mouth in the Spaulding school for crippled children, Ashland and Park avenues, do not indicate an epidemic, in the opinion of Dr. Edward H. Hatton, head of the research department of Northwestern university dental school.

"Naturally presence of this disease, which is highly contagious, is serious," he said. "But until all the children have been examined I will not say there is danger of an epidemic."

Dental clinics in the schools, supported last year by the city, have been abolished through lack of funds. The board of education, President L. E. Myers said, will be unable to provide funds for such clinics until Jan. 1, 1931. The Northwestern university school sent seventeen senior students and staff dentists, under the direction of Dr. Hatton to investigate and treat the pupils.

Howard L. Zook, 70, Elgin Council Member, Is Dead

Howard L. Zook, 70 years old, for 11 years a member of the Elgin city council, died yesterday at his home, 153 South Chapel street, Elgin, after an extended illness. Mr. Zook was for many years a stationer in Elgin. He was born in Lancaster, Pa., June 27, 1860, and went to Elgin in 1884. Mr. Zook was elected to the city council for his third term in 1927. He was in charge of the city finance department. He is survived by the widow, Alice Lockmiller Zook.

Miss Erma Siegel, 19 year old cashier of the Western-Southern Life Insurance company, was leaving the company's office at 6255 South Ashland avenue, yesterday for a bank, when she was stopped at the entrance by a strange youth. He grabbed her brief case, containing $733 in cash and $375 in checks. As she screamed the thief, described as about 19 years old, escaped through an alley.

DOCTORS ORDER KINGSFORD-SMITH TO QUIT FLYING

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Daily Herald says Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian aviator who recently flew from Europe to the United States, has abandoned his plan for a homeward flight to Australia and may quit flying.

The famous airman was quoted as saying that three years of hard flying and his two recent operations had brought about a bad reaction, with the result that his physicians had forbidden him to fly for some time.

"Unless my health recovers completely I may have to give up flying altogether," Kingsford-Smith is quoted as saying.

MRS. MINNIE WALDO SCHROYER, 79 years old, a resident of Chicago for 55 years and active in the Chicago Woman's club, died yesterday at her home, 1451 East 50th street. Two daughters and two sons survive her. She was the widow of Ernest A. Schroyer.

WETS ASK MITCHELL TO BAR DRY CHIEF SPEAKING IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Attorney General William D. Mitchell was asked today to restrain Prohibition Commissioner Woodcock from speaking here Sept. 15. The request was made by the Crusaders, an organization pledged to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The telegram read:

"Prohibition Commissioner Woodcock, scheduled to speak in Boston on Sept. 15, day before primary, his subject highly controversial. Feeling running high among Republican voters. Wet and dry question playing important part.

"Our organization, numbering thousands of voters, resents interference by federal authorities. In the interests of Republican harmony we respectfully request that Commissioner Woodcock be restrained from taking sides."

Goat Fights Autos; Jailed by Police After Struggle

Lizzie, a truculent and odoriferous goat, was in a cell at Woodlawn station last night while Sergt. Patrick Birmingham considered whether to book her for disorderly conduct, malicious destruction of property, assault and battery, or resisting an officer. Responding to a call at Marquette road and Ellis avenue, Policemen Thomas Brennan and Robert Fawcett found Lizzie amidst a congregation of cars, the fenders of which had been dented, and of motorists, also dented. After a half hour's tussling with a lasso the goat was bound.

Burning Stomach Pain Almost Killed Her. All Gone Now!

New Formula Acidine Quickly Ends Misery and Terrible Stomach Pain

"I was in a terrible state for years with acid indigestion," writes Mrs. Nellie Crouse of Kansas City, Mo. "After eating I had such terrible pains in my stomach, I thought I'd die. FIND CAMPS OF POLAR EXPLORER LOST 85 YRS. AGO

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The Edmonton Journal publishes an article by W. E. Gilbert, pilot of the Burwash aerial expedition to King Williams Land, telling of the finding of two campsites of the disastrous expedition of Sir John Franklin, who with his party was lost in the arctic 85 years ago.

Sir John, setting out to discover a northwest passage to the east in 1845, fell victim to the cold. For 14 years his fate was unknown, but thereafter other expeditions found his camps and a diary telling the expedition's history. He is generally credited with having discovered the northwest passage, and a monument to him stands today in Westminster abbey.

Gilbert says Maj. L. T. Burwash discovered important information concerning the Franklin expedition, which with other fruits of the Burwash journey will be forwarded to Ottawa. He said the north magnetic pole was reached and the area around it mapped by aerial photography.

ESCAPES THIRD WIFE'S SUIT BY DYING AT 135

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Sept. 9.—When José Antonio Lopez died at Latacunga yesterday after living 135 years in the shadow of the 19,000 foot volcano Cotopaxi he escaped trial of a suit by his third wife for nonsupport. Lopez retained full possession of all faculties until the end and recalled many events a century ago that are now history in Ecuador. He knew both Bolivar and Sucre.

TO REDUCE WITH SAFETY YOU NEED ROUGHAGE

DIETS THAT do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. Now new processes have made this famous cereal even more delightful—improved both in texture and in taste.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation! Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. It adds valuable iron to the blood, which helps prevent dietary anemia and brings color to the complexion. Try the recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

STATE SENATORS PLEDGE HELP TO WIDE ROAD PLAN

Appropriation Bill to Go Before Next Session.

BY HAL FOUST.

Cook county's state senators and senatorial candidates, at a luncheon held by the Chicago Motor club yesterday in the Palmer house, indicated they will support the club's program for widening the radial highways for more than 100 miles from Chicago and for separating the grades at the intersections of busy pavements. The program, in the form of an appropriation bill, will be presented to the next session of the general assembly.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, explained that there will be sufficient funds from the gasoline tax and motor registration fee to obtain these major improvements on the road system of the metropolitan area before the 1933 World's Fair, providing the legislators of the area vote together on a bill requiring the state to allocate construction to this district in proportion to the taxes paid by the motorists of the district.

Senators Tell Their Views.

"Chicago motorists won't be getting any too much if they get everything they ask for," said State Senator Frank McDermott [Dem., 4th]. In June alone Chicago drivers paid $900,000 in gasoline taxes."

Senator Lowell B. Mason [Rep., 23d] declared the commercial future of the city depends on modernization of motor transport facilities.

"The roads mean as much to us," he said, "as did the railroads thirty years ago."

Senator J. J. Barbour [Rep., 6th] said he was convinced of the urgent need for forty foot roads and grade separations.

County G. O. P. for Program.

Charles E. Peace [Rep.], candidate for the senate from the 29th district, said the Cook county Republican convention had adopted a plank favoring improvement of the radial highways and construction of grade separations.

Senator Roy C. Woods [Rep., 5th] also spoke favorably of the program. Others at the meeting included Senator Herman Haenisch and the following senatorial candidates: Joseph Kemmerling [Dem., 3d], Thomas A. Dillon [Dem., 6th], William F. Gillmeister [Dem., 23d], and Harold G. Ward [Dem., 31st]. Senator Epler C. Mills of Pana also attended.

TWO SCHOOLBOYS KILLED BY TRUCKS COUNTY TOLL 704

Auto Injuries Are Fatal to Two Women.

Two schoolboys were killed by trucks and two women died of injuries yesterday as Cook county's auto toll for the year mounted to 704.

Michael Garrity, 11 years old, 548 West 36th street, was fatally injured on his way home from school when he ran into the path of a truck at 3557 Wallace street. S. W. Keist, Villa Park truck farmer, the driver was held for the inquest.

Runs Into Alley, Killed.

Bernard Scanlon, 7 years old, 1062 Ainslie street, was fatally injured when he ran into the alley from the yard at 4680 Kenmore avenue and was struck by a truck driven by John Green, colored, 4637 Winthrop avenue. Green was held.

Mrs. Ida Wunderlich, 59 years old, 729 Diversey parkway, died at the Augustana hospital of injuries received on Sunday night when run down at Clark and Wisconsin streets. Mrs. Wunderlich's injuries were not considered serious at the time, and the driver, William Schneider, 2038 North Halsted street, was charged with reckless driving and sentenced to three months in the Bridewell. He will be taken to the inquest under guard today.

Mrs. Mary Hoffman Dies.

Mrs. Mary Hoffman, 60 years old, mother of former Assistant State's Attorney Samuel A. Hoffman, died at the Auburn Park hospital of injuries received on Monday night when struck by an automobile as she alighted from a street car at Halsted and 72d streets.

A coroner's jury recommended that the driver, Edward O'Connor, 9339 South Laflin street, be held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter, Mrs. Hoffman resided at 817 West 72d street.

In a spectacular accident at 20th street and Michigan avenue early this morning Joseph Fitzpatrick, 28 years old, 3004 Wallace street, was critically injured. Fitzpatrick was riding in a speeding automobile that crashed into the rear of another car, overturned, and burst into flames. He was dragged from the burning wreckage and taken to St. Luke's hospital. His companion, Vincent Engbert, 21 years old, 6225 South Bishop street, fled, but later surrendered to the police. Clarence Washington, 4730 Langley avenue, colored chauffeur who was driving the other car, escaped unhurt.

WARD LEADER FINED $25 FOR ELECTRIC FENCE

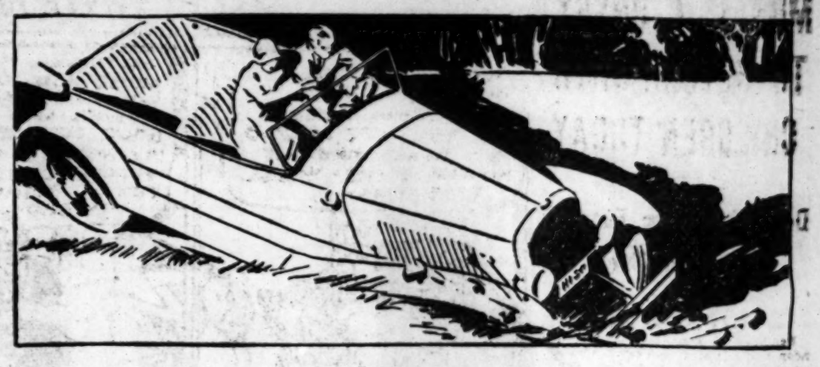
John Kulczak takes great pride in the garden at his home, 5320 North Lindner avenue. Yesterday he was fined $25 by Judge Howard Hayes for building an electrified fence to keep dogs and chickens away from the flowers. The judge allowed thirty days for the preparation of an appeal.

Neighbors had complained that the fence not only protected the flower garden but was constantly shocking children and pets who ran against it but had no designs on the contents of the garden.

A politician appearing as Kulcsak's lawyer threatened Judge Hayes with failure to be reelected if his client, who is a ward committeeman, were fined. "I am sorry I can't send your client to the Bridewell," the judge replied. "He would have a year in which to build an electric fence around that institution."

Auto of Chicagoan Kills Child of 6 at Auburn, Ind.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Verlin Walter, 6 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs Squire D. Walter of this city, was killed this afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by Robert C. Harman of the Hyde Park hotel, Chicago. The lad darted from behind a road scraper into the path of the automobile. Harman was held blameless.



INTO A DITCH!

"My wheels struck a culvert, and I crashed into the ditch. Of course, I thought my insurance covered me, but I found out that the insurance company did not consider sliding into a ditch a collision, and, as a matter of fact, that the policy expressly excluded such accidents."

A complaint such as this will never be uttered by the member of the Chicago Motor Club who has placed his insurance with the Inter-Insurance Exchange. The policy issued by the "exchange" considers sliding into a ditch a collision and the claims department handles it as such.

Another feature of the policy issued by the "exchange" is that it is the valued form which, in the event of total loss, pays the face value of the policy.

Civic work, such as good roads work, road widening, fighting speed traps, and working for sane laws and ordinances, are among the other general services.

A few of the services available to members are:

Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night.

Travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions.

Bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of $100 is demanded.

Accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering school boy patrols.

Home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed.

Easy to look at

THERE'S always some favored one with a charm that's all her own. . . . And everywhere in the modern scene you'll see happy smokers breaking out fresh, fragrant packs of Camels . . . a natural choice too!

For the mildness of Camels is a charm that's all its own . . . a natural mildness that's a quality of choicest tobaccos. Don't confuse this fresh, fragrant mildness with the flatness or insipidness of "over-treated" tobacco. There's a delightful natural fragrance to Camels, too, a "bouquet" as distinctive as the fragrance of oriental flowers.

43% AHEAD OF LAST OCTOBER

Here's something to think about when you plan advertising for 1931

In pages of advertising it is 33% ahead of last year.

Newsstand sales for the first six months of 1930 are the largest in its history.

The July issue (latest issue for which complete figures are available) shows an increase of 145,000 copies over last July.

The public pays more than $500,000 over the newsstands each month to read True Story.

This is more money than the public pays for any single issue of any other magazine in the world.

It is more than the public pays at the newsstand for the other six major women's magazines combined.

Isn't it quite obvious, from such figures as these, that the leading advertisers of America know their business when they buy True Story Magazine circulation?

They know that this circulation is alive, active, able to buy at the moment True Story goes into more than two million homes.

They know that the people who pay 25¢ apiece—to the tune of more than a half million dollars total per issue—have money to spend—extra money—right at the moment the magazine appears on the newsstands.

A market that no other magazine reaches

More than this, these advertisers know that there is no other way under the sun of reaching this group of buyers through magazines for the same low cost.

Four of the leading weekly magazines combined would reach less than 24% of them.*

The six other leading women's magazines combined would reach only 18% of them—and 78% of True Story readers are housewives.*

What is the measure of this mighty market, almost untapped by other magazine circulation?

According to figures compiled in April of the present year,* their combined annual buying power is almost 5 billion dollars, of which a good 2 billion is spent for food alone.

Here is a generous slice of the market where volume buying occurs—the kind of people who consistently buy 55% of all retail merchandise sold in this country—the folks you must reach and sell if 1931 quotas are to be met and 1931 dividends paid.

It is today a tried and tested market—a tried and tested magazine. We can submit no better proof than the who's who of full page advertisers in the record-breaking October issue.

Advertisers who want to make their 1931 expenditures reach the farthest and who must make every dollar bring the surest returns, are invited to weigh these facts carefully when they prepare their 1931 lists.

Only 20,000 Watch Battle.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Sept. 9.—With two old juice-elm pitchers dealing 'em off the arm, sopping and slippery, the Giants and the Cardinals this afternoon engaged in a bat game of the kind described as crucial, which tightened the tension in the upper half of the National league so it creaked like a pair of Sunday shoes.

CLARENCE MITCHELL.

Clarence Mitchell, a gaunt, sallow old man who stands convicted of 40 summers, astonished all present at the Polo grounds by pitching all nine innings for the Giants and holding the Cardinals to seven hits and a 2 to 1 defeat.

This whoked up the Cardinals in their impetuous rush for the championship and the National league share of the world series money, and created the utmost confusion among the buyers who still don't know just which boys to approach with business propositions and guarantees having to do with world series essays for the press and testimonials for haberdashery and other wares.

Only 20,000 in Stands.

The members of both bat-clubs and the strangely meager crowd of no more than 20,000 patrons in the park divided their attention between the proceedings on the field and the tidings on the score board, where the sluggish numerals slowly unfolded the story of the Cubs' defeat in Brooklyn.

The day's results in the New York sector, where all four competitors for the championship were embroiled on two bat-fields, left the Cubs only two and one-half games ahead of the Cardinals and the Cardinals but a fraction of a point ahead of the Robins. The Giants closed the afternoon in fourth place, but only three games out of first place, and the patrons stumbled over the curbs and rebounded off the street cars and taxis in the streets outside the park as they left the place doing sums in deep preoccupation.

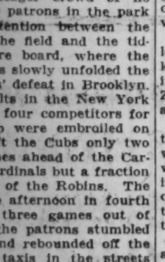
The other juice-elm pitcher of the day was Burleigh Grimes, that beefy nomad of the National league, who once served a spell with the Giant firm himself, but bobs around so fast that he generally has to pause and read the label on his shirt front to recollect just what bat-club does command his devotion at a given time. Today he was Grimes of the Cardinals and he performed huge labors for a professional profit of nothing, net.

Grimes Serves Seven Innings.

Seven innings he strove on the little dusty rise of ground, and it seems all right to say that his service came up the alley leaking and spluttering like a prize fighter's sponge, although, for a fact, such intimate observations are not to be made with the naked eye from where the customers sit in the modern yards. The only thing is that this Mitchell, a left hander, and this Grimes, a right hander, are two of the last four remaining pitchers in the game who are licensed to slobber up the baseball with dabs of the juice of the slippery elm to make it do eccentric loops and bends.

They would raise their big, oily pitching gloves to their features, peering mysteriously through the fingers thereof, and masking the processes going on behind, and sometimes they would dab the ball and sometimes they would only pretend to do so, but between the dabbing and the power of suggestion, they managed to keep their opponents pretty thoroughly awed and performed an old style pitching contest.

Grimes had allowed only six hits when he yielded to a pinch batter by the name of Puccinelli in the first half of the eighth and was followed by a party introduced as Lindsey, who pitched the eighth. Grimes' offerings weren't hit safely at all until the fourth, when Bill Terry wasted a double on the autumn air, and his second concession to the prowess of the home boys was another double in the fifth, Travis Jackson officiating.



BURLEIGH GRIMES.

Slips Out of Trouble in Third.

In the third inning Grimes found himself pursued by varmints, but, with runners on first and second and nobody out, what did he do but grow himself a tree and climb up it. Jackson had walked and the next minute found two runners in circulation owing to a bad throw by Jim Bottomley, who tossed wild to second, in

Waners Tell Cubs How to Win Pennant

BY ARCH WARD.

The pennant chances of the Cubs this morning call for the urgent services of a pulmotor. There still is hope, but there must be improvement in hitting. The Waner brothers are the boys who can save the pennant for Chicago. Why not hire them to write a series of three articles on how to develop a batting eye?

The first piece would go something like this:

"When we were youngsters in Oklahoma we played ball back of the barn with corn cobs for balls and broomsticks for bats. Now if you ever have thrown a corn cob you know it takes giddy hops and curves. Anybody who can hit one with a broomstick has developed an unusual batting eye.

"This may sound silly to major league players, but practice of this kind makes a ball, as they throw it in the big leagues, look like the Graf Zeppelin. That is why we just laugh and keep our secret.

"Now that we have done our share to wreck Chicago's flag hopes, we are willing to make restitution. After all, we can't win the championship and it would be better to have a western club come out on top than it would to have the Robins or Giants grab the title.

"We suggest that McCarthy buy a bushel of corn cobs from a feed store on Broadway and swipe a few broom sticks out of the hotel and go to work on the vacant lots for two hours every morning. After three days of this practice he will have a team of Waners."

Carnera and the Commission.

It appears that Chicago is not to be deprived of another opportunity to see Primo Carnera after all. He will show his knuckles at the Stadium Sept. 17 in a bout with Jack Gross.

When Mique Malloy was striving to match the Italian with Jack Sharkey the Illinois boxing commission gave him to understand that Mr. Leon See, Primo's manager, would not be permitted to attend his fighter. There also was the matter of lifting Carnera's suspension in California.

The California ring board last week denied Carnera's plea for reinstatement. But now it seems that the Illinois commission was only fooling, for Primo's bout with Gross has been sanctioned nevertheless.

Mr. See also will be included in the Carnera retinue, it is reported. He expects to be issued an interpreter's license.

Try to interpret that!

Tilden's Big Chance.

Bill Tilden has a chance to win new honors in tennis, strange as it sounds. The most colorful net man of all time this week may become the first eight time national champion in the sport's history.

Although his 38 year old legs no longer carry the spring of youth, Tilden should sweep aside all opposition in the national championships at Forest Hills. Two of his most formidable rivals, Jean Borotra of Paris and George Lott of Chicago, already have been eliminated.

Two other players, Richard Sears and Bill Larned, won seven national titles. Sears first won the crown at Newport in 1881 and repeated his success for six straight years. Larned, who came along ten years later, is dead. He won the national tournament in 1901, but was defeated in 1902 by H. L. Doherty of England. Larned came back in 1907 and won the next five championship meets.

Jamestown at 3-1 for $125,000 Race Saturday

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—George D. Widener's Jamestown is the future book favorite for the $125,000 Futurity Saturday at Belmont. Coley Madden is quoting the winner of four stakes at Saratoga Springs at 3 to 1. H. P. Whitney's Equipoise is held at 7 to 2, a strong second choice, while some of the other contenders are quoted as follows:

Epithet, 5 to 1; Surf Board, 7 to 1; Novelist, 7 to 1; Mate, 8 to 1; High Day, 15 to 1, and Baba Kenny, 15 to 1. Mrs. J. D. Hertz's Risque is held at 20 to 1, a generous price, while the others range from 30 to 1 to 200 to 1.

BRITONS, YANKS CLASH IN SECOND POLO TILT TODAY

No Change to Be Made in Either Lineup.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—America will ride against Great Britain tomorrow at Meadow Brook club in the second and perhaps deciding international polo game. The two teams will line up exactly as they did last Saturday, when the Americans won, 10 to 5.

Official confirmation of THE TRIBUNE story that there would be no tinkering with the makeup of either team came late this afternoon, when Capt. Charles E. Tremayne, speaking for the British players, said they had decided to enter the match with their original team and trust to the experience the players had gained in the opening game. A. Charles Schwartz, spokesman for the defense committee of the United States Polo association, said the American lineup would not be changed.

Expect Smaller Crowd.

Another great crowd will fill the grandstands at International field, but the overflow is not expected to be as large as that of the first game, when 50,000 persons, the biggest crowd that ever saw a polo match, poured into Meadow Brook.

The United States team is not anticipating an easier second match. Tradition of international polo points to an even more closely fought game. The second game, in every series since the war, has brought out the hardest playing.

The British team this year is a harder riding, harder hitting organization than that of 1924, or 1927. It is made up of players who have adopted the American style of fast, bumping, slashing polo, and if the British can reach their top form, as they confidently hope to, there is a chance of a British victory, necessitating a third and final game next Saturday.

In the first match it was not possible to compare the British as a team adversely with their opponents until after the sixth period. The difference between the Americans and the British was the difference between their No. 1's. Eric Pedley for the Americans was invincible. Gerald Balding for the British was their weakest spot.

Ride on Par with Americans.

Lewis Lacey, the veteran internationalist from the Argentine; Capt. Pat Roark, the Irishman who rides as hard as any American, and the towering Lieut. Humphrey have demonstrated their ability to ride shoulder to shoulder with their United States rivals.

Tommy Hitchcock should reach the heights his ten goal rating entitles him to tomorrow, unless he again decides to sacrifice individual brilliancy for team work. Pedley, the most accurate goal shooter international polo ever has seen, may roll up an even larger score than he did Saturday, for with a bit of luck he would have had eight goals instead of five in that game. One of his shots missed by inches, the goal post turned another, and a horse's hoof deflected a third.

Guest Hits Long Ball.

Winston Guest, son of a British father, hits a polo ball as hard and as far as any man in the game. He was reaching his peak toward the close of the first match, and Earle Hopping, "little Earle" they call him. Hopping, "little Earle" they call him, not because of his size, for he is a big fellow, but to distinguish him from his polo playing father, burned the turf last Saturday.

Guest summed up Hopping's game in a sentence last Saturday night. Heading for the shower, the big American back grinned as he shouted to a friend:

The lineup tomorrow:

GREAT BRITAIN.		UNITED STATES.
Gerald Balding	No. 1	Eric Pedley
Lewis Lacey	No. 2	E. A. Hopping
Capt. C. Roark	No. 3	C. Hitchcock Jr.
H. Guinness	Back	W. Guest

Sarazen Forced to Last Green in National Pro Golf Meet

Flushing, N. Y., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—A heretofore unnoticed professional named Charles Schneider, who is located at the Pennsylvania Athletic club, today fell a tee short of fame at the Fresh Meadow Country club.

HARRY COOPER.

In the first round of match play in the National Professional Golf association championship Schneider came within an ace of eliminating Gene Sarazen, home club pro, recent winner of the western open and two time holder of the professional golf title.

Trailing Sarazen by three holes at the 19th, young Schneider, whose tournament experience is almost nil, caught the doughty little Gene before the 27th, forged ahead with only five holes left to play and then let go a bad drive that finished up in a hedge paralleling the No. 15 fairway. After taking two ineffectual whacks at the ball and getting nowhere to speak of, Schneider conceded the hole, giving Sarazen the opening which he was not slow to grasp. Even then the match went right to the end and in order to win by 1 up Gene had to play two of the grandest recovery shots from the rough that he ever played in his life.

Cooper and Smith Win.

Theirs was only one of the exciting encounters that took place when the professionals began to battle at match play for the title now held by Leo Diegel.

Two that stood out, both from the standpoint of the golf that was played and the fame of the players, were the ones between Harry Cooper and Bill Mehlhorn and Billy Burke and Horton Smith. Both matches went to the thirty-fifth green, with victory perching on the shoulders of Cooper and Smith but not without bitter fights.

Diegel, Tommy Armour, Densmore Shute, Johnny Farrell, and Joe Kirkwood were the men who were given opportunities to take things easy. Diegel, meeting young Henry Ciuci when the young Connecticut professional was sadly off his stride, had his opponent 7 down at the end of the first eighteen holes and eventually won by 8 and 7, Ciuci playing a far better brand of golf in the afternoon but waiting too long to produce it.

Armour Crushes Hackney.

Armour, winner of the Canadian open championship this year and a former national open champion, led Dave Hackney of Lowell, Mass., by seven holes with a sparkling round of 70 in the morning and brought the match to a finish on the eighth hole in the afternoon, the score being 11 and 10.

It remained for Al Espinosa, the man who tied Bobby Jones for the national open championship last year and lived to regret it afterward, to stage the one real comeback of the day. Four down to Mark Fry, one of the coast professionals, at the noon hour, Espinosa managed to win out 2 and 1.

Summaries follow:

Densmore Shute, Columbus, O., beat Joe Frank, Kenosha, Wis., 8 and 6.

Al Watrous, Detroit, beat Eric Seavall, Culver City, Cal., 3 and 1.

Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia, beat Gunnard Johnson, St. Paul, 8 and 7.

Johnny Farrell, New York, beat Norman Smith, Yakima, Wash., 7 and 5.

Bob Crowley, Haverill, Mass., beat Wilfred Cox, Brooklyn, N. Y., 4 and 3.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, beat Bill Mehlhorn, Persacola, Fla., 2 and 1.

Tommy Armour, Detroit, beat Dave Hackney, Lowell, Mass., 11 and 10.

Leo Diegel, New York, beat Henry Ciuci, Stratford, Conn., 8 and 7.

Gene Sarazen, Flushing, L. I., beat Charles Schneider, Philadelphia, 1 up.

Here Are Tips for Passers in Tribune Football Contest

Many of the boys who have entered THE TRIBUNE'S forward passing and drop kicking contests Saturday morning Sept. 20 have reported they are practicing each day. Such efforts are worth while for the winners of the city finals, which will be conducted Sept. 27 at Mills' stadium, will be THE TRIBUNE'S guests at a college football game.

These lads seem to be concentrating on forward passing. One reason, of course, is that a target may be set up in any vacant lot. Goal posts are necessary for drop kicking. Although it is possible to practice without the goal, it doesn't have the same thrill.

15 Yards for Youngsters.

Boys 14 and under will forward pass 15 yards at a three foot target. The older group throws from a distance of 20 yards. Each contestant has five trials.

Best results in forward passing are secured by gripping the ball near the end with fingers wide spread and utilizing the seams on the football as an aid to the grip. However, younger boys frequently do not have large enough hands to grip the ball. They must balance the ball on the palm and throw with a side arm motion.

The ball thrown with a tight grip is tossed with a forearm movement for short distances. It is more accurate than a fuller and freer movement of the arm. Stand sideways like a baseball pitcher. Bring the ball back so that the rear point of the ball is back of your right ear. Keep the right elbow down as much as possible and balance your throwing stance with extension of your left arm much as a shot putter does.

Step Forward, Throw.

Throw the ball as you step forward on your left foot and follow through with another step forward on your right foot. This insures an easy smooth rhythm. Release the ball from the ends of your fingers as you bring your arm forward and it will spiral naturally.

Entries close for the seven preliminary contests next Monday. Choose the most convenient location and mail your entry immediately. The sectional contests will be held at Bessemer park, Washington park, Douglas park, Mills' stadium, Kelvyn park,

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox encountered no complications yesterday when they met up with the tail end but bothersome Red Hose from Boston. Because Cecil Pat Caraway showed the effectiveness which has made him one of the outstanding yearlings of the season, the eastern boys were not permitted any liberties with their sticks. On the other hand, the White Sox put on an attack that was almost a record breaker for them, and this, with Caraway's labors, brought about a final score of 10 to 1.

Caraway allowed only five hits, none of which figured in the lone run that denied him the added pleasure of a shutout. Against this portion of five safeties the Chicago boys countered with nineteen, most of them pleasingly bunched for scoring purposes.

Three Hits in First.

The Chicago Sox expended a lot of energy to get one run in the first inning. Cissell singled with one out and was forced by Reynolds, who stole second. A hit by Jolley sent Reynolds home. Watwood then delivered the third single of the chapter, Jolley taking third, but Barnes was unable to drive either man home.

The idea of scoring three times in the third originated with Reynolds. He crashed a triple to right after Cissell had been retired. He romped in on Jolley's single. Watwood singled and Jolley hustled to third, from where he counted on Barnes' hit. Kamm flied out, after which Crouse aimed a single past short, Watwood going home.

Even Caraway took a hand in the blasting which removed Russell from the scene and made the verdict safe for the Chicagoans with four more tallies in the fifth. This little rumpus got going with Watwood's single. Barnes tripled to right center and Watwood counted. Kamm neglected to hit, but Crouse followed with a double, Barnes scoring. A hit by Caraway moved Crouse to the plate. This was where Russell headed for the exit, his place being taken by Smith, who managed to end the round after a two bagger by Cissell had driven in Caraway.

Faber Choice Today.

Caraway's second display of hitting prowess at the right moment happened in the eighth. Barnes singled and stole second just before Kamm's infield roller made the second out. Crouse walked, whereupon Caraway lined a single to right, Barnes scoring and Crouse dashing to third. Crouse strolled to the plate on a safe whack by Mulleavy.

Faber will try to amuse the Boston fellows today, MacFayden will oppose him.

Here Are Ifs in National League Race

When New York's dual entry in the National league pennant race thumped the Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday they tangled up the standings to such an extent that it may take a week to settle the four teams back into their proper niches, even if they all pursue a consistent course of winning or losing. The Brooklyn and New York victories left Chicago still two and a half games ahead of the second place Cardinals, but they pulled the fourth place Giants within three games of the top and sent the Robins into a theoretical tie for second place.

If the Cubs win today and the Giants beat the Cardinals, New York would leap into second place and the Cards and the Robins would slide to third and fourth with this standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	81	57	.587
New York	78	60	.565
St. Louis	77	60	.562
Brooklyn	78	61	.561

If both the Cubs and the Cardinals win, the Cards will stay two and a half games to the rear of first place, with this standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	81	57	.587
St. Louis	78	59	.569
Brooklyn	78	61	.561
New York	77	61	.558

A defeat for the Cubs and a Cardinal victory, however, would bring both St. Louis and Brooklyn within a game and a half of the top, while the Giants still would be only three games behind in fourth place, in this order:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	80	58	.580
St. Louis	78	59	.569
Brooklyn	79	60	.568
New York	77	61	.558

On the other hand, if the Robins beat the Cubs again today and the Giants win, the Cubs will still be only a game and a half in front, with Brooklyn in second place. The pennant march then would line up like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	80	58	.580
Brooklyn	79	60	.568
New York	78	60	.565
St. Louis	77	60	.562

Thus, as far as the Cubs are concerned, it doesn't make much difference who loses, just so it isn't the Cubs. Today's game between the Cardinals and the Giants looks like a toss-up, with Wild Bill Hallahan slated to pitch for St. Louis, while Bill Walker will probable be the Giants' selection.

Manager McCarthy expects to start out today on the project of smassing a total of 90 games won, which the Chicagoans figure should be enough to clinch the pennant. To do that they must win 10 of their remaining 17 games. The Cards then would have to win 14 of 18, the Robins 13 of 16, and the Giants 14 of 17 remaining games to pass the champions. The standing then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cardinals	91	63	.591
Robins	91	63	.591
Giants	91	63	.591
Cubs	90	64	.587

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The Brooklyn Robins, who were supposed on precedent to curl up and collapse at the sight of the Cubs, didn't tremble a nickel's worth this afternoon. Instead they splattered whitewash all over the once proud champions, accomplishing a handsome, well deserved victory, 3 to 0. And now you can put the first division of the National league under your new fall bonnet.

PAT MALONE.

The Robins made enough to win in the very first inning, but just to show they weren't a bit scared of their old bugbears they acquired two insurance runs in the eighth, these coming across as a result of Johnny Frederick's single and Babe Herman's 31st homer.

Phelps Gives Only 5 Hits.

Babe Phelps was the big boss of the show. He allowed only five hits, no two in the same inning. Hack Wilson made a double to start the second inning, English singled with one out in the sixth, Kelly singled with one out in the seventh, Malone led off the eighth with a single, and Wilson led off the ninth with a single. Woody English was the only Cub to get to third, and Hack the only other one who reached second.

After the day's doings the Cubs still led the league by 2½ games. The Cardinals and Robins are in a tie for second place in games won and lost, although the Cards are leading the Robins by one percentage point. The Giants are only a half game back of the Cards and Robins, in fourth place.

The tragedy today was the seventh defeat the Cubs have suffered in the last ten days and the sixth out of twenty they have dropped to the Robins this season.

Root vs. Luque Today.

Tomorrow the Chicagoans will play their semi-final of the year against the Robins, with Root pitted against Adolfo Luque, while across the bridge the other pennant contenders will be battling each other at the Polo grounds.

If the Cubs lose tomorrow, goodness forbid, it will be possible for them to drop within 2½ games of fourth place, this being based on the possibility that the Giants again whip the Cardinals. Taking a brighter outlook, if the Cubs beat the Robins and the Giants beat the Cardinals, the Giants will move up from fourth to second, but will continue three games back of the Cubs.

Now to get back to the cruel fashion in which Pat Malone lost a seven hit ball game:

Allah was indeed kind to the Chicago defense in the first four innings, mostly because of double plays that came in the second, third, and fourth innings.

Kelly Helps Out.

After the first three Cubs of the game had failed to get the ball out of the infield, Frederick stepped up and smacked Malone's first pitch for a triple to right center. Gilbert then grounded to Malone and Frederick was trapped between third and home, Gilbert reaching second during the run-down.

BABE HERMAN.

Herman grounded to Bell, who made a bad throw to first, but the putout was accomplished through some clever work by Kelly. Gilbert went to third on the play. Wright took a cut at the ball but it was just a topped dribbler toward third, too slow for Bell to capture in time for a play. Gilbert scoring and Wright landing on first. Bis-

ATHLETICS KEEP GIRLS FIT DURING WORKING HOURS

Western Electric Sports Aid Morale.

There's at least one woman in Chicago who has a bigger job than the mother of a large family. Her name is Blanche Popelka, and under her wing she has 5,000 grownup children—all of them girls. It's up to Miss Popelka to make them forget the hours during which they make telephones in the Western Electric company's Hawthorne works and help them to get some fun out of their leisure time.

Many young ladies who work as hard as these have forgotten how to play, but the program of baseball, tennis, track and field sports, clog dancing, horseback riding, bowling, volley ball, and horseshoe pitching is proving that working girls have just as much talent for sport as their sisters in college—and get just as much fun out of it.

Show Right Spirit.

They show the right spirit most of the time in spite of an occasional flurry of hair pulling, but things are not always rosy. For instance, Miss Popelka came into the locker room one day after an unusually close baseball game and found one of the girls crying.

"Tsk, tsk," said Miss Popelka. "It's not good sportsmanship to cry because the other team won."

"I'm not crying because the other team won. I'm crying because we lost."

Helped Morale of Plant.

"Men do not understand women well enough to teach them sports," Miss Popelka said. "Women cannot play as hard as men and it is not beneficial to their health to try to come up to the standards and records set by men. They believed that we would be helpless on the athletic field without their guidance. But we've shown 'em.

"The girls are very enthusiastic about sports and the benefits resulting are worth all the expense they make for the company. The friendly competition is doing an incalculable amount of good for the morale of the plant.

"The girls organize their own teams and the more experienced ones are instructors for the beginners. In this way all are kept interested and busy out in the fresh air."

DEADLINE NEARS IN FINAL ROUND OF TRIBUNE GOLF

Contestants in THE TRIBUNE'S golf tournament have only a few more days to play their sixth and final round matches. All who fail to get their cards to THE TRIBUNE golf editor by next Monday will lose by default.

Results will be published day by day as they are received, so play your part of the match at your earliest opportunity and send in your score, as your adversary probably has played his round already and is wating to learn how he came out.

NORMAN KNOCKS OUT BERT QUINN IN FIRST ROUND

Edgar Norman, Norwegian light heavyweight, knocked out Bert Quinn of Honolulu last night in the first round of a scheduled 10 round bout at the Congress Arcade. A left hook to the jaw floored Quinn for the count. He weighed 170; Norman weighed 172.

In the semi-windup Pal Moore slapped and cuffed his way to an eight round decision over Bobby Allen. It was the fourth time they have met. In the other bouts Steve Hess beat Bobby Vernon in six rounds, Paul Schiffer was awarded a six round verdict over Harry Kid Roberts, and Mickey O'Shea outboxed Sig Hansen the four round opener.

Canzoneri and Petrolle Wind Up Hard Drill

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Tony Canzoneri and Billy Petrolle finished boxing yesterday for their ten round fight tomorrow night at the Chicago Stadium. They will rest today with a small measure of limbering up exercises to keep them in top shape.

Petrolle weighed 136½ pounds yesterday and his manager, Jack Hurley, believes he will weigh in at 134 pounds. Tony Canzoneri probably will weigh 131 pounds.

Tony appeared to a better advantage yesterday at Barry's gym where he went four rounds against Eddie Speaks and Tiger Stewart, than he did Monday. He was more elusive and his punching was better timed.

"Tony was hitting harder," Speaks said after he left the ring to Tony and the colored Tiger. "But I took his on first. Monday I got second whack. I couldn't hit Tony with a right hand blow as easily as in our first workout."

We didn't ask Stewart what he thought about Tony's ability. It wasn't necessary, for he caught enough body blows in the first two minutes to make him close in and hold. When he couldn't stop the lithe Italian by hanging on his arms he grabbed at the ropes and wrestled.

Petrolle worked before an enthusiastic following at the Arcade. Jack Kane, a welterweight who has fought Petrolle four times in his own right, climbed into the ring for two rounds. Billy worked easily and crowded his man to the corners, where he hooked his left to the stomach and head, occasionally smashing a right to the jaw.

"Petrolle can beat Tony," Kane said in passing verdict on the fight. "His right carries more power than I like."

Kane knows, for in their last fight he was knocked out in the ninth round.

Frankie Frisco followed Kane into the ring. He lasted two rounds only because Petrolle was kind hearted.

Seven thousand dollars is the value the Stadium has set on Lomski and Levinsky. These big boys will be paid this sum to aim their knockout blows at each other tomorrow night for ten rounds. Levinsky will receive $3,000. Both have their followers, but it's said that many of the king's bodyguard don't care who tosses the knockout blow. They believe Levinsky would be as thrilling in defeat as when he hammers the other fellow.

Harry Fierro and Ernie Peters need no introduction. They occupy the third position on tomorow's card. The two bantamweights went six rounds to a draw last winter and the extra distance shold determine a victor this trip. The cocky Peters, whose Indian blood adds color to the stable of Italians and Jews managed by Sam Pian and Art Winch, has named himself the winner. Fierro has made no reply, although his manager, Frank Dane, has issued sanguinary bulletins.

Kid Francis, who meets Harry Forbes in an eight rounder, will show Chicago how he defeated Fidel Labarba in 20 rounds in Paris. Charley Retslaff, another heavy walloper, is matched with Pedro Lopez in the six round opening fight.

The Stadium is scaled to $80,00 in receipt if all the 22,000 seats are sold. indications yesterday were a crowd of 12,000 to 14,000 would see the show. The three preliminary fights cost $2,300. Petrolle will be paid 15 per cent, while Canzoneri will take 25 per cent.

Primo Carnera, who makes his final American appearance at the Stadium Sept. 17, will arrive tonight. The Italian will be quartered at the Southmoor and will commence training tomorrow at Roby speedway. Bill Duffy and Leon See, the touring representatives of Carnera's squad of managers, expect more business than the loop gymnasiums can accommodate. Hence the Indiana outdoor location.

Irish Net Star Beats Vines in National Meet

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A fighting Irishman, Lyttleton Rogers, provided the national tennis singles championship with its daily thrill this afternoon by defeating young Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Cal., 4-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4.

The victory carried the biggest tennis player in the world into the fourth round, where he will encounter Bill Tilden tomorrow. Big Bill, whose six feet one inch of altitude will be dwarfed by the giant Davis cup ace from Ireland, outclassed Ed Feibleman of New York, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0.

Vines was not the only seeded player to bow himself out of the tournament in the third round. Bryan Grant of Atlanta, holder of the national clay courts singles title and No. 12 on the American seeded list, was upset by Samuel B. Gilpin II of Philadelphia, 6-2, 4-6, 11-9, 3-6, 6-4.

Tilden's foremost protegé, Wilbur Coen of Kansas City, bowed before Sidney B. Wood, 18 year old New York sensation, 6-2, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1.

The exit of Vines, 18 year old star, who beat Frank Hunter, Frank Shields and Dick Williams earlier in the summer, was dramatic in the extreme. The gigantic Rogers started poorly, but played good tennis during the last four sets. He was always on top of the ball and when he served from the Alpine heights above his head the speed of the ball was terrific.

All three of the leading English contenders—Harold G. N. Lee, John S. Olliff and Frederick Perry, scored in straight sets, but some of the foremost Americans had considerable trouble.

Clifford Sutter, intercollegiate champion from Tulane university, defeated Herbert Bowman, New York veteran, 6-1, 2-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. Johnny Doeg played listlessly to defeat Lieut. R. M. Watt Jr., 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4. In an international struggle with young Ted Avery of Cambridge university, the veteran Francis T. Hunter won by scores of 4-6, 8-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Gregory Mangin shattered the comeback ambitions of Johnny Hennessey, former "first ten" star from Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-0, 1-6, 6-2, and Dick Murphy, Utica, N. Y., southpaw, carried Wilmer Allison to 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

YACHTS TO BEGIN RACES TODAY FOR RICHARDSON CUP

While eastern yachtsmen are looking forward to the first of the America cup races off Newport, R. I., Saturday, Lake Michigan competition will take on an international aspect with the Richardson races, the first of which will be sailed this afternoon off Belmont harbor.

The Richardson series, sailed every two years, involves the international championship of the great lakes among universal R class sloops, of which there are more than 60 on the lakes. The three contestants this year are Gossoon of Detroit, winner of the Richardson series two years ago at Rochester, N. Y., which will represent Lake Erie; the Canadian boat Spry, representing Lake Ontario, and Atlanta of the Chicago Yacht club which will sail for Lake Michigan.

The series will be decided by three races—one today, tomorrow and Friday. They will be run over three courses, rectangular, quadrilateral, and windward and return. All races will be under the rules of the North American Yacht Racing union. Each race will start at about 1 p. m.

Spry Is Damaged.

The Spry met with two accidents while heading for the scene of the Richardson races. While loading on the cars at Buffalo the eye bolts were pulled out, the boat dropped, and she was badly shaken. While in transit to Chicago she shifted in her cradle and several planks stove in. She was taken to the Calumet shipyards in South Chicago and as a result of the toil of 24 hour shifts of workmen, she is in shape again.

The Spry was built in 1925 by Johann Anker of Norway, shipped to Halifax and sailed down to Marblehead, Mass., where she was sailed until 1926, when she was brought to Buffalo by Clarence B. Ferris, her present skipper. The Spry's crew will include Mrs. Ferris, the first woman to sail in a Richardson race on the great lakes.

Gossoon Undefeated.

Atalanta, the Chicago representative in the series, is owned by William H. Colvin, who purchased her this spring. Until then she had sailed under the name of Gypsy I. Mr. Colvin was one of the three organizers of the Inland Lake Racing association in 1897, but Atalanta will be the first boat he has sailed on Lake Michigan. Atalanta's crew, chosen by the selection committee of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, is composed of four local veterans. They are William Faurot, skipper; Frederick Spencer, light canvas; Larry Hendrickson, main sheet, and Malcolm D. Vail, midshipman.

The Gossoon, owned by T. P. Archer of Detroit, is four years old and originally was built for Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams. She is undefeated in any series of races in her class.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There were no cheers for Brown Wisdom, the odds on choice, in the Olympia Fields Country club purse at Lincoln Fields yesterday. Usually the crowd lauds the 5 year old son of Brown Prince II.-Prodigy when it bets heavily on him, for, most of the time, he has been able to outrun his rivals and drop his nose in front when the finish came.

But when Harry Payne Whitney's Tantivy came home four lengths in front and Brown Wisdom finished last in the field of five at the end of the six furlong dash, those persons who usually cheer Brown Wisdom booed him.

It may be that Brown Wisdom deserved that unpleasant reception when he cantered back to be unsaddled. But do you suppose after all it was Brown Wisdom's fault that he failed so miserably in this race? And isn't it a bit unkind to heap abuse on such a fast running fellow who has beaten the great stake stars of the country when he has no way of telling his fickle following what was wrong?

Is Flesh and Blood.

It was a miserable race he ran, but Brown Wisdom after all is of thoroughbred flesh and blood. He isn't a machine of iron and steel. He can't go on forever beating the best horses that can be mustered against him, and when Tantivy, Cayuga, Clubhouse, and Nunakan beat him he was up against some of the fleetest horses in the land. They might have beaten any man's race horse at the distance.

Tantivy was ridden by Jockey K. Russell. He stepped the three-quarters in the extremely fast time of 1:11. He was slightly neglected in the betting and paid 7 to 1. It was his second straight victory here.

Honey Locust Wins.

The favorite players had better luck in the Chicago Heights purse when they backed former Senator Camden's Honey Locust so stoutly that she was also made an odds-on choice. She took the lead soon after the start, held it all the way and easily shook off Cog Air, Calf Roper and Jean La Fitte as they challenged her one after another in the stretch.

Wideleen, a 2 year old daughter of Paul Weidel-Blemished, sent the long shot players into a celebration when she won the East Lake purse, which engaged 12 youngsters. She led into the stretch, then went to the outside fence on the turn but recovered soon enough to beat Alderman Coughlin's Very Well by a head. O. W. Lehmann's Happy Holiday was coming fast near the end and took down third money.

The mutuels on Weideleen were $13.80 to win, $45.52 to place and $18.72 to show.

MOON MULLINS—AN OLD MODEL

If It Doesn't Rain Who Will Be the Goat?

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—If you are at the Belmont Park race track next Monday afternoon and rain begins to pour out of a clear sky blame it all on Dr. Sykes. He has promised the Westchester Racing association that he will produce a downpour, just to prove that he can control the weather with machinery of his making. If he fails it will cost him money.

Up until this time Dr. Sykes—the initials are G. A. I. M.—has been receiving $1,000 a day on week days and $2,300 on Saturdays for keeping the rain away from the track, but the directors of the racing association who control Belmont Park have begun to wonder if the continued clear weather since the opening of the race meeting on Labor day has not been mere coincidence.

Offers a Little Shower.

Pained by this skepticism, Dr. Sykes a venerable, professional man of advanced years, offered to produce a downpour tomorrow, but Joseph E. Widener, millionaire sportsman and art patron, who is the head of the association, begged him to put it off. Mr. Widener pointed out that the second international polo match is to be played at Westbury and he did not want the match spoiled. Dr. Sykes patiently shrugged his shoulders and suggested that Friday or Saturday would do just as well for his demonstration.

But the officers of the association, despite their suspicions, decided on next Monday for the test, instead. The big Futurity is to be run on Saturday and they want the track in perfect condition for that day.

Rain or Pay Double.

So they agreed on Monday and some time during the afternoon when the ponies are on the track Dr. Sykes must coax a sprinkle from the sky or pay the association double the amount he would have received for keeping the weather clear.

The nature of the rainmakers' machinery is a deep secret. He has placed it in the old grand stand at the south corner of the park and has a sort of substation at the northern end, a wooden building with five sides, each ten feet wide and seven feet high. This structure has no windows, but lets light through a vent in the roof. Both buildings are covered with intricate wiring and are carefully guarded.

COCHRAN, HALL MEET TODAY IN 3 CUSHION MATCH

Welker Cochran will make his first appearance as a three cushion player in Chicago this afternoon. The famous balkline star will make his debut here against Allen Hall, in a 300 point match at Mussey's billiard parlor, 131 South Wabash avenue. Cochran is due to arrive this morning by airplane from California.

Cochran, a former world's 18.2 balkline champion, did not take three-cushions seriously until about a year ago. Since he has made such progress that he hopes to qualify for the next world's championship tourney. He defeated Willie Hoppe last winter, 400 to 389, in 317 innings.

Becker Finds Colorful Scene in Marshlands

BY BOB BECKER.

Marsh lands in the central west offer at this time of the year the most spectacular bird pictures which the hiker, hunter or other outdoor fan can see between the middle of September and the passing of the waterfowl to southern climes.

Because the blackbirds assemble in the marches in huge flocks and because of the presence of herons, bitterns, killdeer, jacksnipe, lesser yellow legs, plovers and sandpipers, as well as migrating swallows, which like the water, the lowlands are filled with bird life.

In addition to these species the weed growth around the march also is alive with song birds. In fact, September is in many respect the most colorful month in the year in the marshes. A checkup of the feathered travelers getting ready to start for the south while loitering in or around the lowlands would make an imposing list.

A few days ago when we were hiking along the old Illinois-Michigan canal above Morris, Ill., we found in just a quick survey of the country between the canal and a duck pond a half mile away almost everything in the bird line from a goldfinch to a bobwhite. The goldfiniches were having a busy time in the weed thickets. These seed eaters had a golden harvest in front of them and because of the abundance of food will be with us for a long time. Their method of eating seeds on the stalk of a weed is not without an element of danger. Sometimes these handsome little birds get caught on thistles and are unable to get free.

SINGER FANS GAIN CONFIDENCE FOR M'LARNIN BOUT

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—With only their fighting reputations and the size of the gate at stake young Al Singer, lightweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, uncrowned king of the welterweights, polished off their preparatory chores today for a 10 round duel Thursday night in the Yankee stadium.

The confidence of the 135 pound ruler, knockout conquerer of Sammy Mandell, began to have its effect today on the betting populace. Odds on McLarnin, held steady at 2 to 1 since the match was made, slid away to 8 to 5 and 7 to 5. The prospect was that the Dublin dynamiter would enter the ring a slight favorite, with much of the smart money riding on Singer.

Singer's stock took a boost when it appeared that McLarnin would have only a few pounds the better of the weight instead of a decisive margin. Singer, a boy of 20 and still growing, indicated today that he will weigh about 136 pounds, while McLarnin may be as low as 141. Jimmy has agreed to scale 142 or less.

handling a grounder from Roettger. Grimes then threw out Mitchell on a bunt and restrained the next two hitters to futile pops, amid cheers.

All the scoring took place in the seventh. The Cardinals got their lone and skinny numeral through the initiative of Frankie Frisch, another old Giant who returns to plague the management that sent him elsewhere. He beat out a roller to Jackson and advanced on Bottomley's sacrifice and scored on Ray Blades' single.

It was a brave day for Mr. Frisch in his home town. He played his defensive job with elegance and skill and in the ninth inning he enlarged a single into a double by a daring hike culminating in a headlong sprawl to the bag, where he died awaiting for help nevertheless.

How the Giants Won.

The undoing of the ball game came right after the Cardinals' only score. Jackson singled, Roettger doubled, sending him to third, and after some delay and bickering Shanty Hogan brought Jackson home with a rap to the shortstop. Roettger took third on this play and scored when Frisch chose to make a certain putout on Leach at first. Mitchell got into a quarrel with Will Klem at the plate in the course of these events, arguing over a strike or something, and Dave Bancroft, coaching at third, took up the row so noisily that Mr. Klem presently thumbed him right off the grounds, with several croupy remarks of angry import.

Considering all that the current series may mean to the Giants the attendance seemed a bit scant. Places were set for 60,000, and in this town you could almost scare up the 20,000 who did come by changing suspenders in a drug store window. Maybe Mr. Stoneham ought to change his suspenders.

Cuyler's brilliant work and the "never say die spirit" of the team are reasons why the Cubs hold first place, according to some of the letters which were received yesterday from baseball fans. A few of the opinions follow:

"IT'S CUYLER'S DOINGS."

No one man can make a championship team, but there is one fellow on the Cubs who is doing more than his share toward keeping the Cubs at the top. Out in right field is a player who is an excellent hitter, who seldom strikes out, and who is dangerous every minute he is in the game. Kiki Cuyler is without an equal in the outfield today, and he has been surpassed but a few times in the history of baseball. He can rightfully be compared to Tris Speaker, Joe Jackson, Ty Cobb, and Bob Meusel. Hardly a day passes but what he makes a seemingly impossible catch and sometimes several. In addition he has a rifle shot throw which catches many a runner going home. On the bases he is always a threat, for he is today what Cobb was a decade ago. To Cuyler more than to any other man may be attributed the success of the Cubs.

PETER R. HOAG, Lacota, Mich.

"CUBS ARE FIGHTERS."

In my opinion the Cubs are winning because of their never-say-die spirit. They never quit until the last man is out in the ninth. The players most directly responsible, I believe, are Wilson, because of his hitting ability, Hartnett because of his pep, and Cuyler because of his all around work both offensively and defensively.

LEAGUE CALLED WEAK.

The reason the Cubs are on top is because it doesn't take a smart or strong team to lead the National league this year.

Hornsby Does His Bit on Catching Duty in Bullpen

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Rogers Hornsby is earning his salary these days, but not in the way you might expect of him. He does the bull pen catching. He has been kept out of the Brooklyn games by a charleyhorse.

Malone threw only two balls to Frederick on his first two trips to the plate with disconcerting results. The first one was knocked into right center for a triple, and the second to right for a single.

Gilbert did some high and fancy leaping after Wilson's liner in the fourth and, what is more to the point, he caught it.

Nice pitching by Phelps in the second. Wilson led off with a two bagger and Phelps fanned Stephenson with a curve and Kelly on a fast ball. Hartnett popped up for the third out.

Cubs Lose to Robins, but Retain Lead

The score seemed in a fair way to be tied when Wilson led off the Cub second with a double to right, but Stephenson and Kelly fanned and Hartnett sent a nice, easy fly to Herman.

Finn led off the Robin second with a single to right but the hit and run was put on and Finn was well past second when Lopez' short fly landed in Cuyler's glove. Ki tossed to Kelly to double Finn. Phelps then struck out.

Robins Start Rally.

Save for a walk to Blair with two out the Cubs were helpless in the third but in their half the Robins started off like they planned to wreck the ball game right then and there. Frederick again got hold of Malone's first pitch, this time for a single to right. Gilbert walked, so there were men on second and first with none out and the great Herman at bat.

Babe, however, shot a line drive to Bell and Lester threw to Blair in time to double Frederick. Wright filed to Wilson.

Cuyler led off the fourth with a walk but Wilson lined to Gilbert, Stevie forced Cuyler and Kelly flied to Bressler.

In the Robin half Bissonette flied to Cuyler but Bressler was safe on English's fumble. Finn then hit into a double play, English to Blair to Kelly.

Hartnett, Bell, and Malone supplied infield outs in the fifth and Lopez, Phelps, and Frederick were equally meek in behalf of the Robins.

English Reaches Third.

English got as far as third in the sixth. With one out Woody singled to center and proceeded to second when Frederick juggled the ball. He went to third on Cuyler's sacrifice fly, which backed Bressler against the left field barrier. The inning ended when Wilson tapped to Finn.

The Robins had men on second and first with one out in the sixth as a result of Herman's single and a walk to Wright, but Bissonette filed to Stevie and Bressler forced Wright.

Kelly got the third hit off Phelps with one out in the seventh, but Hartnett fanned and Phelps threw out Bell. The Robins went

INSULL COMPANY SELLS AN ISSUE OF $40,000,000

Corporation Securities in Finance Deal.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Details of the second large piece of utility financing to be carried out this year by the Insull interests were announced yesterday. Corporation Securities company, investment concern with important holdings in the big Insull utility companies, has sold to a banking group an issue of $40,000,000 serial notes.

Proceeds of the financing will be used, it was stated, to pay off current indebtedness and purchase securities contracted for. In addition it will give the firm a substantial cash sum, placing it in a good current position.

In announcing the sale of the notes, Samuel Insull Jr. said that the estimated net earnings of the company for 1930 amount to $8,276,691. Interest charges on the notes to be outstanding will be $1,960,000. The syndicate which purchased the notes is headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. Mr. Insull said that the assets of the company have appreciated $55,000,000 since the company was formed less than a year ago.

Will Mature Annually.

The notes will mature annually, $5,000,000 each Sept. 1 from 1931 to 1935. The first maturity will yield 4½ per cent and the remainder 5 per cent.

The official announcement of the financing had little influence on the market action of Corporation Securities on the Chicago exchange yesterday. The issue has been expected for some time, but yesterday's announcement was the first official confirmation.

The action of Houdaille-Hershey corporation directors in passing the quarterly dividend on the class B stock had been previously discounted by the market and the stock was steady around 9.

Votes Class A Dividend.

The regular quarterly dividend of 72½ cents on the class A stock was voted. In the previous quarter the company paid 30 cents on the B shares, which was a reduction from the previous $2 annual rate of 20 cents. The company's announcement attributed the action to the continued depression in the motor industry. The firm's balance sheet as of July 31 discloses current assets of $4,030,645, including $1,607,005 in cash, and current liabilities of $787,500. Inventories are carried at $1,381,218.

Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents on the preferred stock by Miller & Hart directors resulted in an immediate upturn in the stock. It had been previously reported in La Salle street that the payment would be omitted and the shares had displayed some weakness.

Finds Business Gain.

D. R. Howland, president of the packing firm, declared that August business of the company showed a decided improvement. Net profit after all expenses for the month amounted to $93,000. Current assets as of Aug. 30 totaled $2,460,749 as compared with current liabilities of $245,863.

The trend of prices in general on the exchange was irregular within a narrow range. Specialty shares were generally slightly off from the previous day's prices, while the utility issues were fairly steady. Fair improvement was made by Bendix and U. S. Radio.

Traction issues responded to the announcement of the tentative plan of consolidation. Chicago City and Connecting preferred advanced to 13¾ and the common sold up to 1. Among the transit bonds, Chicago Railways 5s '27 were up 6 to 46 and 5s A '27 were traded in in fair volume at around 61.

INVESTORS NOW BUYING BONDS, SURVEY SHOWS

Seek Income in Lieu of Quick Profit.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Buying of securities for investment, with steady income sought rather than mercurial profits, is regaining its former popularity. American investors have had their fling at trying to get rich quick through playing the stock market. But now they are more conservative and are turning to bonds, according to a consensus of Chicago bankers set forth in the current CHICAGO TRIBUNE Survey.

Some phases of this change in security purchasing are analyzed by Frank M. Gordon, vice president of the First National bank.

"The 1930 investment market has quite definitely demonstrated the distinct trend of the long period of normal years, when the larger demand is for fixed interest-bearing securities of high quality," he says. "This is in contrast with the recent spectacular period, when speculators were buying equities, not for assured income and safety but largely in the hope of a profit.

Return to Bond Market.

"The volume of credit used in the stock market now is about half that of a year ago. Many investors who were active speculators in 1928 and 1929 have returned to the bond market and institutions which were curtailed in their bond investments during the high money period are definitely back in the bond market for high grade investments. The gradual but persistently steady rise in the price of high grade bonds which has marked the 1930 investment market thus far is continuing into the autumn months, with indications of still higher prices."

"A better bond market, both as to volume and price, has developed by reason of easy money, consequent increase in demand for bonds by commercial banks, reduction of dealers' stocks and something of a shift in public interest from stocks to bonds," according to James R. Leavell, assistant to the chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. "Past experience suggests that an upward movement of bond prices is likely to continue even after business revival has caused firming in money rates."

Much Capital Released.

"The steady decline in commodity prices and world-wide deflation in general business have released vast amounts of capital," Samuel W. White, president of the National Republic company, says. "Bond prices have not reflected this accumulation of cash and there is no evidence of a willingness to divert it into large scale purchases of stocks. With the promise of continued easy money it is not reasonable to expect that bonds will long be available at current price levels."

"There is liberal evidence that in the months just ahead the bond market will be favored by all of the factors necessary to a first class market," according to Gerhard Foreman, president of the Foreman-State corporation. "Most important, ample funds are almost certain. Moreover, recent emphasis on equity financing has left corporate structures well adapted to bond financing."

Sees Market in Making.

"It appears to be inevitable, from numerous indications, that a strong bond market is in the making," Lawrence Stern & Co. say. "Both savings and commercial deposits are increasing and there has been a curtailment in the volume of new issues offered."

"The bond market is reflecting the increased savings of those rendered cautious by a disastrous experience in stocks and is forecasting an eventual improvement in business conditions as the effect of low money rates is felt," according to William J. Wardall, manager of Bonbright & Co. "There is every evidence that this healthy condition of our investment markets will continue through the autumn and beyond."

Reflected in Demand.

"Today money is cheaper and commodity prices lower than they have been in years and this has been notably reflected in the demand for the highest grade bonds such as are legal for savings banks, trust funds and insurance companies," Henry C. Olcott, vice president of the Bancamerica-Blair corporation, says. "The demand is spreading to other bonds, both domestic and foreign, which, while not legal for the above purposes, have a high factor of safety and greater income yield."

Several other bankers also called attention to the fact that medium grade bonds have not improved to the extent that their relative credit position entitles them. Thus, they are expected to show greater activity and price appreciation. These views are expressed by Frank McNair, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, James H. Becker, vice president of the A. G. Becker & Co.; and Louis H. Schroeder, vice chairman of the Central-Illinois company.

Government Laying Greater Stress on Crop Regulation

BY SCRUTATOR.

Public pronouncements from the federal farm board in recent weeks have been marked by an emphasis on the regulation of production and a lightened insistence on the wisdom of taking over by government or farmers of functions that have been performed in marketing by private enterprise.

In a speech last week Chairman Legge said: "Don't think any agency can legislate agriculture into prosperity. Governmental assistance can do much, first in the way of supplying more accurate information as to the relative supply and demand of various commodities produced, and can assist in the setting up of farmer owned and farmer controlled organization whose sole interest will be getting the best possible return to the producers, and, further, the government can aid in financing these organizations until they have gained sufficient strength to make further financial aid unnecessary."

Toward wheat the board has taken a stand in contrast to the one of late 1929 and early 1930. Mr. Legge pointed out reasons for the futility of government purchase, in some form, of another hundred million bushels, which has been suggested. The best available information is that purchases of the past up to about sixty million bushels are still representing a governmental investment.

Benefits From Regulation.

Organization of the producers into cooperatives continues to be stressed, but more is said of the benefits that will accrue through regulated production than through the betterment of marketing facilities. These latter, in private hands, probably are more efficiently managed than most farm leaders have described them in the past.

Comparisons of the dollar returns of small crops and large ones were made by Mr. Legge. He showed that from 1924 to 1925 the corn crop increased 600 million bushels and the farmers received 300 million dollars less for the big one; that 9,633 million pounds of hogs were worth in 1926 sixty-eight million dollars more than 11,353 million pounds slaughtered in 1929; that the smallest production of beef cattle in six years brought the largest return to the farmer.

A striking example was given in cotton. A crop of little more than ten million bales in 1923 brought the growers 1,572 million dollars, and that of 1926, nearly eighteen million bales, sold for less than one billion dollars. As for potatoes, overproduction was costly; an increase in the crop of 142 million bushels caused a loss of 342 million dollars.

Adjust Supply to Demand.

The recommendation to adjust supply to demand is sound. It is certainly not what the more radical elements among the farm relievers would consider sufficient. It forms something of an anomaly in a farm program that was apparently designed to keep the same population permanently in agriculture.

Only three crops were named the last season for acreage reduction: Wheat, cotton and tobacco. But the department of agriculture at the start of the year urged the increase in production of only one or two minor crops. The puzzle in the situation is what farmers are going to do with the labor saved by reduction in some crops unless it is taken up in other crops.

But it is at least fair to every one that farm production be regulated. It put the matter squarely up to the farmer. The entry of the government, with publicly financed distributive agencies, into business would be unfair to men who built up their own businesses under competition and must pay commercial rates for their borrowed money. If the 170 millions which the government has loaned in farm relief are used to regulate production and not to finance farmer-merchants upsetting a working economic scheme, the opposition of city men to the farm board will die out.

SEUBERT SAYS WORLD LOOKS TO AMERICA TO END DEPRESSION

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana is going ahead with its plan to list its stock on the New York stock exchange and probably will take some action to this effect about Jan. 1, was a statement made by Edward G. Seubert, president of the company, on his return to his office yesterday after a six weeks' visit to Europe.

E. G. SEUBERT.

Mr. Seubert returned home with a feeling that the business tide has turned and that recovery is on the way. However, he does not anticipate any sudden improvement in conditions but rather expects the upturn to be gradual, with a general quickening of the pace after the first of the year.

Mr. Seubert visited the British Isles, Germany, France, Italy, and several smaller countries. Though his trip was mainly for pleasure he discussed business conditions in most of the countries he visited. Generally speaking, he said, most of the leaders abroad are looking to the United States to start the movement which will end the world-wide depression which has been current since the stock market debacle of last fall.

REPORT LARGE GAIN IN FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Revenue carloadings for the week ending Aug. 30 were reported by the American Railway association to have totaled 984,504 cars. This was an increase of 43,955 cars over the preceding week and a reduction of 177,596 cars below the corresponding week in 1929.

Slash Price of Gasoline in N. Y. Metropolitan Area

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Gasoline prices have been slashed in a large part of the metropolitan area to 16.2 cents a gallon, including the two cent tax, Standard Oil of New York initiated the cut. The Texas company, Shell Eastern Petroleum Products, Tide Water Oil company, Sinclair Oil corporation, and Cities Service met the reduction. Officials said the cut was forced by small companies which were charging less than the big ones.

Middle West System Has Merchandise Sales Gain

Merchandise sales of Middle West Utilities system for the first half were approximately 26 per cent ahead of last year, a compilation published by the company today showed. Martin J. Insull, president, said that sales of electric refrigerators were 14 per cent ahead of last year and sales of electric ranges have shown approximately the same gain.

Chicago District Steel Producers Raise Prices

Steel sheet producers in the Chicago district have opened their books for fourth quarter shipment at prices $1 to $2 a ton higher. Mills are operating at 55 per cent of capacity.

U. S. Calls for Redemption More Than Billion in Notes

Washington, D. C, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today called for the redemption of more than $1,000,000,000 in outstanding treasury notes bearing 3¼ per cent interest when it became apparent that the latest treasury offering of certificates bearing only 2⅝ per cent interest had been subscribed.

The gigantic refunding operation resulting from the redemption of the billion dollar in 3½ per cent notes will permit the government to take advantage of the prevailing low interest rates and get the public debt on a lower interest level.

The offering for the Sept. 15 financing of 2⅝ per cent certificates was the lowest interest rate proposed by the treasury on its short term securities. Mr. Mellon offered $325,000,000 of these certificates and it was announced tonight that subscriptions were closed at the end of today's business.

Notes to Be Redeemed.

The 3½ per cent notes, which are to be redeemed next March 15 under the order issued today by the treasury, include the treasury notes of series A 1930-1932 and series B 1930-1932. The first issue does not mature until March 15, 1932, and the second until Sept. 15, 1932.

Of the original issues of these securities there are outstanding $649,076,350 of series A and $500,303,700 of series B. Interest will be paid on them up to next March 15 when the principal will be redeemed.

Gets Low Interest Rate.

By these refunding operations, Secretary Mellon is getting the government securities on the lowest level of interest since the world war. Only the Fourth Liberty loan bonds are outstanding of the government issues which bear more than 4 per cent interest. After the proposed refunding next March 15, the treasury notes of series C 1930-193, amounting to more than $400,000,000, will still be outstanding. These notes also bear 3½ per cent interest.

The treasury asked the holders of the 3½ per cent notes which are to be redeemed next March 15 not to present them for redemption until that date or just prior thereto.

NATION SETS A NEW RECORD IN TRACTOR EXPORT

Washington, Sept. 9.—(AP)—A new high record in exports of tractors was established in the United States during the first six months of this year, with Russia the leading market. The commerce department announced today that 35,790 tractors valued at $40,537,650 were exported the first half of this year, compared with $4,666 valued at $32,996,220 the first six months of 1929. Exports to Russia were valued at $21,715,867, a new high record, compared with $4,300,000 during the first half of 1929.

The department added it is reported that additional contracts have been signed by Russians with leading American tractor manufacturers for additional shipments to begin the latter part of this year and continue into 1931.

TIRE CO. HEAD ASSERTS SUIT IS UNJUSTIFIED

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Samuel Woolner Jr., president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire company, said today that the filing of a receivership suit against the company in chancery court in Jersey City, N. J., yesterday was unjustified.

Mr. Woolner said the company is in excellent financial condition, with current assets as of July 31 last of about $13,000,000 and current liabilities of $2,100,000. He added the company has no bonds, debentures or long term notes outstanding, and that business for July and August had shown a satisfactory profit.

BOSTON BANKER JOINS STAFF OF CENTRAL TRUST

W. Irving Bullard, formerly vice president of the Merchants National Bank of Boston, yesterday was elected a vice president of the Central Trust company and will assume his duties with the Chicago bank at once. Besides being prominent in eastern banking affairs, Mr. Bullard has been identified with a number of business organizations. He is treasurer of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, chairman of the committee on aeronautics of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a member of other committees of the latter organization. He is also a director of a number of industrial organizations.

Forty Chains Report 7.5% Decline in August Sales

A compilation of 40 chain store companies reporting results for August showed aggregate sales of $189,946,216, a decrease of 7.5 per cent from a total of $205,476,939 for August, 1929, Merrill, Lynch & Co. reports. Sales of these companies for the first eight months this year totaled $1,568,138,526, an increase of 0.53 per cent over the $1,559,811,587 for the like period last year.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—By the simple expedient of bringing forward new leaders when the recognized pivotals showed a tendency to back down under pressure constructive forces managed to keep the stock market moving irregularly ahead today.

It was a pretty sorry showing they made at that. Trading was at a snail's pace most of the time and the total was a good quarter million shares under that of yesterday. Even with no public to help the professionals seem to be growing more and more discouraged in their weary efforts to carry on till the long looked for silver lining begins to show through the dark cloud that has been hanging over their particular corner of the universe for so many eons.

There never seems to be much in the way of actual news any more to help their activities along. There was none today. However, money markets were easier in tone, even if the call rate was maintained at the 3½ per cent rate.

Chain Stores Do Well.

Merchandise stocks were able to make the best showing they have in weeks. Trading in Woolworth was particularly heavy, resulting in a price advance of more than 2 points, and some of the other chain store shares did almost as well. Macy was up 1⅝ and both the big mail order leaders moved up, Sears-Roebuck advancing 1⅝ points.

The tobaccos were also uniformly strong. Indeed, this group enjoyed about the greatest favor of any of the list. American Tobacco as usual was the leader, the common jumping 4 points and the B stock a half point more. Liggett & Myers rose 3 points and other issues of the section moved along in unison.

Some of the public utilities were fairly buoyant, but the demand here was not so general as it was in the merchandise and tobacco groups. In fact, some of the sometime favorites here had a rather difficult time holding their own. Foreign Power improved its position for a point or so

BEARS RULE DAY ON WHEAT PIT; PRICES DECLINE

Little in News to Inspire Buying Confidence.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Hedging pressure against American and Canadian spring wheat, with a lack of foreign demand, tended to increase bearish sentiment yesterday and with a lack of aggressive support prices declined gradually to within a fraction of the lowest figures of the season on the deferred futures. December touched 87⅝c, but rallied around ⅛c from the bottom on scattered commission house buying and short covering. Final sales were at net losses of 1¾c, with September closing at 82⅛@82¼c, December, 88c, and May, 94¾c.

There was little in the general run of the news to induce traders to take the buying side of wheat with confidence, and the Argentine situation failed to receive the slightest attention. The bulge which followed announcement of a revolution in that country on Saturday has been more than lost in the last two days, December being off 5⅜c from the best figure of late last week.

Fear Embargo Northwest.

Owing to the heavy movement of cash grain to Minneapolis and Duluth and the slow eastern shipping demand, fears were expressed that a temporary embargo against the two markets might be necesary. Excellent weather conditions have prevailed for weeks on both sides of the international line and the movement has been unusually heavy for this early in the season. There were 6,658,000 bu wheat delivered at Canadian interior points on Monday, against 3,531,000 bu last year.

Winnipeg wheat was heavy from the start and closed 1⅜c lower, with reports indicating a lack of foreign demand, and the Gulf also reported inactivity there. Numerous bearish messages were received from Winnipeg during the day which had some effect on sentiment. American exporters are at a loss to explain the continued slow buying on the part of Europe especially in view of the unfavorable crop comments received of late and the lessened pressure of Russian offerings. Liverpool closed 1¾@2d lower, with the October maintaining its premium over the December.

Local Bulls Discouraged.

Many of the local bulls have become discouraged over the action of the wheat market of late, as all bulges have brought in free selling, and the outside trade has not increased to the extent anticipated. Doubts were expressed by Chairman A. A. Legge of the farm board as to whether the feeding of wheat would be as heavy as anticipated. World's available supplies increased 15,246,000 bu for the week and are now 360,404,000 bu against 355,072,000 bu last year.

A leading Winnipeg line elevator house estimates the yield of the three Canadian provinces at 392,000,000 bu wheat, with threshing about 50 per cent completed. The Canadian Bank of Commerce placed the yield at 325,000,000 to 375,000,000 bu, compared with 282,000,000 bu harvested last year.

Await Corn Figures.

Local bulls gave the corn market good support and prevented a decline in sympathy with wheat. The deferred futures finished ¼@½c higher, while the September was ½c lower at the last, closing at 97¼c. December closed at 92⅛@92¼c, and May, 95⅞@96c. It is generally expected that the government report to be given today will show somewhat under the 1,961,000,000 bu suggested by the average of the recent private returns.

Commission houses were fair sellers of corn futures on the bulges, but the aggregated trade was not large. Country offerings remain small and were generally held 2@4c above buyers' views. Deliveries of 80,000 bu were made on September contracts which had some effect on the nearby future.

ADDS STATIONS.

Seventy filling stations have been added to the chain of the Louisiana Oil Refining company.

ARGENTINE BOND ISSUES FIRMER IN N. Y. MARKET

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Bonds were steady to firm on an increased turnover today. Scattered liquidation of some of the prime rails cut small fractions from their quoted prices, but funds thus realized seemed to be finding prompt reinvestment elsewhere, especially in issues offering higher yields.

Argentines firmed. The Republic 6s of 1958, series "B," gained more than a point on a large turnover, while the October 6s of 1959 rallied 2 points. Advances in the other items were fractional. Buenos Aires bonds were likewise taken at considerably higher levels, and the improved tone found reflection in firmer prices for the Brazilian and Chilean government listings. Rio de Janeiros and Sao Paulos eased.

RAILROAD NOTES

A valuation of $45,400,000 has been placed by the interstate commerce commission on the owned and used property of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad as of June 30, 1916. The used but not owned property was valued at $24,445,395 and the owned but not used property was placed at $256,796. In addition the owned but not used property of the Western and Atlantic railroad, a subsidiary of the N., C. & St. L., was valued at $16,616,321 as of the same date.

Announcement was made early this evening that a $10,000,000 issue of St. Louis and San Francisco series A 4½s, due 1978, had been taken by a New York syndicate, subject to interstate commerce commission approval, and privately placed with institutions and dealers at 92¾. The offering, part of which will doubtless find its way into the market, was largely responsible for the softness of the listed 4½s.

COTTON TRADERS MORE HOPEFUL

Cotton traders took a more hopeful view of the situation yesterday and better support developed despite the disappointing news from Liverpool. More buying by mills absorbed the offerings, which were not heavy on the whole, and brought in covering by shorts. The feeling, however, was nervous and prices moved within a fair range. Reports on the world's consumption, issued by the New York Cotton Exchange, showed a decrease in world's consumption of American cotton, but as a market factor it was not particularly conspicuous. Traders believe that the actual weight of the crop will be felt in the next four or five weeks and increased buying power is regarded as necessary to carry the load of hedges. After the peak is reached a better situation is looked for. In the meantime the trade is kept nervous by the uncertainty as to what the coöperatives will do.

Closing trades were around the best of the day with futures in Chicago up 5 to 12 points on the active trading months, while in other markets gains were 8 to 14 points. Spots in New York advanced 5 points to 11.20c, with New Orleans up 15 points to 10.75c, while Houston and Galveston were 10.90c. Liverpool closed 5 to 6 points higher with spot sales 4,000 bales. Reports from the print cloth trade indicated a large business put over on Monday's break. Prices follow:

May Call Samuel Mather as Merger Trial Witness

Youngstown, O., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Newton D. Baker, member of defense counsel in the injunction suit against the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Bethlehem Steel merger, said today Samuel Mather, wealthy Cleveland ore firm executive, may be called as a witness. Mather is managing partner of Pickands, Mather & Co. of Cleveland, in which Henry G. Dalton, director of both Youngstown and Bethlehem, also is a partner. Mather and Dalton were aligned with the merger proponents.

William G. Mather, brother of Samuel Mather, and the latter's son, S. Livingston Mather, testified within the last week at the request of Judge David Jenkins. The latter two are business associates of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier and leading opponent of the merger.

Radio Corp. Anti-Trust Suit Due in December

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Federal Judge Nields continued the suit of the government against the Radio Corporation of America and other radio concerns, charged with having violated the anti-trust law. The continuance was granted on application of Charles S. Curley, of counsel for the defendants, who said the defendants were taking depositions. District Attorney Wales said it was likely that the cases would go to trial in the December term of court.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Board of Trade officials, Secretary Hyde and the agricultural department are working harmoniously together in an effort to improve the situation existing between the government officials and the Board of Trade. Everything is being done in a "get together" spirit that is expected to result in improved conditions, particularly for the exchange, but it will take time to work out all the plans that are contemplated. There is authority for this statement. It is understood that the grades of cotract grain deliverable on sales for futures delivery now on the books of the Board of Trade were put there at the recommendation of the U. S. agricultural department, but it is believed that they will be revised for the best interests of the trade. The reporting of trades on futures and the elevator situation are all under consideration by both interests and in time, it is said, that everything will be worked out to the satisfaction of all interests. The Board of Trade directors discussed the situation yesterday afternoon, but it was said they took no decided action.

Winnipeg traders are selling too much wheat for future delivery in the Chicago market for most traders to take the bull side. They say that after the peak of the Canadian movement is over it will be time to consider whether wheat is a sale or a purchase. Until that time they are disposed to go slow on the buying side except on sharp breaks.

LONGS SELL OCTOBER LARD

Holders of October lard yesterday liquidated fair quantities, which was taken by cash handlers and the December sold against it. A little long December and January lard also was on the market, credited to packing interests. The speculative trade was not so keen on the buying side as of late, but the market in all acted well as the hog market was strong, with a lighter movement than last year and a good cash trade prevailed.

At the last lard futures were 10 to 17½c lower on nearby deliveries, September leading, and unchanged for December and January. Liverpool lard was 1s to 1s 3d lower. Export clearances from the seaboard were 507,930 lbs of lard, and of bacon were 522,500 lbs. September bellies were offered 5c lower without a trade. Prices follow:

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is the vicar of a country village in England. His attractive wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with him.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the vicar had discovered the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in each others arms and they had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel sprawled across the desk, shot through the head, murdered, apparently, as no weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is sent for and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and calls the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Miss Marple, whose house adjoins the vicarage, saw Anne Protheroe going to the vicarage about 6:15. From there she went to the studio. She carried no hand bag and had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out about twenty minutes later and walked towards the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime, thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar after leaving Anne and had found his pistol lying on the floor beside Col. Protheroe and thought Anne must have taken it.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

A DISGRACEFUL OCCURRENCE.

"You're not arresting Uncle Len, are you?" inquired Dennis facetiously.

"Why should I?" inquired Slack.

"There's a lot of evidence against him," declared Dennis. "You ask Mary. Only the day before the murder he was wishing Col. Protheroe out of the world. Weren't you, Uncle Len?"

Inspector Slack turned a slow suspicious stare upon me and I felt hot all over. Dennis is exceedingly tiresome. He ought to realize that a police-man seldom has a sense of humor.

"Don't be absurd, Dennis," I said irritably.

The innocent child opened his eyes in a stare of surprise.

"I say, it's only a joke," he said. "Uncle Len just said that any one who murdered Col. Protheroe would be doing the world a service."

"Ah!" said Inspector Slack, "that explains something the maid said."

Servants very seldom have any sense of humor, either. I cursed Dennis heartily in my mind for bringing the matter up. That and the clock together will make the inspector suspicious of me for life.

"Come on, Clement," said Col. Melchett.

"Where are you going? Can I come, too?" asked Dennis.

"No," you can't," I snapped.

We left him looking after us with a hurt expression. We went up to the next front door of Mrs. Price Ridley's house and the inspector rang.

A pretty parlor maid answered the bell.

"Mrs. Price Ridley in?" inquired Melchett.

"No, sir." The maid paused and added, "She's just gone down to the police station."

This was a totally unexpected development. As we retraced our steps, Melchett caught me by the arm and murmured:

"If she's gone to confess to the crime, too, I really shall go off my head."

I hardly thought it likely that Mrs. Price Ridley had anything so dramatic in view, but I did wonder what had taken her to the police station.

We found Mrs. Price Ridley talking at a high rate of speed to a somewhat bewildered looking police constable. That she was extremely indignant

We found Mrs. Price Ridley talking at a high rate of speed to a somewhat bewildered police constable.

I knew from the way the bow in her hat was trembling. Mrs. Price Ridley wears what, I believe, are known as "hats for matrons"—they make a specialty of them in our adjacent town of Much Benham. They perch easily on a superstructure of hair and are somewhat overweighted with large bows of ribbon. Griselda is always threatening to get a matron's hat.

"Mrs. Price Ridley?" inquired Col. Melchett, lifting his hat.

"Let me introduce Col. Melchett to you, Mrs. Price Ridley," I said. "Col. Melchett is our chief constable."

"We've just been round to your house, Mrs. Price Ridley," explained the colonel, "and heard you had come down here."

Mrs. Price Ridley thawed altogether.

"Ah!" she said. "I'm glad some notice is being taken of the occurrence. Disgraceful, I call it. Simply disgraceful."

There is no doubt that murder is disgraceful, but it is not the word I should use to describe it myself. It surprised Melchett, too, I could see.

"Have you any light to throw upon the matter?" he asked.

"That's your business. It's the business of the police."

"We're doing our best, Mrs. Price Ridley," said the chief constable.

"But the man here hadn't even heard of it till I told him about it!" cried the lady.

We all looked at the constable.

"Lady been rung up on the telephone," he said. "Annoyed. Matter of abusive language, I understand."

"Oh! I see." The colonel's brow cleared. "We've been talking at cross purposes. You came down here to make a complaint, did you?"

Melchett is a wise man. He knows that when it is a question of an irate middle aged lady, there is only one thing to be done—to listen to her. When she has said all that she wants to say, there is a chance that she will listen to you.

Mrs. Price Ridley surged into speech.

"Such disgraceful occurrences ought to be prevented. They ought not to occur. To be rung up in one's own house and insulted—yes, insulted. I'm not accustomed to such things happening. Ever since the war there has been a loosening of moral fibre. Nobody minds what they say, and as to the clothes they wear——"

"Quite," said Col. Melchett hastily. "What happened exactly?"

Mrs. Price Ridley took breath and started again.

"I was rung up——"

"When?"

"Yesterday afternoon—evening, to be exact. About half past six. I went to the telephone, suspecting nothing. Immediately I was foully attacked, threatened——"

"What actually was said?"

Mrs. Price Ridley got slightly pink.

"That I decline to state."

"Was bad language used?" asked Col. Melchett.

"It wasn't that kind of thing," said Mrs. Price Ridley. "At first, I must admit, I was quite taken in. I thought it was a genuine message. Then the—er—person became abusive."

"Abusive?"

"Most abusive. I was quite alarmed."

"Used threatening language, eh?"

"Yes. I am not accustomed to being threatened."

"What did they threaten you with? Bodily damage?"

"Not exactly."

"I'm afraid, Mrs. Price Ridley, you must be more explicit. In what way were you threatened?"

This Mrs. Price Ridley seemed singularly reluctant to answer.

"I can't remember exactly. It was all so upsetting. But right at the end—when I was really very upset, this—this—wretch laughed."

"Was it a man's voice or a woman's?"

"It was a degenerate voice," said Mrs. Price Ridley with dignity. "I can only describe it as a kind of perverted voice. Now gruff, now squeaky. Really a very peculiar voice."

"Probably a practical joke," said the colonel soothingly.

"A most wicked thing to do, if so. I might have had a heart attack."

"We'll look into it," said the colonel. "Eh, inspector? Trace the telephone call. You can't tell me more definitely exactly what was said, Mrs. Price Ridley?"

A struggle began in Mrs. Price Ridley's ample black bosom. The desire for reticence fought against a desire for vengeance. Vengeance triumphed.

"This creature began by saying—I can hardly bring myself to repeat it——"

"Yes, yes," said Melchett encouragingly.

"'You are a wicked scandal mongering old woman! Me, Col. Melchett—a scandal mongering old woman. But this time you've gone too far. Scotland Yard are after you for libel. Unless you hold your tongue in future it will be the worse for you—in more ways than one.' I can't describe to you the menacing way that was said. I gasped. 'Who are you?' faintly—and that, and the voice answered, 'The Avenger.' I gave a little shriek. It sounded so awful, and then—the person laughed. Laughed! Distinctly. And that was all. Of course I asked the exchange what number had been ringing me up, but they said they didn't know. You know what exchanges are. Thoroughly rude and unsympathetic."

Last of 1930's War Mothers Land in France

Even Larger Groups Are Expected in 1931.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The last party of Gold Star mothers and widows which will visit American military cemeteries on this side of the water this year arrived here this afternoon. They crossed on the S. S. Republic, debarking at Cherbourg.

Since last May the Invalides station in Paris has witnessed weekly additional American mothers and widows. The novelty of this gesture of the United States government in sending these women to the tombs of their loved ones never seemed to wear off with the French.

Through the summer there were crowds at the station to see the trains come in and there always were crowds at the tomb of the unknown soldier when the mothers and widows assembled there to place a wreath.

A total of 3,654 made the pilgrimage this year, 1,049 less than had signified their intention to come. At the start there were 11,660 eligibles, leaving 8,384 yet to come.

Col. Richard Ellis already is laying plans for next year's visitors. The largest parties are expected in 1931, many having waited to see just how the army would care for the mothers. The 1932 and 1933 groups will be smaller.

Despite the fact that many of the elderly mothers chose to come the first year, the health record speaks well for American vitality. Only three pilgrims were denied the privilege of seeing their sons' graves. Two of these became ill after arrival and were unable to continue to the cemeteries, and the third died after she had reached Verdun.

Army officials had expected that a considerable number would become ill, but only seventeen were hospitalized, the majority of these being from Ohio and Pennsylvania. The entire trip from home to home was made in an average of 32 days. The party that arrived today will leave on Sept. 22.

Chief McAuliffe of Fire Insurance Patrol Weds

Chief Frank C. McAuliffe, head of the fire insurance patrol in Chicago, and his secretary, Miss Helen Trautman, 4252 West Van Buren street, were married in Holy Name cathedral last Saturday, it was learned yesterday by fire department officials. Chief McAuliffe, who is 41 years old, has been a widower for two years. Miss Trautman is 31 years old. The couple are honeymooning in Winnipeg, Man., where the convention of Fire Chiefs of North America is being held.

RECALLING BIRTH OF MOHAMMED, ISLAM FEELS YOUNG AGAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JEDDAH, Sept. 9.—Celebration of Mohammed's birth in the holy places of Arabia from Mecca, near here, to the faroff Persian shrines served to recall throughout the east the militant character of Allah's prophet and the means by which his creed was spread by caliphs and sultans.

In such a celebration there are no public rejoicings, as on the occasion of the Christian festivals, for the prophet's birthday is a solemn anniversary. The mullahs hold receptions in the mosques and special lectures are delivered in the theological schools.

It is sometimes forgotten, however, that back of the religious ceremonies Islam is a militant religion. Indications are not wanting that its military aspect is not wholly dead.

Arabia has in Ibn Saud, the king of the Hedjaz and controller of southern Arabia from the Red Sea almost to the Persian Gulf ports, the possible leader of an armed movement of "Moslem Purification."

Ibn Saud is an astute man, and he realizes to the fullest the political advantages that would accure to him from a successful "holy war."

This year is the 500th anniversary of the birthday of the Sultan Mahomet II, who captured Constantinople in 1453. Within a century the Moslem flood reached almost to the walls of Vienna.

Sultan Mahomet II was a type of Moslem crusader. The tales of his prowess in the capture of Constantinople still are told. The men were sold in the slave markets of Asia; the women were crowded into harems; the Hellenised Roman culture was spread over Europe; the modern era was born.

WORLD THREE BILLION YEARS OLD, GERMAN CHEMIST DECLARES

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

KOENIGSBERG, Sept. 9. — The world is three billion years old, the last two billion years whereof has been spent in a solid state, is the conclusion arrived at by Dr. Otto Hahn, director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of Chemical Research in Berlin, in an address before the Congress of Natural Scientists here.

Dr. Hahn bases his conclusion on calculation of the amount of lead existing in the world. That metal, he declared, represents uranium or thorium whose radioactivity has been completely expended. Knowing the speed of radioactive emanations he was able to determine how long it must have taken to create a given amount of lead.

This is estimated at 3,000,000,000 years, including activity during the molten period. Dr. Hahn remarked that it was only during the last thirty years of this 3,000,000,000 years that man has been familiar with the law of radioactivity, thus being able to calculate the age of the planet.

22 Ton Bell Completes Rockefeller Carillon in Riverside Church Spire

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—A twenty-two ton Bourdon bell was hoisted into place today in the tower of the Riverside church on Riverside drive, completing the seventy-two bell carillon donated by John D. Rockefeller Jr.

The big Bourdon, which is ten feet in diameter, sounds a note of low C, and its manufacture was considered a marvel.

City's Schools Get 475,793 1930 Students

	1929.	1930.
Elementary schools	344,151	343,589
Junior high schools	28,541	32,789
Senior high schools	80,141	87,413
Crane Junior college	3,850	2,117
Chicago Normal college	1,221	1,101
Continuation schools	9,864	7,085
Prevocational schools	1,591	1,699
Total registration	469,359	475,793

Although classified as final figures for the purposes of teacher assignment, those figures will be increased slightly during the school year with the greatest increase during the next few weeks, according to Frederick J. Lane, assistant superintendent of schools.

During the first week of school a day by day account of registration was sent to the office of the school superintendent. Now a weekly report will be made. Registration is permitted at any time throughout the year, which, according to Superintendent William J. Bogan, makes the tabulation of final figures akin to guess work. Present figures will be used for administrative purposes as final.

The registration in parochial schools will not be tabulated until November. The number of parochial school students is tabulated at the close of each semester. Four hundred and sixty-nine schools are now open with an estimated attendance of 214,000. The teaching staff is approximately 6,000.

Headaches Bare Tear Gas Tests in Berlin Suburb

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—Tear gas practice by the reichswehr in the military barracks in Moabit, a thickly populated district of Berlin, has been revealed by the newspaper Tempo, which strongly protests against this military disregard of public welfare. Residents in neighboring houses have recently been suffering from mysterious headaches, accompanied by tears running from their eyes. This is asserted to be from tear gas used in the cellar of the barracks by soldiers testing new gas masks.

One of the Armstrongs Tells How Lincoln Saved Her Brother

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Eliza Smith of Homestead, Okla., 85 years old, today certified the story of Abraham Lincoln's using an almanac to clear his client of murder.

Mrs. Smith, here attending a meeting of the executive board of the National Lincoln Memorial Highway association, said the youth Lincoln saved from hanging was her brother, William Armstrong.

"My father, Jack Armstrong, befriended Lincoln," she told reporters, "and Abe later saved my brother from being convicted of murder.

"When Ann Rutledge, Lincoln's fiancé, died of pneumonia in 1835, we though that Abe, who lived at our house, would go crazy. So my father got a couple of horses and he and Abe went off on a two month trip. We always believed that my father helped Abe get hold of himself then.

"Later Abe saved by brother from death, proving through an almanac that there was no full moon the night one of the principal witnesses against my brother said he saw the crime by the light of the full moon. It has been said that Lincoln had a special almanac published to prove his case, but that is wrong. Lincoln bought that almanac in a store after the witness had started to talk about the moon."

G. A. R. of Van Buren Co., Mich., Plans Meet Sept. 24

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Van Buren county's annual battalion reunion of Grand Army veterans will be held in Hartford Sept. 24, according to announcement of John F. Jones of Covert, Mich., commander of the Covert-South Haven G. A. R. post, who is also colonel of the Van Buren battalion. About five of the ten members of Zach Chandler post, South Haven, are expected. Only three civil war veterans answered roll call at Berrien county's battalion meeting just held here. C. E. Brightup, 89, of St. Joseph, was elected commander for the forty-fifth annual encampment, succeeding C. B. Holmes, 79 years old, of Bentor Harbor. L. J. Merchant, 85 years old, St. Joseph, also attended.

Iowa Prof. Crosses Ocean in 37 Foot Sailing Yacht

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 9.—Enrique Blanco, Spanish professor at Iowa university, arrived here oday from Boston by way of the Azores on the ten ton, 37 foot sailing yacht Evalu. He is accompanied by his wife and seven year old daughter. The Evalu is ont of the smallest craft ever to have crossed the Atlantic. Prof. Blanco left Boston July 12.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

THE STAGE

WILLIAM A. BRADY, the veteran theatrical producer, talked for publication in Detroit yesterday and made this surprising prediction:

That within the next sixty days the Shuberts and the Erlanger interests would end their rivalry of twenty-five years standing and merge their chains of theaters, in order to rescue the theatrical business from its present depression.

"The idea," he said, "is to eliminate the unnecessary theaters in the larger cities of the east and middle west. This is the only thing that will save the legitimate theater from bankruptcy."

Mr. Brady confessed that he was revealing a "state secret," adding that the affair was close to consummation and that no harm could be done by the announcement. However, he expressed an opinion that the rescue committee should not stop with a merger.

"We need a superman," he declared, "who will step into the theatrical business and organize what Broadway disdainfully calls 'the sticks'—the medium sized cities of the country which are hungry for the spoken drama, to them an almost extinct form of entertainment."

Upon being informed of this announcement, Lee Shubert praised Mr. Brady as a gifted orator with a fine imagination. Confirmation was lacking all along the line.

"Operettas as usual" will be the slogan of the Great Northern theater this season, and "Three Little Girls" will be the first of the series. Sunday, Sept. 21, is the date for the opening.

This amusement comes from Vienna, with a charming score by Walter Kollo. It was staged in New York last winter with marked success and won a Class A rating. Like "A Wonderful Night," it uses a revolving stage.

Natalie and Bettina Hall, formerly of the American Opera house, lead the company. Others who will be found in the cast when the operetta reaches Chicago are Charles Hedley, Lorraine Weimar, Gregory Ratoff, Harry Puck, George Dobbs, John Goldworthy, Evangeline Raleigh, Rollin Grimes, and Stephen Mills.

"Roar, China," a drama translated from the Russian of S. Tretiakow, will be the second production on the New York schedule of the Theater Guild. Its staging will follow that of Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen." A play by Lynn Riggs called "Green Grow the Lilacs," which had been announced as the guild's second play, will be postponed until later in the season.

"Roar, China" represents the Russian drama as written under the soviet régime, and its viewpoint satisfies the exacting demands of the whiskery commissars in regard to the political trends of theatrical authorship. It was staged in Moscow by Meyerhold. It requires a cast of forty-five players, a number of whom must be Chinese. The exploitation of China by Europeans is its theme. The guild will place it in rehearsal within the next two or three weeks.

The Erlanger theater confirms this column's announcement of "It's a Wise Child" as its opening attraction, but states that the date of the première will be Oct. 13 instead of Oct. 20. This play was staged by David Belasco a year ago in New York, and ran through the entire season. The original company is said to have been sent on tour. If so, we will see these players: Helen Lowell, Olga Krolow, Leila Bennett, George Walcott, Joseph Striker, Mildred McCoy, Minor Watson, Harlan Briggs, Sidney Toler, and Porter Hall.

George M. Cohan's latest play, "A Well Known Woman," will have its first acting in Providence, R. I., Sept. 25. The cast contains Mary Phillips, who was seen with Mr. Cohan in "Gambling"; Herbert Rawlinson, star of "The City Haul," acted here last winter; Jed Prouty, Harold Healy, Shirley Gray, Theodore Newton, Howard Hull Gibson, and Arvid Paulson.

Autumn Sales Become Brisk on State Street

College Students' Needs Are Among Factors.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN

Glad tidings of great joy were percolating yesterday through the clouds of gloom that for the last few months have enveloped the State street district in lethargy as thick as a London fog. At last the ledgers are telling the tale of a steadily rising tide of buying. For youth still will be served—and must be clothed.

Cooler weather and the approach of the school season finally have routed that unwelcome guest, depression, who lingered in our midst in the face of a blatant lack of hospitality. In apparel stores and sections of department stores, especially, his departure has been succeeded by a buzzing activity.

"It's true the rush has started," acknowledged blithely one executive yesterday. "Here's the record. In the last ten days to two weeks we have noticed the concentration of gains in our household utilities section and in all our apparel sections, especially for college students and school children. Men's wear is moving fast. Fine furniture, jewelry and other departments haven't picked up, but the pendulum will swing that far, now that it's started."

One department head after another willingly told details of what their purchasers are taking away with them in boxes or on their backs. That story told the vogue for black or black with white, and the astonishing report from the ladies' suits sections where stylists had predicted a quiet season.

"Why, we couldn't ask for better business—it's great," one buyer of suits enthused. "Last year we did a tremendous business, and right now we're ahead of our last year's figures. What kind? Tweeds, mostly. All lengths of coats are selling—short, three-quarters and long. Many are furred. Black and white is the most popular mixture—then greens, blues, browns, and reds."

Every section and store told the same story about the season's outstanding color. Black may be somber, admitted the fashion experts, but it can also be subtle, and O, so chic! As, for instance, in the sleek little hoods of felt and velvet and soleil the slim young thing pulls over her bob, hardly covering the crown of her head and displaying her brief curls. Or in the swagger belted coats into which she buckles herself, whose popularity has swept the decks or all other more conservative modes.

As proof of the gratifying turnover in that department, she added, one newspaper advertisement of Tuesday morning disposed of sixty coats of one particular style—a belted cloth model with a wolf collar.

Mademoiselle's preference in the dress sections runs to woolens, jacket styles being popular in jersey and knitted materials. She wants bolero and peplum effects and is also enchanted with the "open house" or semi-formal frocks in silks and crêpes with short sleeves for afternoon. She has also nearly swamped the lingerie sections for the newest "undies," in particular a "paja-nightgown" that is a late arrival.

Men's wear authorities tell of a radical change in the selections of clothes by college men. No longer is the fraternity boy the exponent of rah-rah styles—he's left all that to the high school youth. Even the raccoon coat has been sacrificed in his determination to look like the younger brother of big business, as one executive put it. His favorite fall suit is smoke blue, with brown a poor second. And his new love is the camel's hair topcoat, with the thick, camelpile overcoat to follow as the mercury drops.

High school boys now feature the faddish clothes, but they are well dressed as to colors, which are the same as in older men's. Not even these boys have retained the high buttoned type of suit, but favor the double breasted effect. And both boys and men have learned about ensembles from the women and have hats to match their suits—so they say.

U. S. Eucharistic Congress at Omaha to Open Sept. 23

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Pamana will be represented at the National Eucharistic congress of the United States, to be held in Omaha Sept. 23-25, by the Rt. Rev. John J. Maisteguí, C. M. F., vicar apostolic of Panama, and the highest ranking Catholic churchan in that county, who will come from Colon, Panama, to the congress, Bishop Joseph Rummell announced here today.

Youngsters Should Have Sturdy Legs, Says Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We have seen enough evidence to know that the family's homely duckling, as a grown young lady, may supercede in charm the nursery favorite. There are certain provisions attached to the evolution of the plain one into the attractive young woman, certain features of parental watchfulness that are most influential, as the prevention of mouth malformations through faulty habits of childhood and attention to the feet and legs of the small ones. Of the latter we speak particularly today.

Parents can regulate to a great degree the "quality" of feet and limbs of their offspring. Not in size, perhaps, but in foot shapeliness and straight limbs they have a ruling voice. The embarrassment of bow legged or knock kneed bathing suited young women might be spared in almost every instance had there been a wise and conscientious parent on the job overseeing the youngster's proper development.

Foot malformations, likewise, might be saved, did mothers keep a more careful eye on the young foot in its rapidly growing stages. Defective arches are common among very young persons. These might be looked after while the child is young.

At any rate, the modern parent cannot claim ignorance. Neither can she claim distinction as a wise parent unless she does turn a sternly analytical eye over her youngster's legs and feet often enough in the growing stage to prevent any physical or beauty handicap.

If your child is toeing in or toeing out, instead of walking with feet parallel, attention is required. Knock knees are a frequent condition in toeing in cases. If a child stumbles and falls down easily, it is an indication of leg and foot unsturdiness and possible later deformity.

A woman who has suffered endlessly from foot troubles incurred in her early years is fanatical, her friends say, on the subject of periodic foot examinations for her two youngsters. Fanatical or not, the girls, when grown, will have straight feet and straight limbs.

Coaxing children to walk before they themselves show an inclination to take steps alone is not done by good parents any more. The terror of having bow legged youngsters is too strongly instilled.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Henrietta Bird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Bird of Wilmette, to Dr. George L. Perusse Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George L. Perusse, is to take place on Sept. 30, the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Bird. The ceremony is to be performed at the Bird residence, with only members of the families and a few friends present. Miss Barbara Bateman of Barrington is to be maid of honor and G. Curtis Bird will be best man. Dr. Perusse and his bride are to go to Europe for their wedding trip.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

LILLIAN V.: THE CUTICLE AT the base of the nails should not be cut. Keep it pushed back. Otherwise you destroy the shape of the nail and hangnails may appear. If you push back the cuticle every time you wash your hands, you will find this an easy way of taking care of the "half moons."

M. M.: YEAST IS HELPFUL FOR persons suffering from constipation. It may be taken three times a day.

C.: BRUSHING THE HAIR NIGHT and morning is an excellent practice. If your hair is dry you may massage a little oil or vaseline into the scalp before brushing.

Sentimentalist Is the Best Bet in Marriage, Declares Happy Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How can a girl tell whether a man is going to turn out a sentimental mate or a cold, unromantic one? They're all sentimental enough when they're paying a girl court. How are you going to tell the soft shell from the hard?" PERPLEXED."

If it is a sentimental one that's asking, she had better find some means of determining whether she is going to be in for a fare of kisses or cold pecks later. But it is a job at that, isn't it?

Dolly, who happened upon the same topic in her letter, says you can't tell. You have to take a chance. Plenty of affection is bestowed upon one another during the premarriage days and plenty of romantic things are said, and plenty of pretty compliments are turned.

"Quarrels we've had—a lot of them during the adjustment period. But they flew away like bats into the night because he was too sentimental to let the good-night kiss go by and I was right there to want and get it."

Quarrels, thinks Dolly, can be forgotten quickly if you are a sentimentalist and so is he. She means by sentimentalist one who is not afraid to express himself in the good old lovelorn way.

"Life never grows prosaic for the sentimentals," attests Dolly. "You see things through different eyes, perhaps a bit blinded, but what of it? Laughs come easier when you're just a bit 'silly,' as some folk call it, while I call it 'grand.'

"I couldn't cook a bean before I was married. Now I've gotten a reputation as a right smart cook. My progress with the cookbook and stove was helped along by the appreciative dear who swallowed a lot of my first attempts with a laugh, a hug and a kiss. The 'I love you's' I got surely did help a confused novice with a recipe in her hands. The darling took my picture in my work apron and showed it around proudly. I had to make good the picture.

"And that's the way it works when you draw a 'silly,' as I call him without meaning a letter of it."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Gov. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and their two sons, Elliott and Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., will be the guests tomorrow of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Saint George at their home in Tuxedo Park. The Roosevelt boys will ride in the junior horse show at Tuxedo tomorrow.

Miss Virginia Elvira Trowbridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kellogg Trowbridge, will be the guest of honor at a dinner Friday evening given by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Williams. The dinner precedes the supperdance which Miss Trowbridge's parents are giving that evening to present her to society.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Gould of the Plaza gave a dinner party last evening in the St. Regis roof garden for Viscount and Viscountess Benoist D'Azy.

The marriage of Miss Helen Elizabeth Rodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Rodman, to Mr. William Penn Powers will take place in October.

Mrs. Parker Corning and Miss Mary P. Corning are at the Savoy-Plaza for a few days from Glen Head.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

FEEDING WHEAT.

Wheat used as a substitute for corn in feeding hogs produces meat quite acceptable to meat packers and consumers, according to the opinion of Edward N. Wentworth, director of Armour's live stock bureau, who has completed a study of this grain's feeding value.

"Wheat probably is the best feed possible for quality pork making," he states. "In tests in England some years ago in which a comparison was made between wheat, oat kernels, rye, Indian corn, as well as skim milk and other dairy products, it was found that the wheat made uniformly the best quality bacon carcass.

"While experiment station tests in this country have shown that good quality wheat fed with proper supplements is as satisfactory as corn, under average farm conditions most practical feeders believe it to be only 90 to 95 per cent as efficient in feeding value. That is, more feed seems to be required under farm conditions to make the same amount of gain. Farmers with excellent pastures may get equal returns from wheat, but if a supplement is not used wheat neither fattens the pigs quite as fast nor does it produce as large daily gains."

Mr. Wentworth is of the opinion that hogs fattened on wheat normally are hard to carry beyond an inch of covering, although just what the results might be with corn belt hogs usually marketed at weights above 225 pounds he considers problematical. Most wheat feeding to hogs has been done heretofore in Canada, where bacon hogs of ideal market weights are 200 to 210 pounds.

"In the United States some wheat feeding has taken place in North Dakota, parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin in previous years," states Mr. Wentworth. "The results have been very satisfactory to the packers when the hogs were properly finished. Wheat tends to produce a white, firmer fat of greater uniformity, and when fed to growing pigs seems to result in more nearly attaining the ideal of a streak of lean and a streak of fat."

Society Has Merry Contests at Onwentsia

BY THALIA

The summer's golf and tennis events for women at Onwentsia were concluded yesterday with the annual powwow, a varied program of contests from which Mrs. George F. McLaughlin emerged golf champion and Mrs. Hale Holden Jr. the victor of the round robin tennis tournament.

Other winners included Mrs. Lawrence Scudder and Mrs. T. Philip Swift, whose scores for 18 hole low net play were tied; Mrs. Farley Hopkins, who won the 9 hole low net and the prize for the lowest number of putts on 9 holes, and Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., Mrs. McLaughlin, and Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter, who placed first, second, and third in the driving contest. Mrs. Frank Wilhelm, who is one of the best players, nevertheless received a prize for taking the greatest number of strokes out of a bunker.

Mrs. Holden's prize, a dozen black and white glasses in an interesting modern pattern, was only one of a great number of lovely awards. Mary Reed, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed's daughter, was second in the tennis tournament. At a short business meeting following luncheon Mrs. Kent Chandler was chosen as successor to Mrs. McLaughlin as chairman of the women's golf committee and Mrs. William A. P. Pullman and Mrs. Phelps Kelley were delegated to succeed Mrs. Holden and Mrs. Billy Odell in charge of the tennis. Mary Reed and Jean Schweppe are to assist the tennis chairmen.

Others who participated in the events included Mrs. Morris J. Johnston, Mrs. A. A. Carpenter, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, Mrs. Duncan Hodges, Mrs. Russell Lord, Mrs. Wallace Winter, Mrs. John A. Chapman, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Miss Gwethalyn Jones, and Mrs. Samuel Risaker.

The Tuesday luncheons held for the golf players and the Thursday night buffet suppers for the mixed golf matches will continue throughout this month.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Couch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch, were for her marriage yesterday afternoon to Alfred Norval Mitchell of London, England, a bridal costume all in the rich parchment shades that fashion favors for this season's brides. Her gown and court train, severely simple in line and unornamented, were of heavy satin, and her tulle veil depended from a cap of Irish point lace, an heirloom belonging originally to Mrs. Couch's great-grandmother.

The bride carried an oval bouquet of cream-colored Johanna Hill roses. Miss Beatrice Ripley, maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Jane Righter of Helena, Ark., and Miss Eleanor Atterbury of Wyckoff, N. J., were gowned alike in frocks of parchment colored lace, small delphinium blue velvet hats and matching slippers, and they carried Talisman roses and delphinium. The service took place at 5 o'clock in the chapel of St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston, and was followed by a wedding dinner at the Couch residence in Glen View.

Mathew Baird of Ardmore, Pa., was best man for Mr. Mitchell, and the ushers included Conyers Surtees of London, England; Mason Hammond of Boston, William A. Coolidge of Magnolia, Mass., and the bride's brothers, Ira J. Couch Jr. and Jack Couch. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are going to England for their wedding trip, and will sail from there on Nov. 11 for India, where they are to reside. Mr. Mitchell, who is entering the British civil service, has been assigned to the central provinces in India.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Drake gave a dinner last Saturday evening at the Lake Geneva residence of Mrs. Drake's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simeon B. Chapin, preceding the showing of motion pictures of South Africa by Dr. S. A. Barrett at the Country club. Their guests included Mr. Drake's cousins, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Katherine Drake, Hyde Gillette, Miss Medora Pelouze, William Silverthorne, who will return shortly to attend school in Switzerland; Ralph Largon and Frederick D. Countiss. Mr. Drake will begin his studies for the ministry at the Union Theological seminary in New York this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoyt Hilton and their son are on their way back to Chicago after a six weeks' tour in Europe. The Chicago Woman's club, of which Mrs. Hilton is president, is to give a "welcome home" dinner for her on Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

"I am out of work and need a suit which I cannot afford to buy. Do you think one of your readers would have a suit of clothing in size 42 to 44 which I may have? R. H."

Here is another victim of the unemployment situation who isn't able to provide himself with even the necessities. The suit you are planning to discard would be most acceptable to him.

Jobless for Months.

"My husband has been out of work for months and he has been offered a position out of the city and must leave immediately. He hasn't the proper clothing to wear and I wonder if you can get the things he needs. A pair of shoes size 9, a hat, 7¼, and shirts size 15 or 15½ would help him a great deal. Austrian Ex-Empress Balks at Duke's Wedding

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The former Empress Zita's chamberlain today issued a bulletin saying she refused to sanction the action of Archduke Albrecht in marrying the former Mme. Irene von Ruday.

Zita said she acted for Otto, minor aspirant to the Austrian throne. She blamed Albrecht for marrying without her previous knowledge and consent. Albrecht replied that only the laws of Hungary concerned him.

The marriage of Archduke Albrecht of Hungary and Mme. Irene Lebach was announced at Brighton, England, Aug. 26, after they had been married ten days. The duke's mother, Archduchess Isabella, bitterly opposed his matrimonial plans. Albrecht thereupon renounced all titles and privileges as a member of the Hapsburg family and said he would emigrate to Brazil. He was candidate of the Anti-Legitimist party for emperor of Hungary, but before his marriage he swore allegiance to Archduke Otto, son of the former emperor.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The secretary of commerce, Robert P. Lamont, has returned from his vacation, spent with his family in their Illinois home. He will be joined later in the month by Mrs. Lamont and Miss Gertrude Lamont.

The assistant postmaster general, Irving Glover, returned to his apartment at Wardman Park hotel after a trip of some weeks to the Pacific coast and a visit in Chicago.

The new American minister to Siam, David E. Kaufman, is spending some days at the Mayflower. He will sail from San Francisco early in October for his new post of duty.

The assistant secretary of commerce and Mrs. Julius Klein have returned to their apartment after spending the summer at their summer home in Maine.

Col. Edward Clifford and his son Robert returned today to their Georgetown home after a motor trip of several weeks to Canada.

Mrs. Byron Andrews, who has been at Wardman Park hotel since her return from the eastern shore, where she spent the summer, left tonight for New York. She will sail Saturday for Los Angeles, en route to Honolulu to spend the winter. Mrs. Andrews is the widow of a former Chicagoan.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

A charmingly slender looking frock made of printed chiffon voile adds attractive fullness to the skirt through circular godets. A fitted hip yoke merges into a panel back and front, which contributes length of line. The front of the bodice rolls back in revers and the front is filled in with a vest with a V neckline, another point to detract from width.

The pattern, 2634, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Remarque War Movie Stirs Japanese Army; May Be Forbidden

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—[By Mail.]—The London arms conference has done enough to cut armaments and instill pacifist ideas, in the opinion of military authorities here. They demanded that the film version of "All Quiet on the Western Front" be banned.

Military officials say the recent arms conference, with its attendant propaganda, has done enough to "undermine" the militant spirit of the youth. They demand that if the censors pass the picture, certain "objectionable" scenes be clipped.

In view of the rumpus the military authorities have stirred, the film is not likely to be shown, if at all, until October. At present censors are working on it in the metropolitan police board. Besides the regular censors, high officials of the home office are carefully scrutinizing the film.

Military officials requested the film be shown only before private audiences. The police, on the other hand, declare they will clip most of the scenes depicting the tragedies of war, the agony of dying men and other "objectionable" features, but say they see no reason for banning the picture in its entirety.

Knew Her Diamonds.

My employer told me he had found some rings, wondered whether they were dollar rings and asked if I was a good judge.

So, feeling quite sure of my judgment and taking him seriously as to finding them, after hasty inspection and with an air of sureness, leaving no room for doubt, I told him they surely were dollar rings.

You must guess by this time that I made a horrible mistake, for he choked with laughter and said I had better not let Mrs. Blank hear me say that, for they were her rings! E. J.

Exit Lady.

At 12 o'clock I lock the office and place a card in the door, "Will be back at 1." This particular noon I watched a demonstration of beauty plastic clay, purchased a jar and hurried back to the office to experiment. Callers are few in our office, and as it was after 1, I removed the card, left the door locked and applied the clay. As it was drying I heard a key in the door, and, hastily looking up, I recognized my employer's form through the class. He entered as I arose.

Needless to say, I am no longer with that company. M. I.

A Come-Down.

While in swimming at a pool I got chilly and decided to go to the other side in the sun. I was in a hurry in walking across on the cement and in the rush I slipped and fell flat. You can imagine my embarrasment when one person shouted, "Where do you get it?" D. T.

Food Talk.

A little French place here in Chicago, well known for its good food, is especially famous for French dressing. This is often served over coarsely torn head or big Boston lettuce. Every time I've seen this salad course served, it has been a ceremony in which guests pause, analyze and comment as they consume the delicious concoction. The flavor is often described as exotic and this makes me wonder if we believe that certain food creations are not for our native attainment. I am persuaded that any American can become just as skillful if he or she is willing to pay the price for acquiring skill.

There is little fresh invention in salad dressings now-a-days. One may adapt and change, but for the most part the best recipes are common property. It is left to the cook to make masterpieces or to spoil the product. What is required is execution and enough imagination to dare to be different—vary from the old paths a little. That is why the chef at our little French restaurant has distinguished himself.

If housewives would only be courageous enough to do a little experimenting. The risk is small and the loss cannot be much when it comes to making simple food like French dressing.

The first thing to remember is to choose excellent ingredients. Oil, condiments and acid—and there is such a variety of all these ingredients. One can use olive oil, vegetable, or clear sweet bacon drippings. Each contributes a different flavor. "Of the condiments there is salt, and pepper—white, black, cayenne and paprika, all of which should be freshly ground. Then some sweetenings such as brown or white sugar, honey, maple sugar or sirup. Last are the acids. Of vinegars there are tarragon, cider and wine. Of fruit acids there are lemon, lime, orange and tomato juice. Sirups or solutions in which fruit or vegetables have been pickled also contribute unusual but pleasing flavors. Examples, sirups from pickled peaches and the solution from pickled beets.

Once the dressing is combined there are numerous ways of varying it. Some crumbled Roquefort cheese added makes a delightful dressing for head lettuce. Grated fresh cucumber in French dressing is especially good on tomato salad. Try varying the ingredients in the following recipe and you will learn the secret of obtaining different salad dressings.

FRENCH DRESSING.

½ tsp. white and black pepper, freshly ground,
¼ tsp. paprika,
1 tbsp. tarragon or wine vinegar,
2 tbsp. lime or lemon juice,
2 tbsp. orange juice,
1 tbsp. honey
1 cup salad oil,
1 clove garlic pricked [may be omitted].

Mix dry ingredients and put into a bottle or cocktail shaker. Add vinegar, juices, honey, then oil and garlic. Shake thoroughly just before serving until a creamy emulsion is formed.

Velvet Lingerie Is Last Word in Paris Fancy

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris has created the last word in luxurious paradox—velvet lingerie! Yes, my dear, really! And it's the prettiest fantasy that you can imagine. There are rose velvet nighties and pyjamas with lace trimmed chiffon scarfs in the same tone; apricot velvet panties and brassieres, not to mention flowered velvet chemises and negligees. They're soft to the touch as a kitten's ear and not so impractical as they sound, either, for the French textile creators have invented velvets that may be washed without losing one atom of their shine or souplesse.

The figure at the right of our drawing is wearing a velvet nightie from Julie Morand of wild rose pink trimmed with velvet ribbons in a deeper tone of old rose. Its high-waisted cut is quaintly empire. The velvet ribbon bows tie it snug in front and insure the puffs of the short sleeves. The skirt has a low circular fullness and falls in petal points.

Germans Forbid Mamba.

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The censor today prohibited showing of the American talking picture "Mamba," the locale of which is a former German colony in Africa, as prejudicial to German prestige.

SPECIAL OFFER
Full-Size 35c Tube of Lady Esther 4-Purpose Face Cream for only 10c with Coupon Below
At All Drug and Department Stores

NO MORE COLD CREAMS
No More Skin Foods or Astringents This New Way

A Scientific Discovery that Condenses a Complete Professional Facial Into a Single Application, Taking Less Than 3 Minutes, That Combines the 4 Fundamentals in Skin Care Urged by Experts!

NOW comes a remarkable new development in beauty science. A discovery that experts say will soon change all previous methods in skin care.

A way that condenses the four fundamentals of scientific skin care into a single, three-minute home application! And that provides the exact same effect of a Complete Professional Facial costing $3 or more.

What It Does

It scientifically combats blackheads and enlarged pores, combats them often with almost unbelievable results. It banishes premature age lines, and the lines of strain and worry. For each application works directly on each of these conditions.

Cleansing creams, skin foods, astringents and powder bases are completely eliminated—for the functions of all four are embodied in one unique creation.

It completely eliminates the use of costly special creams and lotions. Of old-time cleansing creams, of skin foods and astringents. For the functions of all four are embodied in this one unique creation.

Do you wonder, then, that largely on expert advice, tens of thousands of women are adopting it?

What It Is

It is called Lady Esther Four-Purpose Cream. And it marks the application of totally new principles in skin care as defined by the most recent scientific findings of ablest specialists in the field of beauty culture.

Each application has four distinct actions on the skin.

Tissue stimulating action that invigorates the deep tissues of the skin. And thus that ends the use of a special "Skin Food."

Astringent action that eradicates worry, strain, and premature age lines, refines pores. And thus that makes the use of youth creams and astringents a folly.

Softening action that forms a perfect base for powder. And thus banishes the need of a powder base.

Those four things it does. Age lines soon go under this daily care. Flabby tissues strengthen and become firm. The skin is kept clean—for the astringent action of this cream closes the pores after they've been cleaned. And thus closes them against accumulations that foster imperfections.

Two Year Olds Need an Outlet, Not Repression

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A play booklet and a toy list will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"John is such a nice little fellow but he is becoming such a care that he actually tires out mother and me and is making us both nervous. Is it our fault, and do we not manage him right?

"He is a big boy, strong and healthy, and two years and three months of age. Some one must watch him all day long.

"We live in the country, but on a well used road, so naturally I can't let him run alone about the house. He might run on the road. His father built him a pen, but now he knows how to get out of it. I've tied him to a tree, but he manages to get loose.

"He has all sorts of toys but takes little interest in them. He never sits down to play a few minutes of the day, just seems to annoy and be in our way all day long. He won't listen and no amount of spanking or even kindness will help.

"At times hep romises to be good—but it only lasts a minute or so afterward. He does obey his father, but he isn't home all the time. What shall I do? His mind is quick and his memory quite accurate."

My dear Mrs. I find it hard to answer your letter because I think it is your general management that is wrong. The main trouble is that your boy is well and active and inquiring and adventurous—all good qualities. You have not yet become used to the idea that he is passing out of the baby phase.

Often children are docile and easy to manage until they have acquired the ability to do things and then the trouble [for the parents] begins.

He must not be kept in a pen or tied to a tree. Isn't it possible for him to have more physical freedom without being endangered by automobiles? I should think your place would have to be fenced in. He needs this freedom. The fact that he cannot be allowed out of doors without being constantly watched is bad for all three of you.

It may also be that you have not found the right toys for your boy. I am enclosing two leaflets that may be helpful. He should play enough with children to learn how to get along with them.

You say he is 'bad,' he is always 'in our way' and that 'he promises to be good.' You must remember that what may be terribly inconvenient to us does not seem wrong from a two year old's point of view. He is too little to 'try to be good.' He simply needs to have his energy directed.

I think that you may be helped by a little reading on the subject of child management. Here is a booklet and a book:

"Child Management" — Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C.

"Child Care and Training," by Faegre and Anderson, published by University of Minnesota Press.
